Mr. WILLIAM E. HODGKINS has been for over 30 years connected with the firm of Chas.
A. Smith & Co. (for 20 years as partner). He has had, for many years, sole charge of the buying and manufacturing departments of the old business.

Mr. EDWARD W. HODGKINS has been for 13 years connected with the same firm.
The customers of the old firm are invited to continue with the new organization, and will be served from an entirely new, large and beautiful stock, whilst the greatest care will be used to secure the most perfect and satisfactory mechanical results.

—There will be a special Easter service at Channing church at 3 p.m., next Sunday by the Sunday school; there will be recitations, readings and singing. The young men's orchestra will assist. The public are invited.

—The Social Science club will meet at Mrs. C. W. Loring's, Wednesday, April 4, at 10 p.m. Mrs. Abby Morton will give a paper on "The Ethics of Nationalism." Each member may invite a friend.

—Miss Consens, the contralto singer of Grace church choir, is to sing "He was despised," from the oratorio of the Messiah, at the church meeting in Eliot church, this Good Friday night. The attendance will be almost equal to the capacity of the building.

—The Newton Baptist Sunday school will give an Easter Concert Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The program consists of recitations, readings, and singing by the children, with an address by a lady speaker to be announced later. All are cordially invited.

—Mr. E. H. Cutler of Franklin street, sailed for Europe last Saturday, and will go to London and Paris to Nice, for the benefit of his health. He took a severe cold at the Thanksgiving day fire, when his Boston store was burned, and his health has not been good since.

—Aban, Trowbridge & Co. have sold the lot corner of Maple street and the new corner of Mr. Morgan's house, to Wm.
Haddock of this city who will build there shortly. They have rented the west half of the Minot House in Morse street, to W.
Reading of Boston, also the west half of the double house in Trowbridge court to Eben Smith of Woodland.

—The Old Folks Concert, Wednesday evening, attracted a very large audience to Eliot Hall, and they found the concert very entertaining. The singers were in ancient costumes, some of which were very quaint, and the songs and hymns matched the dresses. One of the great successes of the evening was the old-fashioned singing of the ancient Mr. Ida Quartet, which was heartily applauded. Miss Philbrick's singing was much admired, and the Harvard Quartet was an excellent feature. The concert was a success in every way and a substantial sum was netted for the society.

—The vesper service at the Channing church Sunday evening was listened to by a large congregation. The choir presented Mr. J. Eliot Trowbridge's "Emmanuel." Miss Glass of Boston taking the place of the popular soprano, Miss Coffin, who was heartily applauded. The oratorio is excellently suited for a quartet choir, especially such skilled singers as those in the Channing quartet, and the organ movements were beautifully rendered by Mr. R. H.
Clouston, Jr. Rev. Mr. Hornbroke made a brief address on topics connected with the subject of the oratorio.

—Mr. W. B. Beal has secured a patent for a car seat, which is said to be a great improvement over the awkward contrivance now in vogue, with its projection on the arm, so trying to clothes and temper. His patent does away with all these, and can be reversed without any danger of catching the fingers, and is so constructed as to be free from danger of breaking. Railroad men who have looked it over are confident that it will be generally adopted as soon as its feasibility is proved, and of this there is said to be no doubt. It is a curious thing that no improvement has been made in car seats, almost since they were first used, although the present arms
to the seats are so liable to be broken that

were first used, although the present arms
to the seats are so liable to be broken that some 12 or 15 cars on the Boston & Albany route to the repair shop at Allston every week, for that reason alone.

—Mr. H. J. Woods' opening of spring millinery attracted a large number of ladies to his store on Elmwood street, this week, and it was conceded to be the finest display for a number of years. The beautiful flowers, which are to be used in great profusion on hats and bonnets this year, ad greatly to the attraction of the display,
among them being pansies in all colors,
morning glories, forget-me-nots, cowslips, grey gill (a favorite combination), and a stylish toque of this description was sold the first day. Black lace bonnets will be very popular, and there are many new shades in velvets, ribbons and flowers, among which are apricot, and a purplish shade of old rose. Judging from the many sales of pattern hats and the large number of orders taken, the opening was the most successful Mr. Woods has ever held.

—The State inspection of Co. C, 5th Regt., M. V. M., was held in its Armory, Washington street, Monday evening. It was conducted by Col. R. F. Barrett of Gov. Brackett's staff, assisted by Major Benyon of the 5th Regt. The command turned out with good numbers, 48 men and 3 officers answering the roll call. The men made a creditable appearance and their arms and equipments were found in good condition. In the drill the company movements were excellent, and the manual of arms was well executed, the work of the company in these respects being pronounced excellent. Capt. Applin is a painstaking officer and drills the men thoroughly, paying close attention to the essential details. After the exercises, a collation was served in the officers' apartments. The drill was witnessed by a large number of interested spectators.

—The entertainment in Channing Parlors, Monday evening, was for the benefit of the Channing mission church in Jakes-town, Dakota, one of the ladies having written to a Newton friend that they were greatly in need of a hundred dollars. It is probable that some over that sum was realized, and that the very generous and
"The Loan of a Lover" proved very entertaining. Mrs. Walter H. Stearns taking the leading part of "Gertrude" in a charming manner. The other characters were also well played. Miss Jennie Peterson, as Ernestine, Mr. W. A. Wetherbee as Capt.
Amersfort, Mr. Sydney R. Bartlett as Peter Spyk, Mr. R. A. Ballou as Snyzel, and Mr. D. Barrows as Delve. The second act was the very amusing opera, "Cox and Box." Mr. W. A. Wetherbee appearing as Cox, Mr. F. A. Wetherbee as Box and Mr. Chas. A. Drew as Sergeant Bouncer. Mrs. F. A. Wetherbee was accompanied. Mrs. John D. Barrows presided at the piano and Mr. John C. Cole played the violin. The committee who were in charge of the entertainment were Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Bailey, Mrs. J. D. Barrows, Mrs. F. A. Wetherbee and Mr. J.
Edward Hills.

—Tuesday evening the Mission Band connected with the Newton Baptist church gave a novel and interesting entertainment.
The choir was more than filled with friends, and when the curtain was drawn back, the platform was seen to be effectively decorated with flags for a background. Miss Clara Sheppard, personating America, was draped in the national colors and flags, and holding a flag in her hand, appeared and made a beautiful speech, rejoicing in her wealth and prosperity. She exulted in her broad lands and showed her that the very greatness and prosperity in which she exulted, increased her responsibility toward those nations less favored than herself. Representatives of the different nations then appeared in costly and telling of the darkness and ignorance and wretchedness of them, and praying enlightened America to lift them out of their degradation and misery. America saw her mistake, and called up her children to carry the gospel of light and liberty to the heathen. The singing of missionary hymns followed, while the ten American children brought their mite boxes and one offers herself for mission work. The heathen women represented were the Siamese, Karens, Chinese, Japanese, Africans, Esquimaux and Hindoos. The whole affair was excellently managed, and some $50 were raised for the treasury of the Mission Band. Those who took part were photographed in costume by Odlin Fritz.

Death of Frederick Howard.

The many Newton friends of Mr. Frederick Howard, of the firm of Howard Brothers, the Newton ice dealers, were greatly shocked to learn that he had shot himself, Monday morning, at his home on Elmwood street, in the Watertown district. He had a severe attack of the pre-valing epidemic in the winter, which left him weak, and it was followed by a severe attack of rheumatism, and he suffered greatly. It is thought that the pain affected his mind, and the deed was undoubtedly done in a fit of temporary insanity. He used an old army revolver, and the ball went into his forehead. He lingered until about 3 o'clock the following morning, but did not recover consciousness. He was attended by Dr. Utley of this city and Dr. Kelley of Watertown, but was past medical skill.

Mr. Howard was 57 years of age, and was born in Bangor, Me., but had lived in Watertown since 1860, and during all that time, with the exception of about a year, when he was in the army as a member of the 11th Massachusetts battery, has been engaged in the ice business.

He is a member of Isaac B. Patten post
No. 1, G. A. R. of the Pequot lodge of the Free Masons and of the Knights of the lodge of Knights of Honor. He has a wife and five children who have the sincere sympathy of the whole community.

The funeral was held yesterday afternoon from his late residence on Elmwood street. Many prominent people attended. A delegation of 50 men was present from Pequot lodge of Free Masons and 40 comrades from Isaac B. Patten post
No. 1, G. A. R. Rev. W. H. Savage of the First Parish (Unitarian) Church conducted the services, at the close of which showed a very post and Masons escorted the body to the Newton line.

The post then returned to headquarters, while the Masonic body proceeded by barges to the Newton cemetery, where, with Masonic services, the body was placed in the receiving tomb. Among the floral pieces was an open book, with Masonic symbols and a broken harp, a wreath, an anchor, a pillow, "My Brother," in blue immortelles, was on a wreath from William C. Howard; the employees sent a design of Easter lilies in the shape of a cake of ice, on which, in immortelles was an ice hook, axe and tongs.

Newton C. E. Union.

The next regular meeting of the Newton Christian Endeavor Union will be held with the Universalist Society at Newtonville, on Monday evening, April 14th. The evening will be devoted to a social and entertainment. Supper will be served in the vestry at 7 o'clock. All member cordially invited.

FIRST ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ALICE WILLISTON HOME FOR ORPHAN AND DESTITUTE CHILDREN.

The twelfth meeting of the Advisory Board of the Alice Williston Home for Orphan and Destitute Children, marks the end of our first year of work. The Board met and organized in the Parish House of Grace Church, Newton, March 25th, 1889. Nine members were present. The Board has held monthly meetings and has tried in every way to help Miss Williston in her noble work, a work which for nine years she has carried on entirely alone, with no regular income. She has received a little money from the parents or guardians of some of the children. Occasional gifts from friends and from Trinity Church and other societies have been her main support. With this Miss Williston has kept her Home free from debt, warmed, fed and clothed from 15 to 20 children at one time and saved $3500.00 toward the purchase of a permanent Home. This in itself is remarkable yet with it all Miss Williston has never failed in doing her duty to the little ones entrusted to her care. The sweet and kindly influences of a mother's care have gone out to these little souls and no boy or girl who has been inmate of the Home but has received benefit and we trust a lasting benefit from Miss Williston's care. No one who has ever visited the Home can doubt this loving influence, for the children know no fear and expect only love from all with whom they come in contact. Dr. Brooks truly said, "this is a Home not an institution."

Our Board now numbering seventeen has not accomplished as much as was desirable, yet the year has been far from unprofitable.

The first assistance rendered Miss Williston was by Mrs. Jaynes who most kindly helped arrange a concert for May 24th. It was held in the parlors of the Unitarian Church, West Newton. Miss Williston's friends gave their services and $40.00 was secured.

June 6th a Sale and Strawberry Festival was held in Auburn Hall, Auburn, Mass. Mrs. L. W. Chapman, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Bacon, Miss Newell and others managed this. They realized $106.00.

A sea-shore place was found for Miss Williston to go to for a week in July. Mrs. Lowe kindly took her into her home for a week or so.

At an informal meeting held at Mrs. Lowe's Sept. 20th, a number of girls met and formed a society, or club, to sew for the Home. They have met every two weeks through the winter.

On Dec. 6th a Rainbow Sale was held in the Unitarian Church parlors, West Newton, at which $800.00 was realized. Miss Newell and Miss Welch owe much of the success of this sale to the untiring efforts of Mrs. Lowe and Mrs. Ritchie also Mrs. Bacon, Mrs. Putnam and the many young people who very kindly interested themselves. The Girls Club helped greatly in selling tickets and in other ways both before and after the sale.

Most sincere thanks are due to the Unitarian Society for the use of their parlors, pi. no etc., on this occasion as well as many others, also to Grace Church for the use of its parlors whenever meetings have been held in Newton.

About one hundred dollars of the Sale money was used to furnish the Boy's Ward.

This brings us to the little sewing school under the direction of the Misses Field, held at the Home every Thursday at 3.30 p. m. The weekly sewing is done at this time, mostly by the Misses Field. The children are taught to do what they can. This is a great success. Christ-mas eve, the children were entertained by the Unitarian Society as usual.

A concert for the benefit of the Home was arranged by Mrs. W. F. Chapman for Jan. 20th. The use of the hall was kindly given. Mr. Goodrich and Miss White gave their services; $150.00 was cleared.

Since the first of the year Miss Williston has arranged for a service at the Home every Sunday afternoon. Dr. Shinn and Rev. Mr. Jaynes have most kindly volunteered to conduct a service one Sunday a month. As the little family go to Rev. Mr. Patrick's church now, this service is not kept up so regularly.

The thirteen dinners promised by the thirteen ladies of the greatest assistance to Miss Williston, for by this means she is free from a butcher's bill.

The visiting committee from the Advisory Board must not be forgotten. Two ladies from the Board have tried to visit the Home twice a month at least. Some have been able to accomplish more than others, but no one has given in vain.

Oct. 1st our President, Mrs. G. W. Shinn, was obliged, much to our regret to resign owing to ill health. Mrs. George Lowe was appointed to fill her place.

The first of November, Miss Williston with the aid of Mrs. Chapman, secured a mortgage on the Home of $7,000.00. As soon as possible Miss Williston paid down $2000.00. Then came Mrs. E. T. Eldredge's generous gift of $1000.00 which was paid on account of the mortgage, leaving a balance due of $4,000.00 at 5 1/2 per cent per annum.

Mr. Read has lowered the rate to 5 per cent now. Through the influence of Mr. C. C. Read, in behalf of Mrs. Eldredge, Miss Williston has made a Declaration of Trust which places her Home on a thoroughly secure business foundation. She holds the property only as trustee; this Declaration is irrevocable. It is made in consideration of receiving the one thousand dollars from Mrs. Eldredge, and in consideration of future contributions to be made by other persons.

Dec. 16th the Williston Home was formally opened. Mrs. Tolman, Mrs. Chapman, Mrs. Lowe, Mrs. Bacon and others were of great assistance to Miss Williston at this time. Rev. Mr. Jaynes was in charge of the exercises; Rev. Drs. Brooks, Calkins and Mr. Warren assisting.

Feb. 14th Dr. Edward Everett Hale visited the Home and gave a little talk to the children.

The following letter was received from Miss Williston:

Children's Home, West Newton.
Knowing that tomorrow is the anniversary of our Advisory Committee, I desire to send you my earnest and hearty thanks for all that you have so generously done for our little Home.

Will you please then accept and give to our dear President and to each and all of her associate members, our most sincere thanks for this year's work.

Certainly, we may all see good accomplished, and may we not say also the prospect of a much larger fulfillment of our hopes in the future.
Thanking you each and all "In His Name" under whom we are all living and working, I am most gratefully yours, ALICE WILLISTON.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

The Century Dictionary.

This work aims to be a dictionary, an encyclopaedia and a collection of at least a score of technical dictionaries, combined within the compass of one work under one alphabetical arrangement in such a manner as to constitute a harmonious whole. This aim has been successfully accomplished, and the result is a work of almost universal reference that no intelligent person can afford to be without. The Century Dictionary has over 200,000 separate entries—nearly twice as many as any other American dictionary—besides an immense number of idiomatic phrases. The first impression is that to secure so many entries the work must have been made up largely of obvious derivatives and useless compounds, but such is not the case. At least two thirds of the additions are new scientific and mechanical terms and technical terms in the various arts, sciences, trades and professions. The other third is composed of important old words overlooked by the makers of the other dictionaries, new words which have recently come into the language, like "barrel" and "boom" and "buddle," even slang terms which are becoming a part of the language, like "crank" and "dude," and words and phrases from other languages, of common occurrence in English literature and speech.

The most striking feature of this work as a dictionary is the wonderful thoroughness and exhaustiveness of its definitions. Of our common words, not only are tens of thousands of meanings of such words here given for the first time, but the definitions as a whole have an authority, a precision, a clearness and an actual conformity to the usages of the language not to be found elsewhere.

The definitions are greatly helped by innumerable illustrative quotations taken from the whole body of English literature, from Chaucer to the current periodicals.

Other specially notable features as a dictionary are its careful discriminations in treating synonyms and its etymological riches. The system of indicating pronunciation is easily understood, and all signs and abbreviations used in the work are given at the beginning of each volume or section.

Its most impressive features as an encyclopaedia are its comprehensiveness (at least one half the entire work is made up of entries being treated encyclopedically), the immense amount of information not to be obtained elsewhere which it gives about details, and its strictly alphabetical arrangement. In the writer's judgment, all things considered, this is a more convenient, accessible, practical and useful encyclopaedia for the requirements of every day life in the last decade of the 19th century than any work which bears that name. The time is past when we buy encyclopaedias to read. Their use to-day is for reference, and as such this work is a simply incomparable.

The Century Dictionary in its mechanical features is perfection. The illustrations, of which there are to be between six and seven thousand (many of them of rare and curious objects never before pictured) are a positive delight to the eye, while as aids to the text they convey more, and more trustworthily pictorial information than any other similar collection.

Wide Awake is delighted with its suggestions of Easter and early spring. The frontispiece is a beautiful illustration of "Easter offerings," a boy and white-robed girl bearing lilies in their hands, drawn by W. L. Taylor. "The Pilgrims' Easter Lily," by Hezekiah B. Terwath, makes an appropriate opening article. Among the spring verses are lines upon "Sanguinaria" by Francis Allen, and "A Transformation" by Marguerite Lippincott, while a pretty talk of the "English Primrose" is quite in season. There are several excellent historical stories in the number, notably "How Simon and Sancho Panza Helped," which introduces General Washington, by Oliver R. Seward. "What is a Name?" is an interesting sketch by the Chief Clerk of the Smithsonian Institution, who gives an amusing list of mispelled names of the Smithsonian. "Men and Things" are bright bits from various contributors, and there is much solid reading in the concluding articles. D. Lothrop Company, publishers.

The Thanks of the Commonwealth.

The following resolutions tendering the thanks of the Commonwealth to Admiral Lewis A. Kimberly, have been presented to the legislature:

Resolved, That the heroism and fortitude displayed by Admiral Kimberly of the United States flag-ship, "Trenton," and by the officers and crews of the United States fleet in the terrible hurricane of March sixteenth, eighteen hundred and eighty-nine, which was so destructive to property and life in the fleet under Admiral Kimberly's command, at that time in the bay of Apia, Samoa, is deserving of public recognition.

Resolved, That the general court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts hereby express to Admiral Kimberly, and the officers and crews of the United States ships, "Trenton," "Vandalia," and "Nipsic," the high appreciation entertained of their fidelity to duty, and their heroic deeds in the service of the country.

Resolved, That these resolutions be engrossed, and signed by the president and clerk of the senate, and by the speaker and clerk of the house; and that his excellency the governor be requested to sign the same, and affix the great seal of the Commonwealth thereto, and forward these resolves to Admiral Kimberly.

The merit of Mellin's Food consists not only in its superiority over other substitutes for mother's milk, but also in the readiness with which it is prepared. It is a real blessing to the busy or tired mother, for a very few minutes' night and morning are all that is necessary to prepare the baby's food for twenty-four hours.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respected consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

Much Frightened.

The tremendous tumult in camp aroused by the intimation that a tax might be laid upon hides recalls a story some time since in the Courier. The wife of a Polish Jew resident in the Hub had been summoned before a magistrate. Her husband appeared with her and asserted that she could neither understand nor speak English, Polish nor Hebrew. He finally owned that she could speak a little German. The magistrate began questioning her in that language, and when she was off her guard, carelessly remarked in good Anglo Saxon "Is that a mouse under your chair?" The woman jumped and shrieked and the magistrate quietly said: "Ah, you do understand English." "Sometimes, when I am much frightened I know it a very little," replied the woman.

The leather interests and the boot and shoe industry have been very ignorant of "Tariff Reform" Language. It was a well known tongue to them. But when somebody whispered, "Is n't there a cent and a half on hides?" they jumped and howled as if they too were "much frightened," and had received a sudden influx of knowledge as to the Language of Tariff Reform.

New England Industries.

As one interested in the "Iron Manufacturers Petition," and strong in the faith that all manufacturers should have an open market for the purchase of their raw material in order to attain the greatest success, you may excuse me if I treat the subject in a general way, and note some facts that have been forced upon me during the past year. Two years ago, but few Republican manufacturers could be found that had the courage of their convictions, and would openly and publicly declare that free raw materials were essential to a successful business. If the readers of the GRAPHIC could have been at the hearing before the "Committee on Federal Relations" at the State House, Monday the 17th inst., they would have realized a marked change in this respect. Out of that large number representing the Iron interests of the State appealing to our Senators, and Representatives in Congress through the General Court, we find but four Democratic manufacturers, the balance Republican, demanding free raw materials and an ad valorem duty of 24 per cent on Iron.

The Hon. Peleg McFarlin, Republican Senator for three successive years from Plymouth County, pictured with emphatic clearness a panoramic view of the disused and ruined iron plants all over the Commonwealth, caused by this excessive, and unjust tax. He voiced the honest sentiment of every Iron manufacturer in declaring that the request of the petitioners was essential to the maintenance of the present plants, and to resuscitate those taxed into bankruptcy, plants representing millions of dollars, and capable of giving employment to thousands of workmen. I have queried many times, why these interests have so suffered and carried the burden to their grave, without making a united and determined resistance? Surely the people of New England have the right to demand of our Congressmen their support and defence of one, if not the greatest industry of this section, the birthplace of all the manufacturing interests of the nation. To quote Hon. McFarlin, "the party that attempts to force the New England, where a question of justice is involved, has a heavy contract on its hands."

Pennsylvania, Ohio, and the South have not only strangled the iron mills of New England, but are making inroads, and dealing death blows at our foundries, and machine shops. To my knowledge, they have delivered in Boston, plate castings, when out of the flask, and cleaned off and labor ceased, for 15 per cent less than it is possible for any New England foundry to cast them under the present tariff. Unless we are allowed a small amount of the natural advantages, the day is not far distant, when our foundries and machine-shops will be forced to become merely repair shops. Well may it be questioned with alarm, when we see our large iron contracts for public buildings going to the South and West.

Manufacturers tell us with the conditions they ask for, they can keep these contracts in New England where they belong, and give employment to that vast throng of workmen in the Forge, Foundry and Machine-shop, the wages of which would make all New England tradesmen more prosperous.

We not only find Congress apparently indifferent to this great industry of New England, but its leaders, who shape its policy, proposing additional taxes to burden another New England industry that has enjoyed unprecedented prosperity since a portion of our foundries, and machine shops have been allowed to come to them free of tax. This proposition is met with a storm of indignation from the would be protectionists on raw materials for other manufacturers. It is essential, as the leather men say it is for them to have raw hides to continue their present prosperous business, why not be equally honest, and give the Iron and Wool manufacturers those raw materials as they demand, and assure us will restore their lost business? Those industries having comparatively free raw materials, viz., cotton, paper, silk and leather, have prospered to a degree unknown to those industries whose raw materials are burdened with taxation. If our manufacturers could obtain their material in the cheapest possible market, their machinery would be continually running, giving a new impetus to the machine-shops and foundries in replacing worn out machinery or worn out inventions, labor would be constantly employed, as the surplus product would find, and successfully enter the markets of the world. This is the solution of the whole problem.

This fact was more forcibly brought to my mind this summer during a conversation with Henry Buckley Esq., in his office in Birmingham, England. The Commission house of Samuel Buckley & Co., is one of the largest in England; shipping goods all over the world. To prove that Mr. Buckley's knowledge of the manufacturing interest is worthy of consideration, I will state, that he was invited, and did deliver a paper before the British Parliament upon the manufacturing interests of England, some weeks prior to this conversation.

Some of his remarks are worthy of the American Manufacturers attention, as they bear directly upon the questions of the day. I desired to know the condition of the manufacturing interest of England and labor under the present policy. He told me that since that change, the laboring classes have kept pace with it, both socially and intellectually, and wages have been advanced from 20 to 75 percent. This improvement has been wonderful, and only a few croaking politicians and the old regime, "Mr. Buckley, our American manufacturers are demanding free raw materials and the day is not far distant when the politicians will be forced to succumb to their demands, and we shall then enter some of your markets for trade." "I hope your policy will not change," he said, "and saying, 'every man for himself,' and whilst I, in the abstract, am strongly in favor of free trade, I fear my virtue would fail me if the Government should tax a monopoly for my benefit, and for this reason I do not desire to see the American duties repealed, because if they were, whilst for a very few years my firm would undoubtedly do an enormously increased business with your side, I am satisfied that it would be only for a very short period, and that you would find the cost policy so much reduced that your work people would be able to work much cheaper than they do now, and still be as well off as at the present time, and that, we should find we had not only lost the supposed increase that was to come to us, but in addition to this, find you competing with us in every market of the world in a manner which you cannot do now, solely for the reason that your protective duties increase the cost of manufactures to such an extent that in the great bulk of trade you are unable to compete with this country. As regards the position of the working man in England, I believe he was never as well off as he is to-day; that is to say, the purchasing power of his sovereign is greater than it ever was, and in addition to this the hours of labor are shorter than they are in any other country, but whilst this ought to be a benefit, it certainly is not an unmixed one, for many families are not so well off as they would be if the bargaining for money, and the time spent in the public house. One thing that is rapidly improving the condition of the working classes is the compulsory education in large towns. When I was a boy, and first came to the office, I suppose we had every Saturday six or eight hours coming for money, and many of them young, who could not write their names, but only put their mark, and now I doubt whether these people come in a year, who make their mark, and they are of the passing generation." Is n't it about time our people demanded a "revision of the tariff on New England lines," and see to it, that only such Representatives in the future receive their votes as can honestly represent their views? This policy only will command the attention and respect of the politicians, and the sooner some of our leaders adapt themselves to this practical position, the sooner will they force honesty into politics.

SAMUEL SHAW.

The Late John S. Farlow.

The Boston Correspondent of the Hingham Journal, who is a well known Newton citizen, sends the following to that paper.

In the death of John S. Farlow the mercantile community of Boston has lost one of its foremost men of the country; the railroad interests of the country one of its keenest, shrewdest and most practical leaders; the political well being of the State and the country a fearless advocate and independent thinker, and society at large one of its brightest ornaments.

It is nearly sixty years ago that I made his first acquaintance as I passed to and fro from my residence in South Boston to the old Latin school on School street. He was then in the employ of Clement Willis, grocer, corner South and Summer streets, and though there was comparatively little difference in our respective ages, I regarded him then as I have ever since, as one to look up to as a leader. Through circumstances of a business and social nature that association has remained unbroken and unimpaired to the day of his decease, and the same distance, measured by esteem and respect, has been kept up.

To me he was always a leader whether in business or in politics, and there has never been a time when my following was not willing and hearty, and in this I am not only giving my own experience, but voicing the opinions and example of hosts of others. With him to will was to do, and he was a leader in the matter of the Railroad and Burlington mortgage bonds and the judiciary of Ohio in the matter of the Sandusky railroad, which he rescued from worse than bankruptcy and a thieves' set, and by masterly combinations placed the present system, of which he was president, in the front rank of the great railroad enterprises of the country.

Mr. Farlow was constitutionally opposed to all shams and all frauds, whether mercantile, political or social, and he always had the courage of his convictions in advocating what he believed to be right and opposing what he thought to be wrong. He avoided public office, or public notoriety, and nothing but a severe conviction of duty ever tempted him to leave the paths of private life. Unfortunately the city of Boston, the home of his boyhood, his youth and early manhood, did not reap the advantages of those amenities which endeared him to his fellow men.

It was not till after he had laid the foundation of his large fortune that he chose for himself a permanent home, and then he fixed upon the beautiful suburb of Newton, then a town, now a city. It is over thirty years since he located there, and from that time to the day of his death his name and his efforts have been conspicuously associated as a leader in whatever of charity, benevolence and the advance of public interests and public improvements have characterized the growth of that city, and the monuments of his goodness, his liberality and his large-hearted Christianity are scattered throughout its length and breadth. The gap which his death has left in the business world is not so easily filled; but in losing John S. Farlow the city of Newton as a city and its people have lost one whose place it will be hard to fill.

A Just Tribute.

(Springfield Republican.)

Not only will Mr. Farlow's departure be mourned by everybody in the city of Newton, but his many friends in Boston and throughout Massachusetts will keenly appreciate that a power for good has been lost. This man was one of the sterling old guard of republicans who for some years have been independent in politics, brought to this position by the strength of deep and unchanged convictions, men who place country above party as a matter of practice as well as of principle. Mr. Farlow was in special measure the guide and friend of young men in politics, ready to lead them along the lines which had made him an uncompromising republican in earlier years, always unselfish in this, and governed by a clear sense of political tendencies and conditions. He will be much missed by the Boston reformers, old and young.

Summary Justice.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

Del Norte, Colo., March 16, 1890.

Much has been said against the practice of western settlers taking into their own hands, the apprehension, trials and execution of offenders against the law, when the sanctity of home or grave errors have been committed against the public peace. In good old Massachusetts where there is a remedy for all evils in our courts, and where our judges are not influenced by political or other outside influence, there is a true equality in the eyes of the law. In the west, particularly in the newly settled sections, politics cuts a prominent figure in the appointment of local justices and verdicts are rendered in accordance.

About two weeks since a local desperado, but twenty-four years of age, while intoxicated, chose as a Sunday evening diversion to "run the town," in other words, mounting his horse with another companion equally vicious, they drove about the streets, firing their revolvers and Winchester at the residents or their houses. Having been committed to the jail by the sheriff, who arrested them at the point of his Winchester, and at imminent peril of his own life, the town once more felt it safe to venture abroad. The principal offender here mentioned had served one term in the reformatory and another in the Penitentiary and yet when brought up on this charge was fined $50 and committed in default of payment.

But such spirits are uneasy and do not stand confinement well, and it was but a few days before one of these precious rascals fell into a decline and needed a physician to attend him. Medicine was left with the Sheriff which was administered as directed.

The treatment of the case was such that on Thursday P. M. the patient while taking his medicine recovered completely and showed his appreciation of his nurse's care by seizing him when off his guard and with the assistance of his old companion and a Mexican prisoner, bound and gagged him and made their escape on horses and with arms supplied them by their friends.

An hour later the town folks discovered the state of affairs, and turned out en masse. Parties made up of determined men struck out in different directions. Every man was mounted and well armed. A few staid at home to prepare the ever returning ropes in anticipation of their return. Fate had ordered it otherwise. Less than two days later the pursuers found their hiding place, which they surrounded and calling upon them to surrender, they were answered with an oath and a shot from a rifle; this was returned by the whole body of pursuers, with the result that night, he expired.

Three desperate men who but a moment before defied the law, lay dead pierced by many bullets. What is the sequel? The coroner, verdict "died while resisting arrest," a funeral, and a long drawn breath by the community that where no offenders are passed away where no one can be injured by the future. Is there any wonder that short methods are adopted to insure justice in this community? RASUMS.

A SHOW OF JUSTICE.

The older residents of Wards Five and Six think that they have justice on their side, when asking for an appropriation for the conveyance of pupils to the High School, and they certainly have some reason for so thinking.

In old town days, there was an advanced course for some two or three years at the Mason school, where pupils from the Centre, Falls and Highlands received instruction, and very few from those sections attended the High School on this side of the city, and which then had only about one hundred pupils. It was proposed that the advanced course at the Mason school be given up, and the pupils sent to the High School, as it was believed that a good deal of money could be saved by this consolidation. To induce the parents of Wards Five and Six to consent, an offer was made of an appropriation for the conveyance of pupils, and after a good deal of controversy the matter was settled on this condition, and the two sections of the High School consolidated. So well was the condition understood that no objection to the appropriation was made until recent years, when the arrangement has been evidently forgotten by the members of the school board, for no reference has been made to it in the debates on the question.

Alderman Pettie, who was one of the active parties to this arrangement, thinks it is very strange that there is no longer a disposition to comply with the condition, and says that the people in his section were perfectly satisfied with the advanced course offered at the Mason school, and did not desire to send their children to the High School, only consenting as a matter of economy for the city. If the appropriation is no longer to be made, he thinks the advanced course should be resumed in the Mason school, or in some of the other Grammar schools on that side of the city. It is his opinion also, that an addition of two years to the Grammar school course would do away with all the overcrowding at the High School, and the trouble that now exists, as two years more in the Grammar school would be all that the majority of pupils desire, or that their parents desire for them.

The fact that the appropriation for the conveyance of pupils was originally a part of a bargain, with the promise that it would be continued, puts a new light on the matter, and entitles Wards Five and Six to ask it as their right, and not as a favor or as charity.

At the meeting of the board of aldermen next Monday evening, the question of buying the Sargent land on Waban Hill for the High Water service reservoir will probably come up. It is a good thing, there are some ten acres there, which can be secured at an average price of 10 cents a foot, if the whole is taken, and if only the five acres actually needed are bought, they will cost within some $7,000 of what is asked for the whole. It would seem to be a good business venture to take the whole, as it would certainly be worth the extra cost, and simply as a speculation the city would lose nothing. It is gratifying to see that progress is being made toward High service, and that in all probability it will be in operation before another winter.

The credit of originating the idea of a reception to Admiral Kimberly is really due to Mr. Fisher Ames, who at first advocated that it be given by the Newton City Government. In speaking of the matter one day to Mr. S. C. Glover, the latter suggested that it be given by the Newton Club, which amendment was accepted by Mr. Ames, and then both gentlemen went to work to carry out the idea, with the result that the suggestion was adopted by the executive committee of the club. Mr. Follett, although he did not originate the idea, deserves great credit for the executive management of the affair, which was one of the notable events in the society life of Newton, and furnished an unanswerable argument for being a member of the Newton Club.

MR. WILLARD MARCY is confident that the present Congress will make an appropriation to pay the old Newtonville bank claim and he was in Washington the most of last month working on the matter. The claim is such a just one that it should have been paid long ago, and perhaps for that very reason it has lain over so long. The committee in charge of the matter has reported favorably, although they have cut the claim down some $20,000. The government has this advantage over private debtors, and besides it can't be compelled to pay even in part. Mr. Marcy has worked so hard on this matter that he deserves to have the claim paid in full.

Newton Free Library.

At a meeting of the trustees of the Newton Free Library on Tuesday evening, a special committee consisting of Ex-Gov. Clinton E. B. Haskell and Julius L. Clarke, submitted the following preamble and resolves, which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The said and sudden decease of our president, Hon. John S. Farrow, has removed from us a long valued friend and associate, an honored citizen and a public benefactor, whose loss brings profound sorrow to us all, and especially to those nearest and dearest to him, be it therefore

Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Farrow we recognize the loss to our community of the broadest intellect, enlarged views, sterling integrity, and generous impulses.

His benefactions to our Free Library and his unwearied labors in promoting its usefulness, entitle him to the gratitude of all who enjoy its present benefits.

His gift of the noble Park which bears his name, and of the Cemetery Chapel which he dedicated to the memory of his friend and the friend of every child, are monuments of his beneficence and public spirit.

Resolved, That in tender consciousness of our great loss, both in personal and public relations, and in kindly expression of our sincere and heartfelt sympathy with his bereaved family, our secretary be hereby directed to transmit to the latter an official copy thereof.

Newton Cottage Hospital.

Mr. Charles A. Davis of Newton Centre has presented to the hospital a parlor organ, and the trustees at their last meeting acknowledged the gift by a vote of thanks to the donor. The organ is light and can be easily rolled about the corridors from one ward to another. The Ladies' Aid Association have arranged to have singing at the Hospital on Sunday afternoons, and the patients have been much gratified the last two Sundays by the singing by a quartette with the organ for accompaniment.

E. A. WHISTON, Secretary.

A Brilliant Affair.

On the evening of April 9, at Association Hall, Berkeley street, in Boston, will be given a brilliant entertainment called "An Evening with Authors and Composers." Mrs. Julia W. Howe will preside. Mrs. Cheney and Mrs. Diaz will read from their own works, the latter choosing extracts from the amusing William Henry Letters. Mrs. E. S. Phelps-Ward has promised to present and unless prevented by ill health will read her own poem "A Love Song." Her husband, Rev. Herbert D. Ward, will read a humorous story "The Secretary's Murder," which will be especially interesting to passengers on the Newton Circuit, as the scene of events is laid in the Boston and Albany Station. Striking musical attractions are added. Mr. Arthur Foote, Mr. Arthur Weld, and Mr. Ethelbert Nevin will play their own compositions, and Mrs. Wymat will sing a group of Mr. Weld's songs.

Spring Suits.

For gentlemen. A large line of new importations of suitings, coatings, etc. are now displayed by Churchill and Beau, well-known tailors of 25 Washington street, Boston. Their patrons include a large number of Newton's prominent men, and they invite all to call and look over their goods.

Fine Furniture.

When buying fine furniture it is always wiser to go to such a reliable house as that of Whidden, Curtin & Co., where exclusive styles are shown, and where one can be sure that every article is well made. This firm also have such an extensive assortment that every taste can be suited, and the novelties in artistic furniture are always to be found first at their large stores, 1 and 9 Washington Street, Boston.

Mr. Asahel Wheeler has discovered a new system of house and ship painting by which a saving of 50 per cent is gained over the present method of painting in general use. Prices of painting to be had at his office in Boston, 145 Milk street, gratis, or mailed for two cents.

James W. Hawley, the "Ladies' Tailor," has just received a fine assortment of fabrics for street and house wear.

Decorated China of every description can be found at McFarlin's China Parlor, 39 Franklin St., at popular prices. See advertisement.

Some thoroughly safe and 7 per cent. real estate mortgages in the cities of Denver and Pueblo, Colorado, can be found at the office of the Security Investment Co., 25 Congress St., Boston.

Board of Health.

The regular meeting of the board of health was held Tuesday afternoon, at City Hall, also a meeting of the aldermanic committee with the committee of the board, to listen to the report of the trustees of the Newton Cottage Hospital, on the building of a new contagious ward, for which they were to get specific estimates on the plans submitted by them, at a previous meeting.

The committee of aldermen, who submitted the estimates, found four builders who were ready to give figures, but only two of them responded; Mr. Henry H. Hunt, and Messrs. Bailey & Hargdon. The figures handed in by Mr. Hunt amounted to a total of $12,408 for the central building, for contagious diseases, with the two wings, one for a morgue, and the other for small pox, with all the requisite called for in the plan. The amount spoken of for expenditure had been $10,000, so figures were obtained for the same with the exception of the small-pox wing which was the least expensive, a reduction from the former price of $3,400.

The figures received from Messrs. Bailey & Hargdon for the same plans and work, not including connection with the cesspools, at $924.30; and without the small-pox wing, $7,800.

The committee of aldermen and Hospital trustees then retired, and the board of health proceeded to business. Mayor Burr presided, and Agent French, Mr. Pettie, Mr. Wiswall, Dr. Frisbie and Mr. Hall, were in attendance. Dr. Frisbie reported an investigation with Dr. Hudson of the well at Thorndike, about which complaint had been made. Dr. Hudson considered the upper well impure, but not in a very harmful condition at present, all the impurities being due to surface drainage. Dr. Frisbie suggested the removal of a heap of dressing above the well, and that the earth around it be raised a foot or more to act as a watershed. The lower well was considered totally unfit for use.

A communication protesting against the delay of the board in attending to these wells was received from the Secretary of the Newton Association of Charities. In reference to the building for a contagious ward at the Cottage Hospital, Dr. Frisbie remarked the need, and that the board consider it advisable that the plans as drawn, be carried out.

A petition from E. A. Lindley, Webster street, to keep one pig with outside run, was read, and without the consent of the board was read.

A communication from the abatement of a nuisance in land drainage near Center street, was read, and the board considered it advisable that the plans as drawn, be carried out.

NEWTONVILLE.

—John F. Payne has been elected an associate member of Charles Ward Post.

—The schools closed Monday and the pupils are enjoying a week's vacation.

—Ex-Gov. Claflin lost a valuable horse, yesterday morning, a victim of blood poisoning.

—Newton Lodge, Order of Eagles, held its regular business session in Tremont Hall, Wednesday evening.

—Mrs. George Kimball has been granted a pension, for the services of her late husband, in the civil war.

—Although third in the bowling tournament, the Newton Club stands second in point of team average.

—Messrs. Higgins & Nickerson have sold one of their new houses on Lowell street to Mr. H. A. Boynton.

—Fast Day brought with it a large attendance of members at the Newton club-house. An excellent luncheon was served by Steward Jordan.

—Rev. Mr. Taylor of the Central church will deliver an address at the Easter concert to be given in the North Evangelical church, Sunday evening.

—At the kindling of the Council fire on Norumbega tribe, Red men, in Tremont wigwam, Tuesday evening, 3 pale-faces received the hunter's degree.

—Miss Post's dancing class closed Monday evening with an assembly, attended by about 25 couples. Dancing and the usual pleasant social features were enjoyed.

—Mrs. E. F. Miller has sold out her millinery business to E. A. and E. Small, but will remain with them for the season, and begged to see her old friends and customers.

—Messrs. Fuller & French have rented C. T. Pulsifer's new house on Clyde street to Mr. D. G. Gerrish of Boston; also Mr. French's house, Newtonville avenue, to T. Brown, Boston.

—Mr. Nelson Brown was thrown from his horse in the square, near Mr. Williams's store, yesterday morning and received a rather severe shaking up, escaping, however, serious injury.

—Postmaster Turner took formal possession of the postoffice this week, succeeding himself, and for our most part, the patrons of the office may be assured of thorough and efficient service.

—Members of the Veteran Firemen's Association are discussing the project of meeting regularly in Newtonville. It is regarded as the most central place and Tremont Hall is favored as a place of meeting.

—The ladies of the Central Congregational church will hold an Easter sale in their church parlors on the afternoons and evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, April 8 and 9. Admission 10 cts. Supper 25 cts. Doors open at 3 o'clock.

—There will be a Sunday school concert at the Universalist church on Sunday at 4.45 p. m. The anthem "Christ our Passover" by G. W. Marston, will be rendered by Mrs. Noyes, Miss F. Leavitt, Mr. Pinkham and Mr. Johnson. All are invited.

—About three score of the neighbors gathered at the residence of Mrs. Austin T. Sylvester last Saturday evening, to listen to a paper entitled, "Summer Days in the Scottish Highlands," prepared by Miss Jeanette A. Grant, descriptive of her visit to Scotland last summer.

—The list of guests at the Newton Club reception published last week, was not a complete one, although it was intended to be so. Among the names left out were those of Mr. Fisher Ames, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Shapley, Mr. and Mrs. Moses G. Crane, and others. The reporters copied the names from the cards presented at the door, and in going over a long list some accidental omissions were made.

—The engraved certificates of the associate members of Charles Ward Post have been issued from the presses of the Buffard Engraving Co., Boston. The design is very beautiful, a battle scene being presented; also well known type of the national insignia—the American Eagle with spreading wings protecting the motto, "Fraternity, Charity and Loyalty." The lettering and general work is very graceful and artistic.

—Joseph Poolford, a Waltham painter, has for some time past been suffering from the effects of "La Grippe," but yesterday, for the first time, went to ride with his son Isaac. As they were driving along Washington street, Newtonville, he was suddenly frightened by a passing train, shed, Young Poolford, in order to save his father, dropped the lines, and both men jumped out. The carriage was overturned and the younger Poolford had a dislocated arm. The old gentleman also suffered severe injuries and fears are entertained of paralysis of the spine and consequent fatal results.

—The tournament, under the auspices of the Newton Club is progressing and several exciting and exciting games in billiards and bowling contests have taken place within the last few days. The record of the games is appended: Bowling—March 17, team 5, Capt. Follett, beat team 3, Capt. Hall, 1322-1272; March 18, team 4, Capt. Follett, beat team 3, Capt. Brown, 1297-1197; March 27, team 2, Capt. Brown, beat team 3, Capt. Hall, 1274-1232; March 28, team 4, Capt. Follett, beat team 3, Capt. Brown, 1325-1240; Pool—March 22, W. Mendell beat E. T. Fearing, 50-42; March 24, John A. Kenrick beat C. B. Coffin, 50-37; J. N. Keller beat C. B. Coffin, 50-37; F. H. Hyde beat C. H. Sprague, 50-35; F. E. Hall beat C. H. Sprague, 50-28; March 28, John A. Kenrick beat E. E. Murdon, 50-18; March 29, E. T. Fearing beat A. H. Mitchell, 50-23; Billiards—March 27, H. N. Baker beat W. H. Mendell, 100-64.

—A camp fire, under the auspices of Chas. Ward Post 62, G. A. R., in connection with a meeting of the associate members of the post and citizens was held in Masonic Hall, yesterday afternoon. The special object of the occasion was the discussion of the project of a memorial hall for Newton. J. Wiley Edmonds camp 109, S. V., attended with a body of members of the city council and many invited guests were present. Mayor Burr acted as temporary chairman, and briefly alluded to the object of the meeting, and spoke in favor of the proposed memorial hall. Ex-Mayor Wm. B. Fowle, a member of the post, Rev. T. C. Holmes, pastor of the First church, Newton Centre, Mr. Arthur C. Walworth, Rev. Francis B. Hornbrook, pastor of the Channing church, Rev. J. B. Gould and Comrade Geo. M. Fiske of Chas. Ward Post, all spoke in favor of the memorial building, the last named gentleman presenting a rough sketch and plans of the proposed structure, to cost about $50,000. The concluding speeches were given by Past Department Commander J. D. Higgins, and Gen. E. W. Hinks, of Cambridge. At the conclusion of the speech-making, an altar flag was presented to J. Wiley Edmonds camp by Maj. S. A. Rantlett in behalf of the post, and badges and certificates of membership were presented to the associate members. It was voted on motion of Representative G. D. Gilman, to authorize the special committee of the post, associate members and city council to add to its numbers a committee to represent the citizens of the city in carrying out the proposed work. After the meeting a collation was partaken of in the banquet hall.

—One of the notable events of the week was a "Mother Goose" masquerade party, given by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Denison at their residence, Walnut street, Tuesday, April 2nd. The guests began to arrive at eight p. m., and were received by "Mother Goose," Mr. William Lucas, and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Dennison.

son. The former wore the costume of a Highland piper and the latter appeared as the "little wee pig" in the fable. The following is the complete list of ladies and gentlemen present and the characters assumed: Mother Hubbard, Harry Langdon; Little Bo Peep, Miss Lillie F. French; Mistress Mary, Mrs. J. T. Wells, Jr.; Little Miss Moffat, Miss Minnie Dennison; Queen of Hearts, Mrs. H. B. Dennison; Jack and Jill, Mr. Harry and Miss Alice Lucas; Little Nancy Nettiecot, Mrs. Dr. Terry; Dandeliondilly, Mrs. Chas. Hamilton; Little Maid, Pretty Maid, Mrs. William Lucas; Cuckoo, Mrs. E. C. Bridgman; Little Betty Blue, Mrs. Henry Churchill; Queens of Spades, Miss Kate Rantlett and Miss Nellie Tewksbury; Peter Pumpkin Eater's wife, Miss J. M. French; Queen eating bread and honey, Mrs. Warren Tapley; Old woman with rings on her fingers and bells on her toes, Mrs. William Osburn; Betty Pringle, Mrs. W. J. Follett, accompanied by her pet pig, "What car! how black I be," Mrs. William Osburn; Old woman with eggs to sell, with petticoat cut round about, Mr. Frank Lucas; Quaker's wife with doll children, Mrs. Harold Clapp; Queens of Clubs, Mrs. Dr. Lewis Dixon; Miss Jane had a bag and a mouse, was in it, Mrs. Fred Sherman; Queen of Diamonds, Miss Bessie French; I love little pussy, Miss Lilla Page; Polly put the kettle on, Mrs. Charles Briggs; Little Jumping Joan, Miss Agnes Clapp; Milkman with teatle hung on his nose, Mr. Charles Briggs; Hot Cross Buns, Mr. William Kimball; Butcher cut his thumb, Mr. Fred Sherman; Dr. Foster with big umbrellah, Dr. Lewis Dixon; Grenadier with beer jug, Mr. W. J. Follett; Simple Simon, Mr. Prince; Pieman, Mr. Chester Guild, Jr.; Little Jack Horner, Dr. Terry; Pumpkin eater, Mr. S. W. French; Dusty Miller, Mr. Henry Churchill; Humpty Dumpty, Mr. R. C. Bridgman; Parson Rook, Mr. G. W. Brown; Little Boy Blue, Mr. Edward Page; Old Father Greasard, Mr. Chas. Hamilton; Fat Boy, Mr. Henry B. Dennison; Tommy Tucker, Mr. Harold Clapp; Miss Primrose, Mrs. Frank Lucas; Dame Trot, Mrs. Chas. Binney; Darby and Joan, Mr. George Lucas and Miss Horace Fealy; Farmer's Wife, with big carving knife, Mrs. William Kimball; Cock a Doodle Doo, Miss Louise Dennison; Rock a Bye Baby, Mrs. Chester Guild, Jr.; Bessie and Jack, Mr. and Mrs. Snooks; Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury; High Diddle Doo, Mrs. Harry Langdon; Hickety Pickety, Mrs. Arthur Watles; As I was going along, Mr. Charles Binney, Little wee, the valter, Mr. S. W. French; Lady Bug, Miss Marion French; Multiplication is Vexation, Mrs. Prince; Powder Locks, Mrs. Simpson; Milk Maid's Lover, Mr. W. A. Hall; Butcher, Mr. Arnold, Pleasant Spring, Mr. S. W. French.

The costume worn by "Mother Goose" is worthy of special mention. It consisted of a red, quilted skirt, black bodice, red shawl, and red cap. The costume was a perfect model of sun flowers, hollyhocks and peonies. It was one of the most amusing and fun provoking parties that has ever been given in the city. Music was furnished by an orchestra and a collation served during the evening.

WEST NEWTON.

—Officer E. C. Holmes has gone to New Hampshire.

—Mr. Geo. E. Crawley sailed last Saturday for Europe, on a business trip.

—J. Wiley Edmonds camp 109, has been presented with a beautiful set of altar flags.

—Alderman Bond is improving slowly in health and is able to walk out a short distance on pleasant days.

—Rev. Mr. Lyle will soon return here for the purpose of permanent residence. He will occupy his former house.

—Mr. E. B. Haskell and Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Frost are registered at the Altamonte Hotel, Altamonte Springs, Fla.

—The board of aldermen will meet Monday evening. There is a possibility of a number of police appointments.

—The last social of the season of the Second Congregational Society will be held in the church parlors, Thursday, April 10.

—Miss G. L. Lemon will be one of the soloists at a society musicale and reception to be given in Chelsea next Tuesday evening.

—The chemical engine proved a very valuable and useful piece of fire apparatus at the fire in H. H. Tilton's house, Sunday evening.

—Felix Arsenault has rented the apartments in Nickerson's block, formerly occupied by C. Seaver, Jr. Mr. Seaver removes to Walton's block about May 1.

—Oscar Bailey has rented the house on Washington street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Sherburne and expects to be settled there about the 20th of the month.

—Mr. B. F. Moore, Superintendent of the Pine Farm School, has tendered his resignation, on account of the illness of his wife and also because of needed rest for himself.

—Union Fast Day services were held in the Baptist church yesterday. The sermon was delivered by Rev. Mr. Fanning, Rev. J. C. Jaynes and Rev. H. J. Patrick participating in the services.

—George Brown, who has been wanted by the police of this city for some time, was arrested with a companion, Jerry Lehman, at Waltham, officers Monday evening. Both men were sent to the Concord jail to await trial for an alleged burglary in Lincoln.

—A special musical program has been prepared for the Easter service at St. Bernard's church. The choir will be assisted by soloists and the organ numbers will be rendered by Miss Maggie Fitz. The decorations will be an especial and beautiful feature.

—The record of proceedings in the court inquiry, conducted by Rear-Admiral Kimberly of this city, was received by the navy department, Washington, D. C. Monday. It is thought that Commander McCalla and the officers of the U. S. S. Enterprise will be Court-martialed.

—A syndicate has purchased a large tract of land, running from the old Eliot estate to the Monks estate on Watertown street. Eliot avenue will be continued to Watertown street and the new street laid out, bringing a large number of house lots into the market, to be sold at reasonable prices.

—The attendance at the preliminary meeting of those interested in forming a local branch of the "Royal Ark" was rather slim. Persons congregating in Nickerson's hall last Friday evening, in response to the call. The state officers, although somewhat discouraged, do not despair of instituting a flourishing lodge here, which they hope will start with a good membership. If the rainy weather continues, the time will soon be ripe to launch the ark.

—The last social, under the auspices of the Unitarian society, was held in the church parlors last Friday evening. There was a large attendance and the many interesting features of the occasion were greatly enjoyed. Some very fine violin numbers were given by Miss Edith Homer, who was accorded a sincere welcome at the hands of an appreciative audience.

—Mr. T. E. Stutson brought down the house with his humorous recitations and character impersonations and several excellent instrumental solos were given. After the entertainment, the usual social features were enjoyed, including dancing.

—An original three-act comedy entitled "Anita's Trial, or Our Girls in Camp," written by Miss Esther B. Tiffany, was brought out for the first time in the parlors of the Unitarian church, Wednesday evening. The play is clever in construction, abounding in amusing incidents, with good opportunities for effective character acting. It was presented with the following cast: Anita, Miss Perrin; Mrs. Deacon Pippin, Miss Wells; Lauretta Pippin, Lucy Allen; Dorothy Pippin, Miss Ramsdell; Aunt Matilda, Miss Purdie; Clover Wells, Miss Mabel Stuart; Ethel Manning, Miss Pratt; Kate Fortescue, Miss Edith Farley; Nan Fortescue, Miss Chase; Mary Hyde, Miss Barker; Helen Jay, Miss Annie Allen. It was repeated last evening, large audiences attending each performance. The proceeds from the sale of tickets will be devoted to the uses of the Ladies' Aid Society, connected with the church.

—A conspicuous figure at the Newton Club reception to Admiral Kimberly last Wednesday evening was his personal friend and neighbor, Commodore Fyffe, says the Boston Herald. The commodore has a most commanding figure, standing, it would seem, over six feet, straight as an arrow, and he is very martial in his gait and manner. He is still a captain, for he has been commodore but a short time, and is connected with the Charlestown Navy Yard, and there is some chance of his going back this time as commandant of the yard. This position is a most important one, and its incumbent is monarch of all he surveys. He is the tenant of a fine large mansion, standing apart from the other buildings, and surrounded by well kept and extensive gardens. The commodore has a charming family, who would do their share of the social duties which are incumbent upon the commandant's household. Mrs. Fyffe is a sweet like-like woman of many accomplishments, and her eldest daughter is a talented musician.

—An alarm was rung in from box 27, at 11.10 o'clock Sunday evening for a fire in the wooden dwelling house, Greenwood avenue, owned and occupied by Homer H. Tilton. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Tilton after the family had retired and the lower part of the house was then filled with smoke. In a short time, its inmates would have been in serious danger of suffocation. Mr. Tilton made his way to the cellar and fought the fire with a hand hose, after the fire department had been summoned. It caught from an overheated furnace, burning fire in the hot-air box, and travelling thence through the floor and by way of the partitions to the roof where the fire had gained a considerable headway. The prompt arrival of the chemical engine and the active work of the firemen alone prevented a serious conflagration. The streams from the chemical arrested the progress of the flames and the fire was soon under control and quickly extinguished. The damage to the house is estimated at $200, on contents, including carpets, $175. The owner was partially protected from loss by insurance placed in two companies.

The last afternoon of the Educational Club was devoted to literature of the Elizabethan age, eliciting the talent of its own members. Mrs. Raymond opened with a fine paper glancing at the character of Joseph Hall, George Herbert, Richard Hooker, and other prominent characters among the writers and theologians of the Shakespeare Ring of the poets that made the reign of Elizabeth and later on, into the golden age of English literature. Mrs. Amelia Davis followed with one upon Ben Jonson. She criticised him as a great lover and praiser of self, low and coarse in many of his utterances, but on the other hand, possessing a humor which if heavy was genuine and pungent. The influence which he exercised over the wits of his time is a proof of the general strength and talent of the man. Shakespeare alone was reckoned as his match in wit combats. She reviewed quite at length, "Every man in his humor," the first piece that procured for Jonson a second-hand reputation. The same subject will be continued at the next meeting, introducing the character of Spenser, Sydney and Bacon.

—A public meeting, under the auspices of the state commandery, Patriotic Order Sons of America, was held in the Nickerson's Hall, Monday evening. It was addressed by Messrs. Fred C. Gilpatrick, E. F. Putnam, national representative, and John Foster, state secretary, the aims and objects of the order being explained and the preliminary measure suggested for the formation and institution of a local camp. The society has for its objects the inculcation of pure American principles and reverence for American institutions; the maintenance of opposition to foreign interference and advancement of the free public school system. The organization consists of a national or supreme camp, with regional and subordinate camps. There is a life insurance feature known as the "Mortuary benefit fund," in which certificates are issued in three amounts, $500, $1,000 and $1,500. The charter list was opened and signed by several present. Lists for additional signatures are in the hands of Messrs. C. Seaver, Jr., Charles M. Potter and C. L. Hathaway, West Newton; John D. Cooper, Auburndale. A second meeting for further preliminary work will be held soon.

Lasell Notes.

The principal with a party of pupils had the pleasure of attending the organ recital of the Lasell church, Newton, and were very much pleased.

The cooking demonstrations closed March 31st, with a supper. Rye short cake, oysters, cake, lemon jelly, chocolate. Some pupils have attended the Lenten lectures at Trinity church, Boston, by Rev. Phillips Brooks.

The Von Balow concerts have been much enjoyed.

Monday evening, March 31st, the pupils' musical rehearsal took place, vocal and instrumental. The school closed Wednesday noon, April 2d. Some forty pupils will remain at the school for the vacation. Many went to their homes, and a party accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard to Washington, to spend the week.

A former pupil and graduate, Miss Stafford, of Harvard annex, spent Sunday at the school, also Miss Matthews, of Packard of '89. Miss Etta Jackson and Mrs. Heller (once Miss Harmon) former pupils, were at the concert Monday evening.

Miss Etta Jackson, with her mother and a sister who was a pupil some years ago, returned last September from a two years' trip abroad, which extended to Palestine and the Nile.

Miss Edna Lowe is entertaining her sister, and several of the pupils have had parents and other relatives with them.

The school will re-open Thursday, April 10, at 9 a. m.

Miss Emily Sheff is to spend the Easter vacation with Miss Ransom.

THE EZOLDS EASTER EGGS.

Not so very many years ago, there lived in a country town four little girls with their father and mother. They were German, and though they had become pretty good Americans, the fond parents clung to many old-time German usages with their children. Of course being the only "furnishers" in a small Yankee town, many of their ways and customs were called by the ignorant "Dutchy." Mr. and Mrs. Ezold and their five little girls were a happy family; they were not poor, neither were they very well off. They owned a good comfortable house and about five acres of land which was very fruitful, and yielded handsomely every year. The father was an invalid, the greater part of the time, and for this reason their home had been made in the country. The little girls were Christine, Katrine, Margaret and Rosina.

The first thing these little girls could remember of Easter was their Easter eggs. On Easter even each sought out a place in the big barn to build her nest. Christine with her chubby arms carrying a bundle of hay to the hardest place to find; Margaret slyly creeping to one corner of the hay-loft; Katrine, after a long talk with mamma, darting into the empty stall and making her nest in the manger; while Baby Rosina, too small to make her own nest, is not counted out of the fun, for papa knows all the best places, and with Baby Rosina in his own arms, departs—no one knows where. Scarcely has the Easter sun risen in all its glory when these little girls are out of their beds, wrapped up warmly, and scampering for the barn, confident that the wonderful Easter hen has been to the nest of each good girl, and laid an assortment of beautiful colored eggs, such as none but the great Easter hen can lay. She has been very generous this year and left five instead of four in each nest; and with their baskets full, they return, delighted and triumphant to the house.

As is the custom, Mamma Ezold sits down and tells again the ever-new story of Easter. The story of our Lord Jesus Christ's resurrection; how he was laid in the sealed sepulcher, and how Christ arose that glorious morn, proclaiming unto men from that day to this that "it is not death to die." She showed her little ones how the beautiful eggs in their baskets were symbols of that glorious resurrection—that bursting of the tomb to appear to the world in a new life. Then there was sung every Easter Sunday morning after the Easter story was told, the Easter hymn, in which all heartily joined:

Angels roll the rock away
Death yields up his mighty prey;
See the Savior quit the tomb!
Giving with immortal bloom!
Alleluia! Alleluia!
Christ the Lord is risen to-day.

Mamma Ezold suggested that the fifth egg in each basket should be given to some little friend who perchance had no such pleasant associations with the day. The children were so anxious to start off with their eggs and an Easter greeting, that hungry mouths were entirely forgotten, until mamma reminded them that breakfast was waiting. Each child selected for breakfast one egg from her private store. As was natural the "homeliest" one was chosen; though which was homeliest was often a matter of deep contemplation. The egg with the child's name upon it in beautiful gold lettering was always the one "saved." The colors of the eggs were usually pink, brown, blue, yellow, purple and red.

The eggs which the Ezold children carried into other homes that year brought about many changes. For in that town Easter and all its joys came and went unheeded. You may wonder a little to learn that it is but a few years since Easter has been taken note of save by Roman Catholics and Episcopalians. So you can see that the Ezolds' Easter in a place where only one church existed, and that a Congregational church, was cause for no small amount of wonderment, especially among the little ones. So it followed that every Easter this "egg-giving" was repeated, and more and more learned of the real meaning of the blessed day.

As years rolled by, Christine became a lass of 10 years, while baby Rosina was a big girl of four. Things which when we first looked at them seemed so bright and happy, were now assuming a really serious and darker look. Mr. Ezold had for two years been confined to a bed of sickness and the whole weight of the burden had fallen heavily upon poor Mrs. Ezold. The bank account, never too large, was fast dwindling into nothingness; and the property was fast becoming valueless from the lack of proper supervision. Though the sick man knew not what was going on in that other room where the good woman sat until late at night, he would have been surprised and pained to know that but for her labors with her needle for the past year they would have been without their home. This day and hour surely coming, she was holding it off with hard work and earnest prayer until her good man should be where there is no more changing or parting. Not far off the angel was waiting. By the next Easter the Ezold children were fatherless and their mother a widow.

On Good Friday, Mrs. Ezold sat with sorrowful thoughts. Her little girls must be told that they could not expect their eggs this year, and she was trying how best this might be done, when glancing from the window she regretfully saw Miss Maria Pipkins tripping to the door.
"Good day, Mrs. Ezold," said she. "I've got a little work here that I can't get on with, and I'd like your advice and help about it. You know I ain't much of a hand at these things myself, and it's real handy to have some one about that I can run to."
To tell the truth, this was the first time she had found that she couldn't do everything herself. For Maria Pipkins to pay for having a basque cut or a skirt draped would be the next thing to hearing she was married. But she had dropped into Farmer Smith's with her sewing, and in her customary manner found mother's heart was deeply touched to see how bravely they bore their poverty, and looked upon their labors more as a privilege than a necessity.

Those who did not see Christine and Katie going from house to house that Easter even heard of their little expedition, and many were the questions asked about many times their story told. Neither did Maria Pipkins neglect to suggest to one and another Mrs. Smith's idea of a dress-maker in the village, doing away with the necessity of going into H— for "every stitch," as Miss Maria expressed it.

When Mrs. Ezold could not understand the meaning of the patronage she was receiving, she had almost unconsciously given up the idea of moving to the city.
Mrs. Smith came in about three weeks after Easter with a new black alpaca to have hemmed and looking up, she said: "Well, you are drove, to be sure, and I knew it. I knew they could if they would, and they have, and I'm right glad of it for your sake and ourn too."
"I don't understand you, Mrs. Smith," said Mrs. Ezold.

"Why, I said this village was big enough to need and support a dress-maker or sewer of some kind. So I just dropped a word on ground where I was awfully sure 'twould spring up and grow like the mustard seed in the bible."
Although Mrs. Smith's reference to scripture was somewhat confused, Mrs. Ezold knew that she had referred to what Miss Maria Pipkins had said for some time after never thought of Miss Maria without a guilty feeling in her heart; for, in truth be it said, Mrs. Ezold had always looked upon her as a "busy-body," much to be avoided. She was contented with every one having their good as well as their bad traits of character, and for these she should search, and also give the credit. Her children were ever after taught to seek the good and not the bad in those about them; and especially were they taught to look upon Maria Pipkins as their friend since the Easter story, and to very rarely say "egg business."—[Springfield Republican.] reached home with empty baskets. On counting the dimes and nickels they found they had $4, and you may be sure they were two happy little girls. The fond mother's heart was deeply touched to see how bravely they bore their poverty, and looked upon their labors more as a privilege than a necessity.

A New Use for the Nickel.

(From the Cleveland Plain Dealer.)

Somebody of an ingenious turn of mind gives us the metric system, "not in a nutshell," but in a nickel. It is claimed that our nickel five-cent piece holds the key to the linear measures and weights. The diameter of this coin is two centimeters, and its weight is five grains.

Five of them placed in a row will, of course, give the length of the decimeter, and two of them will weigh a decagramme. As the dioleter is a cubic meter, the key of the measures of length, it is also the key to the measures of capacity. Any person, therefore, who is fortunate enough to own a five-cent nickel may carry in his pocket the entire metric system of weights and measures.

We heartily recommend the Rock Island Excursions. Our readers going west by Pullman Tourist Cars from Boston every two weeks, use Union Depots, are personally conducted, and at very low rates. Call on J. W. Western Ticket Agent, and write E. W. Thompson, E. P. A., 236 Washington street, Boston.

"When the spring-time comes," we usually find ourselves dry and exhausted, owing to the impure and sluggish state of the blood. To remedy this trouble, take Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most powerful, yet safe and economical, blood-purifier in existence.

She—"Indeed, it's not an easy thing for a girl to get a husband." He—"Why, a pretty girl can make her choice out of four of every five men she meets." She—"But it's the fifth that she wants."—Life.

How Nice

Miss Bell is looking, Addie, Eys, Laura. Why, our faces are so much improved, covered with pimples, blotches, and sores. She told mother that she owed her nice, clear complexion to her using Sulphur Bitters. Well, Laura, I shall try them too.

Dilby—"Will you consent to the marriage of Katie and I, Mr. Foggy?" Old man—"Well, I'll see about it." Dilby—"Thanks; God bless you. Katie said you'd see all about the arrangements, and so forth."—Light.

"Will I write out Jimson's bill?" asked the clerk. "No, I think you'd better get it printed—get about a hundred copies or so. I'll need that number before he pays it, and time and money will be saved in the end."—Rebopth Sunday Herald.

"Yes," said the learned youth, "I reached forward and struck him on the optic, and a minute later his alter ego was in mourning." His what?" inquired Don't give up, there is a cure for catarrh and cold in the head. Thousands testify that Ely's Cream Balm has entirely cured them. It is a safe and pleasant remedy. It is not a nostril, it is not a liquid or snuff. It cures by cleansing and healing. Price 50 cents.

Sought for the last hundred years. A remedy for fever and cold in the head found at last in Ely's Cream Balm. Safe and pleasant to use and easily applied to the nostrils. It gives relief at once and a thorough treatment positively cures. Price 50 cents.

Card of Thanks.
I hereby desire to extend to all of my friends my thanks for the many kindnesses extended to me during my past illness of over three months from rheumatism, and I especially desire to tell them that but for Sulphur Bitters I should have been suffering still. May you never suffer what I have, is the wish of your best friend, B. H. TAYLOR.

An Engineer's Fast Run.
An engineer on one of the roads entering here in speaking last night of a fast run said: "Although my machine is not slow, once let a cold get six hours the start of me, and my machinery is no match for it. I have for years kept a bottle of Kemp's Balm constantly in my cab, and when a Cough or Cold gets a start of this standard remedy it is indeed a cold day. It is sold by all druggists."

Pianos -- Organs.
The improved method of fastening strings of Pianos, invented by us, is one of the most important improvements ever made, making the instrument more richly musical in tone, more durable, and less liable to get out of tune.

Both the Mason & Hamlin Organs and Pianos excel chiefly in that which is the chief excellence in any musical instrument, quality of tone. Other things, though important, are much less so than this. An instrument with unusual tones cannot be good. Illustrated catalogues of new styles, introduced this season, sent free.

A READER OF THE GRAPHIC thinks that the ministers at the Congregational Club last week were rather hard on the mugs, but it seems to have been rather a mistake as to terms. What our friend understands by the word is a reformer, one who is not satisfied with the existing order of things, who thinks for himself, and believes so heartily in reforms that he makes it uncomfortable for those who are satisfied with the existing order of things, and he instances the abolitionists, and the leaders of the church reformation as representative mugwumps. The ministers, however, seemed to use the name in the sense of a doubter, one who does not know what to think or what to believe, and who "halts between two opinions." The same word has so often to do double duty, and to different men stands often for directly opposite things, as in the case in question. When the definitions are settled it is often possible to agree with both sides, and in this case the reader of the GRAPHIC and the ministers are evidently both in the right.

COL. ALBERT CLARKE, secretary of the Home Market Club, will get himself disliked by the iron manufacturers of New England, unless he is careful. He wrote to the American Economist, apropos of Hon. Mahlon Chace's lecture, that "the free-trade material and free-ships movements divide the Massachusetts Protectionists somewhat, but not nearly so much as appears upon the surface." This was stated by Free-Traders, and have simply caught a few through cupidity and lack of political sagacity." To characterize all the prominent iron manufacturers in New England and the great majority of the members of the Boston Executive Business Association in this way is hardly an evidence of "political sagacity," to say the least.

THE number of names attached to the petition calling for the submission of the public works bill to the people at a general election caused some surprise, as it was supposed that the people of Newton were heartily in favor of the bill. Nevertheless those who know how easy it is for a persuasive agent to secure signatures to anything in the way of a petition, claim that the people of Newton are heartily in favor of a board of public works, and that the great majority of those who signed the petition would vote for the bill. The GRAPHIC made a careful canvass some weeks ago and failed to find any who were opposed to a board of public works. The election seems a needless and expensive formality.

A Family Gathering. Have you a father? Have you a mother? Have you a son or daughter, sister or a brother who has not yet taken Kemp's Balsam for the Throat and Lungs, the guaranteed remedy for the cure of Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Croup and all Throat and Lung troubles? If so, why when a sample bottle is gladly given to you free by any druggist and the large size costs only 50c and $1.00.

If your cough keeps you awake and restless by night, take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and obtain immediate relief. This remedy allays inflammation, heals the pulmonary organs, induces sleep, and restores health. The sooner you begin the better.

A BROKEN HEARTED B'AR.

TRUE STORY OF THE DEMISE OF JASPER GRINDLEY'S PETS.

A Joke with a Water Barrel Brought Retaliation with a Dutch Oven and Led to Premeditated Suicide by Drowning—The Accounts Differ Slightly.

According to the story current among the laymen of this pleasant town, a year-old bear belonging to Jasper Grindley, a bear-killer, had a fight with another year-old bear, also the property of Jasper, the result of which fight was the death of the last mentioned bear. The victor made a break for the woods, and, in taking a short cut, attempted to cross Gravelly's mill pond on the ice. The ice was too thin to support the weight of the fleeing bear and broke beneath him. He disappeared beneath the ice, and was not seen again until his dead body was carried down by the water to the tail race, and so on to the water wheel of the saw-mill. There it became jammed in the paddles and stopped the mill. When the body of the unfortunate bear was removed from the water wheel it was in bad shape.

Such was the story that was current about the death of Jasper Grindley's two bears; and it was tragic enough until Jasper came in with his account of the affair.

DUCKED HIS MATE.

"Them two young 'bars," said Jasper, "beat all creation for smartness, an' it was jest that smartness of their'n that done 'em both up. They was always playin' tricks on one another, an' one day of 'em was takin' a little tramp around the house. He come to a bar'l that stood at one corner o' the house, half full o' rain water. He didn't know what was in the bar'l, o' course, but thinkin' that mabe there was sumpin' in it that mout pan out a heap o' fun fer him, he riz up on his hind feet, an' puttin' his forepaws on top o' the bar'l, looked over into it. Not bein' anything but water in the bar'l, the chances is that the little cuss'd ha' got down ag'in an' gone on lookin' fer sumpin' else to git fun out of; but, jist ez he riz up on the bar'l, t'other b'ar happened round that way. He seen his mate nosin' inter the bar'l, an' all on a sudden it struck him that he see some fun in the situation. So what does he do but sneak up behind t'other b'ar an' grab him by the hind legs, an' quicker than I kin tell ye he lifted him up an' sounsed him head fust in the bar'l. While the onfort'n b'ar in the bar'l was sluttin' an' kickin' an' twistin' an' chokin' in the water, the tricky little sarprin that dumped him in jist danced an' pranced around, an' holered till you'd ha' tho't he'd ha' busted, the thing him ez bein' so consarned funny. The b'ar in the bar'l would ha' drowned in short order if I hadn't ben clus by, an' run an' turned the bar'l up an' let him out.

A TERRIBLE REVENGE.

"That b'ar never let on that he was put out by the little trick his mate had played on him, an' didn't git mad a bit. But I could see that he was keepin' his eye skinned for a chance to git even. An' there's where I orter kep' my eye skinned to prevent anything serious, but I never tho't about things ever turnin' out the way they did.

"That big Dutch oven o' mine stands in the back o' the yard jist ez it did ez my ol' pop built it fifty year ago. The door is allus open except when we're usin' the oven, which haint more'n wunst a week. One day a couple of weeks ago I noticed that the door was shut, but I didn't think anything wrong till I see that there was only one o' the b'ars around, an' he was terrible oneasy, an' kep' hangin' round the oven, whinin' an' cryin' ez if his heart'd break. Then I went and opened the oven door. Inside o' the oven lay t'other b'ar. He was dead—dead a macker'l. I pulled him out. He had ben suffocated till he died. There was only one way to explain it. The b'ar had been in the habit o' crawlin' in the oven an' layin' there, one at a time, thinkin' it was bang up fun. Now the b'ar that had ben dumped in the bar'l o' water watched his chance, an' when t'other b'ar clumb in the oven he jist sneaked up an' clapped the door shut on him. I wasn't there to let him out, an' the consequences was that he pegged out slick an' clean.

SELF DESTRUCTION.

From the way the live b'ar acted I know'd that he know'd jist what his trick had ended in, an' he took on orful to see. He howled an' whined an' belled, an' somehow couldn't git over it. He took to wanderin' over to the neighbors ez if he was lookin' fer his dead mate, an' they told me that if I didn't keep him home he'd git a ball in some day. So I put a rope around his neck an' tied t'other end of it to an old plowshare that was knockin' 'round the yard. He could drag the plowshare about, but couldn't drag it fur. But he kep' up his mournin' fer his mate, an' it was tetchin' to see him. I tho't, o' course, that he'd git over it bimeby, or I'd ha put him outen his misery.

"One day las' week Sol Tift come to my house an' says:

"That b'ar o' your'n," says he, "is a cotion. I jist met him walkin' over to'ards the mill pond, carryin' his plowshare under his arm ez handy ez I'd carry three pound o' pork."

"That skeered me. I dug over to'ard the mill pond ez fast ez I could go. I got there quick enough, but I couldn't see nothin' o' the b'ar. I walked up around the pond, an' what should I come on to but the b'ar, standin' on the ice an' breakin' a hole through it with the heavy plowshare. I see what he was up to at wunst, but afore I could get to him he had the hole made big enough, an' down through he plunked like a muskrat. I waited, but I never see him ag'in. The poor little cuss was jist wore out with remorse fer what he had done to his mate an' had committed suicide complete an' deliberate ez it had ever ben committed sence the world started!"—New York Sun.

A HAUNTED ROOM.

In the dim chamber whence but yesterday Passed my beloved, filled with awe I stand; And haunting Loves fluttering on every hand Whisper her praises who is far away. A thousand delicate fancies glance and play On every object which her robes have framed, And tenderest thoughts and hopes bloom and expand.

In the sweet memory of her beauty's ray, Ah! could that glass but hold the faintest trace Of all the loveliness once mirrored there, The clustering glory of the shadowy hair That framed so well the dear young angel face! But no, it shows my own face, full of care, And my heart is her beauty's dwelling place. —John Hay in Scribner's.

AN IRON DEVIL.

An Especially Murderous Locomotive on the East Tennessee Railroad.

There is a particularly vicious engine on the East Tennessee road. It has killed twenty-seven men, and engineers and firemen feel a superstitious dread whenever they have to take a run on the rails with this man killer.

"I sometimes feel," said a grizzled old stoker a few days ago, "that there is a murderous spirit in that engine. She killed two men before she got on the rails. While she was being steamed up in the shops a plug blew out, and two mechanics were scalded to death. Then it was brought south and sent out on its first run. She mounted the rails and plunged down an embankment, killing her engineer and fireman.

"Soon afterwards she was fixed up and put on the road again. She ran for a while all right, until one night the engineer that was driving her saw a headlight bearing down on him and tried to reverse the lever and run back; but the engine acted like a mule and wouldn't answer to the throttle. She went whirling on and crashed into the other train. Five men were killed in the two engine boxes.

"But I can't remember half the deviltry that engine has played. Once she seemed to get into the dumps while on the road and jist wouldn't be managed. She acted as if the devil was in her cylinders. Whenever the engineer pulled open the throttle she would storm down the track like a hell cat, and it was like stopping a bucking bronco to get her down to a quiet pace.

"An emigrant train was running ahead, and the engineer of the man killer had orders to look out for it. After a run of an hour or so he came in sight of the emigrant train; it rumbled slowly up a heavy grade; then it disappeared over the crest and this devil of an engine went charging up and over about a minute behind. The engineer expected to see the emigrants axey down the track, but they had slowed up and were only a few hundred yards ahead. Down went the engine, bellowing like mad, and as soon as the emigrants heard it, out they stood as fast as they could. But the old hell cat could outrun the Flying Dutchman, and there was no stopping her. She rushed down, eating up the space between her and her prey. Eager faces were looking out the windows of the passenger car ahead, and the engineer, frantic and cooler, when they found that they could not check the speed of the engine, stood at the doors ready for a leap.

"They had to take it pretty soon. Already the emigrants were leaping from the steps and rolling down the sides of the embankment. The engineers waited till the last moment before the crash, and leaped for life, but were all killed.

"I am afraid to say how many lives were lost as the engine tore into that train packed with emigrants, but it swelled the list of the men that the old brute had killed.

"No matter what road she is on—and she has been on a great many—she has kept on killing the men who stood at her throttle. We all feel a little nervous when we have to run her, for when you steam her up it seems to put the devil in her."—Atlanta Journal.

A Good Use of Wealth.

In reference to your article, "What I Would Do if I Were Rich" I would build in the suburbs of large cities cheap, disposable dwellings, which I would dispose of to the poor at a small rent a month, the rent to go towards the purchase of the house, and in each house I would place a bath room, a luxury not very necessary. Earning a large number of houses would minimize the expense.

I would, in the large cities where available, build a bath which might be used at a nominal cost by the poor. As it is now, the workingman's family is obliged to do without this luxury. The person who has a claim to modesty cannot in the cramped quarters occupied by the poor, enjoy this health preserver. Half of the diseases are bred in the foul smelling garrets, etc., where the inmates await with eager anticipation the delights of the "free bath" that is open in the summer months. If this were done in the winter months you would soon observe a decrease in the death list.—Cor. Chatter.

Improved Transplanting Pot.

A valuable addition to the working outfit of a gardener is a new transplanting pot made in three parts, the body being divisible and the bottom removable. In transplanting, the bottom is removed from the body, the pot inserted in a hole in the ground, and the keys which control the grip of the side pieces are withdrawn, when the halves are pressed laterally apart and raised from the earth, leaving the earth and plant it had contained in the new location.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Experts on Counterfeit Money.

Miss H. L. Wright is one of the most efficient experts in counterfeit money. Miss Hoey is another, and has held her position for many years. Mrs. Fitzgerald is in the comptroller's office, where all the bank notes come for redemption. Much of the money that has arrived at the treasury by reason of railroad accidents passes through her hands. She is a sweet, faced, white haired lady, and has been at her desk for twenty-five years.—Washington Letter in New York Press.

Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation, and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure."—Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

—Benjamin P. Shillaber is thus sketched in an illustrated article on "American Literary Comedians," in Harper's Magazine for April: "Silver-haired, golden spectacles, humane, Malapropian and altogether delightful, Mr. Partridge, in the robust physique of Benjamin P. Shillaber, of Chelsea, Mass., complacently reposes, at the green age of five-and-seventy years now, June, 1889, on laurels that were fairly, squarely won."

The Carnival.

Halloo Kitty, where are you going? I haven't seen you for a long time; where have you kept yourself.

—Two questions in one breath—First I am going to the dressmaker's to try on my new dress; second I have been studying hard and kept myself very closely at home.

Well now Kit, then you are in just the shape for the Village Carnival—a new dress and all tired out with study, ready for fun. Of course you haven't heard of it, in the house all the time; so I will tell you all about it. That entertainment committee of the Improvement Association have been at work again; they are just splendid, for they have always had some good scheme on hand. Now it is to be a Village Carnival.

What can that be, I have heard of the Carnival of Venice and New Orleans, but what is a Village Carnival.

Well you just come and see—fun and lots of it. It will cost you 75 cents, but I promise you you will get your money's worth, besides that includes supper; and be sure and tell your father and mother to come, yes and your brother and sister should come too and they will only have to pay 35 cents each, because Susie is 15 and Willie only 8.

What is going to be done?

Oh I can't tell you all the things but Mr. Brooks will show his talking dolls, Miss Whitaker will whistle and play on the xylophone, Mr. Carter will give impersonations, play on the Harmonica and bones and whistle, and then, one of the prettiest things you ever saw in Newton Centre will be given by sixteen young ladies and gentlemen. A Mother Goose quadrille, it is just lovely and the music is so bright. And I mustn't forget to tell you that Mr. George Gott's orchestra will play all the rest of the time till 12 o'clock. It is the best orchestra that ever came to Newton Centre, so everybody said after the Colonial party.

Well after that glowing description I shall certainly go, and my new dress will be just the thing, but what will you wear?

My best summer challee; that looks well enough.

Bye-bye. Au revoir.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Mrs. Shaw arrived home on Saturday.

—Mrs. Amanda Smith has taken the tenement in Dr. Lovering's house.

—Mr. James F. Edmunds, who has been very ill with pleurisy, is recovering.

—Mr. Albert H. Putney and Miss Carrie Putney are at home for a vacation.

—Mr. Wm. C. Strong hopes to be able to leave Italy for England next week.

—Miss Jennie Tyler has gone to Concord, N. H., to spend a few days among relatives.

—Rev. Mr. Harriman, the evangelist, is conducting a series of meetings at Lanesville.

—Rev. Mr. Williams, the new rector, will for the present, have his home with Mrs. Bacall.

—The Chautauque club will hold its next meeting with Mrs. G. A. Moore, on Floral avenue.

—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. O. Fogg are registered at the Altamonte Hotel, Altamonte Springs, Fla.

—Mr. Lawrence and Miss Isabel Strong of Waban are at home from college for a short vacation.

—A money order office in connection with the post office will be opened for business, April 7th.

—Mrs. Galacar of Hartford has been visiting among friends at the Highlands for several days past.

—Mr. E. Gott and family have returned from their visit to Mechanics Falls, Me., Mrs. Gott's former home.

—Mr. and Mrs. Pendergast, who left this place for California, in December, have located at National City, Cal.

—Mr. Munro has moved into the Cook house and taken the tenement formerly occupied by the late Mr. Harris.

—Mr. P. C. Baker, the builder from Lower Falls, has commenced the erection of the house for Mr. Taylor on Forest street.

—Mr. S. T. Allen has moved from Columbus Place, and taken the tenement formerly occupied by Mr. Monroe in Newhall block.

—On Tuesday evening the Christian Endeavor Society elected officers for the next six months. Mr. S. W. Jones was elected president.

—Advertised letters: Mrs. H. J. Cobb, Mrs. H. A. Chalmers, Mrs. Kate Connor, Mrs. L. J. B. Lincoln, Mr. H. Meegan, Mr. Frank Pierce.

—Mr. F. H. Gould and family, who have spent the winter here, removed on Monday to Lynn, where they will soon open their summer boarding house.

—Capt. Kendall arrived in New York on Thursday last week, after about a year's absence on a voyage to China. He is expected home on Saturday.

—On Fast day, Rev. Geo. M. Adams, D. D., preached at a union service at the Congregational church on "Our National Perils and Opportunities."

—Mrs. Robinson has moved from Cook street, and now occupies the lower tenement in the house belonging to Mrs. Holmes on Columbus street.

—Methodist services will be held in Lincoln Hall next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Geo. S. Butters will conduct the service. All are invited.

—Mr. L. K. Brigham has commenced the cellar for a house on Hartford street, on the lot on the easterly side of the estate of Mr. David Bates. Mr. H. M. Beal, the builder of Upper Falls, has the contract for the house, and Mr. T. D. Sullivan of the Highlands has the contract for the cellar.

—Mr. W. H. Keating of Boston has moved into the house lately purchased by him on the corner of Lake avenue and Hyde street, formerly the residence of Mr. F. E. Pendergast. Mr. Whiting has had extensive alterations and improvements made in the inside of his house, and the outside has been painted in good taste.

—At an adjourned meeting of the members of the Lyceum, held on Saturday evening last, in Steven's Hall, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Dr. S. L. Eaton; vice-president, J. H. Smith, Esq.; secretary, Mrs. J. F. Heckman; treasurer, David Bates; executive committee, Dr. S. L. Eaton, Alexander Tyler, O. J. Kimball, Mrs. J. F. Heckman, Mrs. O. Gilbert.

—The Mission circle has reason to congratulate itself on the successful way in which the entertainment of Wednesday evening passed off. "Place aux Dames" represented Portia, Ophelia, Juliet and Lady Macbeth, speaking for themselves. These characters were very creditably taken by Misses Mary May, Edith Manson, Lillie Cobb and Fannie Stevens. The "Albany Station" was exceedingly funny, and in spite of the sudden illness and necessary absence of Miss Manson, it was quite successful. Misses Putney, Bryant, and Collins, and Messrs. Ryder, F. C. Hyde and Dorman, were the actors in the farce, being assisted by other members. Music was given during the evening by the Philbrick Quartet and was much enjoyed by the audience. Those who attended the entertainment thoroughly enjoyed it, as well as having the pleasure of knowing that they were helping and encouraging the young ladies of the circle in this worthy work.

Public Declaration

The public declaration for the senior class was given at the High school building on Friday, March 28. A large number of the parents and friends of the scholars, together with members of the Charles Ward Post, listened to the exercises. The following program was given:

Piano solo	Louise E. Trowbridge.	Chopin
The Flag	Edward Ray Speare	Bucher
The Blue and the Grey	Harriet C. Taylor	French
American Hymn	Class Chorus	Kellar
The Union	Albert P. Carter	Webster
Home Sweet Home	Gertrude A. Barker, Josephine C. Carpenter
Violin solo	Mary E. Kimball, Marion C. Mandell, Josephine Woodworth.	Mendelssohn
Death Bed of Benedict Arnold	May G. Norton	Sheppard
Let the Hills and the Vales Resound	Russell A. Ballou Jr.	Richards
The History of the Flag	Class Chorus	Original
Artemus Ward's Fourth of July Oration	Helen Minerva Cobb
Soldier's Chorus	Porter B. Chase	Gounod's Faust

The instrumental music was well rendered, and the vocal music shows much practice by the class and good instruction by Mr. Walton. The declamations were given with care and good expression. The exercise of "Home Sweet Home" was a collection of poems with songs of a patriotic nature interspersed. Miss Ireson, the instructor, deserves very much praise for the results of her labors in this line. Following the regular program, speeches were made by members of the Post, which were greatly appreciated by the audience. Capt. Ranlett spoke on the advantages of an education to a soldier, and cited instances in his own life; Mr. G. M. Fiske gave the significance of the American flag, Capt. Howard told of his experience during the war; Prof. C. C. Bragdon of Lassell Seminary made a review of the results of the war and the necessity of a free ballot and an honest count in our elections. Com. S. S. Whitney closed the exercises by thanking the class for their kind invitation and the pleasant time the Post had spent listening to the declamations.

The crayon and pastel work of Mr. Louis Hasselbrusch, now being exhibited at the Ritz studio, 58 Temple Place, Boston, is attracting much attention. Mr. Ritz is the recipient of many flattering compliments from his patrons, for his enterprise in securing the services of this talented artist.

NEWTON.

—Mr. J. F. Ballister and Miss Ballister have returned from their visit to Washington.

—John J. Joyce has purchased a handsome pair of iron-gray horses, suitable for heavy teaming.

—Mr. Wm. C. Bates left this week for a trip to Bermuda, and expects to return about May 10th.

—A flock of wild geese were seen Sunday afternoon, flying over the city on their way to the north.

—Mr. Charles F. Rogers has recovered from his recent illness and is now at his real estate office every day.

—Mr. George W. Rigby has the contract for building a double house on Mrs. Judkins' lot on Maple avenue.

—Mr. E. W. Converse, and Mr. and Mrs.
J. E. Merrill of Waverley avenue, are at the Laurel House, Lakewood, N. Y.

—The S. S. C. will meet at Mrs. Levi B.
Gay's Franklin street, Wednesday, April 16, at 10 a. m. Subject, "What is a citizen?"

—Mr. E. H. Haines and family have returned from Boston, where they have spent the winter, to their home at 46 Walnut Park.

—The house next the Baptist church has been leased, through Chas. F. Rogers' agency, to Mr. H. W. Fernald of Walnut park.

—The spring work on Farlow park has been begun, the turf being rolled down this week and the park cleaned up for the spring.

—Mrs. J. F. Francis has returned from Hotel Brunswick, where she has been spending the winter, to her home on Centre street.

—The annual social party of the Channing Society under the direction of Mrs.
W. H. Stearns, takes place in Armory Hall, Tuesday evening.

—Rev. Dr. McKewen will return to the Methodist church here, at the united request of his people, and the only change in Newton will be at Lower Falls.

—There was a large attendance at the Newton Natural History Society's meeting, Monday evening, to listen to Mr. E. F.
Kimball's very interesting paper on the eye.

—Mr. Isiah Thomas of Goff-town, N. H., died at his residence in that place on Thursday. He was formerly in business in Boston and is a son of Mr. B. F. Thomas of this place.

—Mr. Fred A. Houdette has been chosen auditor of the Mass. Poultry Association, and John A. Lowell, Jr., and Louis A.
Shaw of Chestnut Hill are on the list of vice-presidents.

—Mr. and Mrs. Francis Brooks are to sail for Europe early in May. Their residence on Beacon street, Boston, will be occupied next winter by their son, who is to marry Miss Oakes in June.

—The fire department committee has purchased a handsome pair of grays for summer 1 and the intelligent animals are now being broken in for fire service. They are well matched and weigh 2700 lbs.

—The person who found the sealskin cape, as advertised in another column, and was seen to pick it up by two ladies, will be served by returning it to this office at once and receiving a liberal reward.

—There was a very interesting Sunday school concert at the Baptist church, Sunday evening, the pulpit platform being decorated with Easter flowers. The exercises consisted of singing and recitations by the children.

—Mr. Fred A. Wetherbee is to build an attorney's office on Beacon street. Mr.
H. F. Ross has the contract. Alderman Coffin is also building a handsome house on the same street, and is to concrete the walk in front of his property this spring.

—Improvements have been made in the Newton police station. The officers' room has been enlarged, a rail placed around the desk and the interior renovated and repainted. A passage way has been constructed from the officers' room to the cell room.

—The Channing English Literature Class met Tuesday evening, the poet being Lewis Morriss, and Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke made some interesting remarks on the poet and read selections from his "Epic of Hades".
The next meeting will be held on the 6th of May.

—Mr. C. E. Whitmore intends to give up housekeeping and travel with his wife for a year or two. Consequently he offers his fine furniture for sale at a bargain if applied for soon, and it can be seen any afternoon or evening at his residence, 45 Humeval street.

—At the annual parish meeting of the Channing Religious Society, held Monday evening, the following officers were elected:
Standing committee, Warren P. Tyler, W.
R. Brackett, Chas. W. Lord, Luther Adams, Abraham Byfield, treasurer, George Sawin; clerk, F. W. Stone.

—The Boston Record tells about a prize fight between two Newton boys and comments upon it in the usual sensational manner. The paper states that the fight took place in a 14-foot ring, but its correspondent is in error. It was not a very serious affair, but a bout to settle who would out a squash pie.

—The annual performance of Macbeth at the Globe Theatre in Boston, Tuesday afternoon, for the benefit of the Mrs. Vincent Hospital fund, was a very successful
one. Several Newton amateurs were down in the pit. The choral society, taking the part of "Duncan" and Mr. W. A.
Wetherbee that of "Rosse".

—Very large congregations gathered at Grace church on Sunday, to listen to the fine music and the impressive service of the day. The church was filled with Easter lilies and white flowers, set pieces being on the pulpit, reading desk and font, and flowering plants placed on each window.
Rev. Dr. McKewen gave interesting sermons on the events commemorated by the day and the lessons to be learned from them.

—Guy S. Shannon, who has been appointed a patrolman, was on board the Vandalia, then Admiral Kimberly's flag ship, only a few months before it left the Mare Island Yard on its way to join the fleet at the Samoan Islands. Shannon was honorably discharged at Mare Island Yard and his captain and three other officers, whose names are attached to the document were drowned in the terrible hurricane at Apia Harbor, the crew of the ill-fated Vandalia meeting a similar fate with a few exceptions.

—The annual meeting of the Parish of Grace church was held April 7th, when the following persons were elected: Wardens,
Geo. S. Bullens and Jas. S. Elms; clerk,
Wm. P. Wentworth; vestrymen, E. S. Hambleton, vestryman, E. M. Springer, G. A. Flint, J. E. Hollis, A. D. S. Bell, C. W. Emerson, J. A. Baldwin, J. H. Wheelock; delegates to the Boston Convention, G. S. Bullens, J. C.
Elms and C. M. Gay. Full reports of the various departments of the parish work, and all matters of like interest, are to be published in the Year Book.

—The Good Friday evening services at Elliot church called out a large congregation. Rev. Mr. Calkins conducted the exercises and read the scriptures, and addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Horn-brooke, Rev. Dr. McKewen, Prof. Thomas of the Newton Theological Institution and Rev. Dr. Shinn, all taking for their topic some feature of the lessons to be learned from the events commemorated by Good Friday. The Elliot choir led the singing, and Miss Cousins sang very finely the solo
"He was despised," from the Oratorio of the Messiah.

—There was a fine display of flowers at Elliot church on Sunday and Mr. W. H.
Dunham assumed his duties as leader of the choir. The music was exceptionally good and rendered with a vigor that spoke well for the new director. Rev. Mr.
Calkins preached in the morning. In the afternoon there was the usual Easter concert by the Sunday school, with songs and recitations by the children. In the evening the choir gave the fine Easter choir service, with solos by Mr. Dunham, Mrs.
Hibbard, Mrs. Ross, and Mr. Theodore Trowbridge. There were large congregations at all the services.

—The Easter Sunday School Concert at the Methodist church, Sunday evening, was one of the best ever given at the church, and the congregation present filled the sanctuary.

—A very interesting exercise by Emma Pitts, entitled "Ring the Easter Bells" was given, consisting of choruses, songs and recitations by the school, one pleasing feature being the ringing of the Easter bell by a class of young children. A bell of flowers was suspended over the pulpit, with ropes of white ribbon, and the bell was rung at the close of each recitation, a real bell sounding time with the music. The church was very handsomely decorated with flowering plants, Easter lilies, callas, etc.

—The body of Andrew Dunn, who has been missing from his home in this city for some time, was found Sunday morning on the north side of the shore of the Charles river, distant about 500 feet from Beacon Park, in Brighton district.

—Dunn was last seen between 10 and 11 o'clock of the evening of Dec. 31, 1889, in the vicinity of the River street bridge in Cam-bridgeport. He had left his team near by,
and was seen apparently struggling in the water near the shore. What brought him there at such an hour of the night seems to be a question difficult of solution. He was employed as a teamster by T. Stewart, for whom he had worked for 19 years. Upon the day preceding his death he had been employed as a teamster by T. Stewart, for
the day preceding his death he had been employed as a teamster by T. Stewart, for whom he had worked for 19 years.

—The body of Dunn had been sent to Cam-bridgeport after a load of stone to be delivered to Simpson Bros. The body was taken to the North Grove street morgue in Boston, where it was identified by Special Officer Henthorn of Newton, and subsequently taken in charge by relatives.

—Mr. H. J. Woods has sold his millinery business in Elliot block to Miss E. J.
Robbins, who with her husband, Miss Herrick of New York, will carry on the business to the satisfaction of the ladies of Newton and vicinity. The sale was made before their late opening and Miss Herrick was here for that occasion, but owing to illness Miss Robbins has not been able to take possession until now, so it has not been made public, though some rumors have been current for some weeks past.

—Mr. and Mrs. Woods have been in business here for fifteen years and have seen nearly every business concern in town change ownership wholly or in part. They have built up a fine trade and have honestly earned the right to retire from active business life and enjoy a well earned rest.

—Miss Robbins will reside here in their residence corner of Channing and Washington streets, and Mr. Woods will find employment in the care and rental of his houses, of which he owns several.

—Miss Robbins comes with a first class reputation, and Mrs. Woods assures us that in Miss Herrick she has a milliner who will fully keep up the reputation of the business, and we bespeak for Miss Robbins a cordial welcome and a liberal patronage.

—There was a beautiful display of flowers at Channing church on Sunday, the platform being filled with lilies and other flowers, many being contributed in remembrance of friends who had departed during the year. The pulpit was draped with Easter lilies and smilax. The music was a special feature of the morning service, the selections being admirably rendered by the fine quartet. Rev. Mr. Horn-brooke preached a very interesting sermon on the lesson taught by the day. In the afternoon was a choral service by the church school, which was largely attended.

—The exercises consisting of the singing of Easter carols and recitations. One of the most interesting exercises was that by the infant class in the Sunday school, their songs being very sweet and touching above the platform. It was conducted by their teacher, Mrs. J. F. Brown, and their answers were clear and distinct and their singing was accompanied by the young men's orchestra connected with the Sunday school.

—Next Sunday will be the last time that the double quartet will sing at Grace church and unusually attractive music has been prepared for the occasion, as follows:

MORNING SERVICE, 10.45.
Anthem, "Alleluia." Henry Wilson
Te Deum in C. H. E. Danks
Jubilate in F. Dudley Buck
Kyrie. Fred Schilling
Frederick Tid. Fred Schilling
Offertory, "A Wake Thou that sleepest." G. B. Allen

EVENING SERVICE, 7.30.
Anthem, "O Give Thanks with the Lord." Michael Watson
Gloria in Excelsis. J. E. Ferring
Cantate. J. E. Ferring
Benedicte. Dudley Buck
Anthem, "Our Lord is risen from the dead." P. A. Schaecker Anthem, "Hark, Hark my Soul." Shelley

—Mr. F. H. Wood, who has presided at the annual performance of the "Macbeth" Memorial church, last night, which is fortunate in securing the services of so gifted an organist: Miss Lincoln goes to the Congregational church, Natick; Miss Kyle to a church at Jamaica Plain, and Mr. Dickeman, who has been one of the main supports of the choir for ten years, will not take another engagement. Miss Cousins, who has been a member of the choir for not yet accepted another position, and Messrs. Hambleton, Saden and Marsh will be the members of the new vested choir.

—The quartet have achieved a wide reputation for their cultivated voices and their skillful rendering of difficult music.
The vested choir of men and boys that will succeed the double quartet is under the training of Mr. H. B. Day, a very successful leader. The new choir numbers 24 boys and 10 men. They sing for the first time at the services on the 20th of April.

—Associated Charities.
A liberal contribution is acknowledged from the Newton Centre churches, the result of the regular Fast day collection.
The work of the society is steadily increasing, and the president, Mrs. J. E. Hambleton, the charities, is doing a grand work in the distribution of second-hand clothing and literature. Any articles of clothing and periodicals may be left at the rooms of the society in the Bradshaw building, Newtonville, every Tuesday forenoon from 10 to 11 a. m., when the chairman, Mrs. Ellen Kimball will be waiting to accept them for the society's use. The supper of the society will be held in Masonic hall, Newtonville, April 23d.
Robert Treat Paine will deliver an address on "Temperance houses for the poor."
Wanted in Newtonville, outdoor work for a man sixty years old who will work cheap.
Inquire of Rev. Mr. White, or Mrs. R.
Morehouse.

Y. M. C. A.
The meeting at the Young Men's Room last Sunday was of especial interest. Rev. A. B. Earle, D. D. had charge and spoke on the parable of the lost sheep. He gave many incidents from his long experience in winning souls to Christ and all were very much interested. Next Sunday, Mr. J. W.
Barber will have charge of the meeting.
Come and help us.

AUBURNDALE.

—Mr. E. L. Lathie has taken a position at Mr. Barker's stable.

—Mrs. C. L. Markham entertained the Ladies' Afternoon Whist Club on Wednesday.

—Mr. Chas. Tinkham received eight Vermont horses this week, and they are fine looking animals.

—Rev. Mr. Guterson, a returned missionary from India, with his family have taken Mr. J. W. Davis' house on Fern street.

—A handsome Hambletonian colt is now at Mr. Ezra Barker's stable, which he has for sale. It is a very fine animal and was bred in Kentucky.

—Mr. E. V. Barker's limited livery accommodations were kept busy Tuesday evening, he having twenty-two masqueraders to care for.

—The Saturday evening whist party met with Mrs. H. P. Kimball, and was a very pleasant evening.

—"It was a great success," is the universal opinion in respect to Landlord Lee's masquerade ball at Woodland Park Hotel, Tuesday evening.

—Revival services are being held at the Methodist church this week, commencing Tuesday evening and continuing Thursday and Friday evenings.

—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Smith attended the funeral of Mrs. Smith's father in Natick Thursday afternoon, who died the first of this week after a protracted illness.

—Mr. Falkenberg, father of Mr. Frank I.
Falkenberg of Lexington street has been seriously ill with erysipelas but is now improving a little under Dr. Haynes' care.

—Capt. and Mrs. B. C. Baker were in town for a few days the first of the week.
He still shows the effects of his recent severe illness, but with a few weeks' rest hopes to recover his usual strength.

—Mrs. Frederick Johnson entertained a large whist party of ladies and gentlemen at the residence of Alderman Johnson last evening. The ladies present appeared in full dress, and it was a very pleasant gathering.

—Mr. Parker corrects the report of his remarks in last week's Newton Journal.
So far as he is acquainted with them the young people of the missionary home are perfectly civil and well behaved at present.
He spoke of the general lawlessness of young people.

—The Easter Sunday school concert at the Methodist church last Sunday evening was largely attended. The exercises consisted of singing, recitations and readings which were much enjoyed. The reading by Miss Helen Dyer, "Davie's Easter Prayer," was well received.

—The services and sermon at the Church of the Messiah on Good Friday were most impressive, and the congregation unusually large. On Easter even there were nine baptisms. Forty-two communions were received the sacrament at the six a. m. celebration and twenty-four at noon on Easter day. A barrel was sent last week to a missionary among the Indians in Dakota, by the Women's Guild, valued at $80.

—The new flag soon to be floating from the top of the Williams school building was received this week, and is a fine piece of bunting 10-12 x 18 feet in size. It is to be placed on a pole 45 feet in length which will be put in position very soon. Great preparations are being made by the children of Williams school for a proper reception of this gift, which is to be presented to them one week from tomorrow, April 19th, and the raising will be accompanied with appropriate exercises by the scholars.

—One of the most successful social events of the season was the masquerade party given at the Woodland Park Hotel, Tuesday evening. The affair was gotten up by Mrs. Hinman and Miss Stewart and invitations were sent out to quite a large number. The company numbered about 65 ladies and gentlemen and some very pretty costumes were worn. Especially beautiful costumes were those of Mrs. Hinman, Miss Stewart, Mrs. Marble and Mrs.
Sprague. Dancing was enjoyed until after midnight and Landlord Lee entered to the material wants. Music was furnished by an orchestra. The party afforded a great deal of enjoyment and pleasure to the guests of the house.

Lasell Notes.

The vacation at the school ended Wednesday evening, March 9, most of the pupils being back at that time. The school reopened Thursday, April 10, at 9 a. m.

The number remaining at the school were not quite as large as was expected, over thirty however. These pupils had much to compensate them for their inability to go home. They entertained themselves by various amusements indoors, and attended many concerts etc. The Handel and Haydn, Amherst Glee Club, and Symphony in Boston, the Old Folks' Concert at Newton, and the Gynastic Exhibition also in Boston on Friday and Saturday April 4 and 5. Mr. Bragdon invited them to one of Herrmann's Exhibitions which was greatly enjoyed.

The Washington party under conduct of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. herd had a very successful trip. They were able to include all the desirable places for sight seeing in their plan, and to carry out the scheme to the full. The party returned Wednesday
a. m. April 9.

Mr. and Mrs. Rice with their little boy came to Newton on Sunday, and were met in New York by their daughter, and have spent some days with her. Miss
L. Huray, a former teacher, and Mrs.
Xoyes have been visiting at the school, the former will remain some days longer.

A sister of Miss Mary Beckwith from the Sandwich Islands, and Miss Baldwin's brother also of that country have been to visit Miss Baldwin.

The fathers of Messrs Roper, Hall and Stevens, an aunt of Miss Evans and a cousin, the Messrs Colburn's father, Mrs.
Burr, and Mrs. Burrill and Mr. Alexander have been guests at the school. Thus many pupils who could not go home have enjoyed relatives and friends.

Great Sale of House Lots.

The greatest sale of house lots ever held in Newton is announced for May 3d, in the pretty village of Waban, destined to be one of the most popular sections of Newton. The lots are admirably located on the high tableland overlooking the Charles river, the whole tract has been laid out at great expense by E. W.
Bowditch, and the streets built in the best manner, under his supervision. The lots vary in size from 10,000 to 20,000 feet, and are sold under moderate restrictions. S. F. C. and Elliott J. Hyde are the auctioneers, who will furnish full particulars and a free ticket to Waban on the day of sale. See advertisement in another column.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

A RUSH OF BUSINESS BEFORE THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The board of aldermen met Monday evening, Mayor Burr in the chair, and all the members present but Alderman Bond. A large batch of business was disposed of.

The rules were suspended to allow of the presentation of a petition from the Newton street railway company, for an extension of their track on Washington street, 60 feet west of Elm street, West Newton, and 60 feet east of Bacon street, Newton, for sidings for cars, and a hearing was appointed for Monday evening, April 21st.

Business from the Common Council was disposed of in concurrence.

NEW BUILDINGS.

Margaret Baldes gave notice of intention to erect an addition 16 by 18 feet to house on Jackson street.

J. W. Boyle, builder, for Mrs. Elizabeth G. Fall, gave notice of intention to erect a double house on West street, Ward Two, 27-12 by 30 feet.

Geo. W. Rigby, gave notice of intention to build a house 34 by 50 feet, on Maple avenue, Ward One.

D. B. and H. C. Needham, double house 44 by 49 feet, corner of Lowell and Edinboro streets.

M. C. Bragdon, house 26 by 37 feet on Lake avenue.

Mitchell & Sutherland, for H. H. Reed, house 31 by 29 feet on Kimball street, Ward Six.

Wm. Cabill was granted a license to build a barn 18 by 25 feet on Lexington street, under suspension of the rules.

H. H. Hunt was granted a license to build a wooden block, 30 by 70 feet on Chestnut street, near Washington, West Newton, for stores and mechanical purposes.

A PROTEST

against the relocation of a part of Parker street at the junction of Ridge avenue, was received from Ezra C. Dudley, who stated that when the grade of Ridge avenue was located the lines of Parker street were also relocated at the end of said avenue, throwing the street over on to his stone wall, and bringing his house, already too near the street, still nearer, and leaving an excess of frontage on the other side of Parker street, in front of the Barton purchase, of 14 or 15 inches, more than the deed called for, and giving a strip of land which he had not conveyed to any one. He asked that the grade might be relocated, as it would be a great expense for him to move his stone wall and the granite steps, and the change was a great damage to him. Referred to the highway committee.

John Hart and others asked for sidewalk on the north side of Derby street, from Cherry to Moody street; referred.

THE STREET RAILWAY COMPANY

petitioned to be allowed to pave their tracks with West End Standard blocks, 16 inches outside, and a line of single blocks inside their tracks, on Washington street, from Greenwood avenue to Elm street, and from Adams to Church streets.

An order was passed that they should pave their tracks on the portions of street mentioned, with First Quality Granite Paving Blocks, four inches wide, eight inches deep, and 7-14 to 8 inches long, all the space between the tracks, and for 18 inches outside of them.

A junk license was granted to Patrick Blank of Fayette street, Watertown.

A license to move a building, on motion of Alderman Coffin, was granted to F. H. Murray, from the corner of Pearl and Gardner, to Pearl street, the building being 24 by 28 feet.

L. E. Coffin petitioned for concrete sidewalk on Bellevue street, Newton.

John J. Blake was granted a permit to build an addition to building corner of Middle and Chapel streets, 30 by 13 feet, to be used for a store.

A permit was granted to Frank Joyal for a carpenter shop 30 by 40 feet on Washington street, Newtonville.

STREET LAMPS.

Alderman Fenno, from the Street Lamp committee, recommended the granting of petitions for street lamps as follows, and an order to that effect was passed: one gas lamp to be replaced on Washington street, West Newton; two on Smith avenue, Ward 3; one on Washington street opposite Tremont Hall; eight on Grove street, Ward 4; one incandescent on Norwood avenue, Ward 6; one on Dunklee street, Ward 5; two on Beacon street, Ward 6, between Woodward and Chestnut streets; three on Morton street, Ward 6, and one incandescent light on Alden place, Ward 3.

Gunpowder licenses were granted to C. W. Morehouse, I. R. Stevens and A. Whitney.

Alderman Johnson presented the petition of the N. E. Telephone Co., for location for their poles and wires on Edinboro, Franklin, Centre, Bellevue, Washington and Park streets; referred.

M. Taffe and some forty other residents of Lexington and River streets, asked that the street railway tracks on those streets be changed to the middle of the street, from the side, and a hearing was granted them for Monday evening, April 21st, at 8.30.

On motion of Alderman Johnson, an order was passed, authorizing the city treasurer to sell water loan bonds to the amount of $25,000, to run until Oct 1st, 1920, with interest at 4 per cent, and also establishing a sinking fund for their payment.

Alderman Harbach reported on the petition of E. C. Dudley and G. W. Ulmer, for abatement for illegal assessments of taxes, that the assessors had made all legal abatements, and the petitioners were given leave to withdraw.

REMOVAL OF ALMSHOUSE

The special committee on the removal of the almshouse reported through Alderman Harbach, recommending that the city purchase the Thomas Runney Place of 19 acres, Winchester street, Ward Five, at an expense not to exceed $7,000, and an order was passed authorizing the city treasurer to issue a note for the amount, payable in 1895, at 4 per cent interest, and to pay the above amount when a satisfactory deed was given.

Orders were passed, authorizing the highway committee to expend $1,200 for the purchase of horses for the Highway department, and $300 for the purchase of a horse for the fire department.

NO WOODEN POLES.

Alderman Harbach presented an order, directing the Newton Street Railway company the right to use wooden instead of iron poles, 8 inches in diameter, with a tie or brace six feet from the ground, and a king bolt 12 inches long, the poles to be at least 5 feet in the ground.

Alderman Johnson said he did not believe in wooden poles, and as everything else had been granted to the street railway company that they had asked for, he thought it was about time for them to make an effort to do something. He took no stock in the strength or durability of wooden poles, they were decayed very fast, and he also could not place much faith in the testimony of the expert the company brought forward. A year or so ago he had come here and produced witnesses to swear that they had received a current of 1,200 volts without injury, now he comes and says that a current of 300 volts is dangerous. Boston would not use iron poles if they were dangerous, and they had been used there for some months and there had been no accident reported. He would like to hear from the chief engineer about the matter.

Chief Bixby said that he had had no experience with iron poles, but if they were dangerous it was hardly creditable to the ability of the construction men. The cross wires would tend to draw the poles over into the street, and the sample truss that the company had displayed was not a complete success, as they had to run a wire to the tree to support the pole. He considered wooden poles unsafe. In all iron poles were set on the side of the street, without any curbing or concrete.

Mr. Johnson said that it was evident that Mr. Morse was working for the stockholders of the road, and that any fair-minded man who looked at the rails laid between West Newton and Newtonville would say that the street was unsafe, the rails projecting above the street level. The company had made great protestations of the fine road they were to build, but they showed the position to live up to the requirements, and as they had given a bond to protect the city, the city ought to go to work, put the street in a safe condition and make the city pay for it.

Alderman Harbach said that the wooden poles were cheaper, and that it was certain that the poles were not permanent, and would be removed in a few years, it seemed rather hard to make the company go to so much expense. The objection against wooden poles bending over applied equally to iron, as the iron poles on the West End road were considerably bent, besides if wooden poles were to break, they would give warning, while iron poles would not. The track on Washington street is waiting for the result of the company's petition to be allowed to use blocks.

Alderman Johnson said he took no stock in the plea for economy. When the company was trying to get its charter with another company opposing it, there was no limit to the promises it made of what a fine road it would build, but now for two years the company has been doing nothing and he was not convinced that the company meant to build. Iron poles had been tried but wooden ones had not, and he did not think wooden ones were safe.

Alderman Pettie said the company had started out with a great flourish of trumpets, boasting that they would ask no favors, and do all that the city wanted. Then they began to come in with the plea that they were ignorant at first, and wanted some changes made. They had been learning ever since and asking for changes. Perhaps they will want to wait a year or two longer in order to learn more. But in these matters, on the board they have displayed a large amount of audacity, and as for their cold cheek, the blocks of ice bobbing round the North Pole could not compare with it. They had boasted, he understood, that they would do nothing till they had elected a board of aldermen who would grant them all they wanted. As for wooden poles, he did not think the braces would prevent their leaning over, and any one who had had experience in clothes poles would see that braces would be of no use unless they were put in the ground. The company ought to do what they were required to do, and put up poles that would hold their cat's cradle without breaking off or leaning over. He moved to lay the order on the table. This was voted down, and the order was then voted down 5 to 1.

An order was passed for the laying of 300 feet of 6-inch pipe on Watertown street, and 117 feet on Boylston street, at an expense of $695.

MORE BONDS.

The Mayor was authorized to petition the legislature for permission for the city to issue $500,000 of additional water bonds.

Geo. M. Stone and others asked for street lamps on Parker, Dedham and Walnut streets, Ward Five.

A petition from Geo. H. Pratt and others was received, asking that the city remove a dangerous dog on Elmwood street, belonging to F. A. Barrows. Referred to police committee.

WABAN HILL RESERVOIR.

Alderman Harbach presented an order authorizing the Water Board to purchase 422,000 square feet of land of Fred. W. Sargent on Waban Hill, for the High Service reservoir, at a cost not to exceed $42,200.50 the amount to be charged to water construction account.

Alderman Harbach said that Mr. Sargent's price was 10 cents a foot if the whole was taken, but he would sell about half, or 5-1-2 acres, what was actually needed for the reservoir, for $35,000. The only other alternative was to seize the property, but if that was done the city could not dispose of it, or use it for any other purpose. The water board thought it was best to buy the whole, as that would leave a number of lots on the north side of the hill, which could be sold.

Alderman Pettie said that Mr. Sargent might be making our necessity his opportunity, but he thought the additional land would be needed for an extension of the reservoir at no distant period, as the proposed reservoir only provided for a storage of 2,000,000 gallons, hardly a day's supply, and we would soon need 3,000,000 gallons a day. It would be judicious to take the whole at a moderate price rather than a part at an exorbitant price. The order was then passed.

WARD FOUR DIVISION.

Alderman Pettie reported from the committee on division of Ward Four into two polling places, giving the opinion of City Solicitor Slocum that as Auburndale had double the number of voters of Lower Falls, such a division would not be legal, and recommending that the committee wait the action of the legislature.

PLAYGROUNDS.

Alderman Pettie from the committee on Parks reported on that portion of the Mayor's address relating to public playgrounds, that they heartily favored the recommendation, and urged the citizens of the north side of the city to take steps for the securing of playgrounds, and the committee recommended that when such steps were taken the city pay one half of the cost of the land.

An order was passed appropriating $2,000 for the improvement of public parks, and the planting of trees between the villages.

An order was passed giving permanent members of the fire department the usual fourteen days annual vacation.

CONTAGIOUS DISEASES.

Alderman Pettie presented the report of the special committee on a building for contagious diseases on the Cottage Hospital grounds, stating that general statutes gave the city the power to build hospitals for contagious diseases, but this was not mandatory. The committee were in hearty sympathy with the recommendations of the mayor, however, and found that some $1500 had been expended last year in the treatment of cases of contagious diseases. They trusted, however, that this exceeded the average. The trustees of the hospital had promised to attend to all such cases, provided the city would furnish $10,000, the necessary buildings, and maintain them in repair. The committee favored the acceptance of this offer provided a contract could be drawn that would protect the interests of the city. The report was accepted and an order was passed appropriating $10,000, to be expended under the direction of the trustees of the Cottage Hospital, in the building of wards for contagious and dangerous diseases, and a morgue, and the said sum to be paid as the finance committee shall determine, the amount to be paid over by the city treasurer, on the presentation of an agreement, binding the trustees to a faithful performance of the obligations.

Alderman Pettie said that the committee felt that some provision should be made for the treatment of patients suffering from contagious diseases, and the better preparation of the health of the city, but it was quite a departure from the usual methods to place $10,000 in buildings on land the city did not own. The Cottage Hospital Corporation was supported by charity, with a doubtful income, and the rights of the city would suffer, unless they were protected by some agreement drawn in legal form and binding.

Alderman Johnson asked what the money was to be expended for.

Alderman Pettie said that plans had been prepared for two wards, some 100 feet apart, one for scarlet fever and one for diphtheria patients, that would each accommodate 10 or 12 patients. Then between the wards would be a building 20 feet square, a resting place for the nurses, connected by corridors with the wards. In a remote place it was proposed to build a small pox building, and also a building for the treatment of smallpox.

Alderman Hamblen said he was heartily in favor of the order, but he moved to have it referred to the finance committee, to be put into legal shape. The motion was seconded by Alderman Pettie and the order was so referred.

WATERING STREETS.

On motion of Alderman Harbach an order was passed appropriating $7,500 for the watering of the streets of the city, providing that no one cart be paid over $50 a month, and that in every case the citizens should contribute an equal amount. The time is from April 15th to Nov. 15th.

LIGHTING CITY HALL.

On motion of Alderman Coffin an order was passed appropriating $325 for wiring and fixtures to light the upper hall and the council chambers by electricity, on the recommendation of the public property committee.

Mayor Burr read a communication from the board of health, stating that they had examined the plans for the contagious disease wards, and found them adequate and well suited to the purpose, and recommending immediate action by the city council, as the matter was a very important one.

The Boston & Albany R. R. Company sent in a list of railroad police.

L. H. Farlow sent in this resignation as inspector of the police in Ward Seven.

Chief Bixby sent in his quarterly report of fires the past three months, there having been 10 calls, and a loss of $13,000 on buildings and $10,000 on contents.

The board then took a short recess to talk up police appointments and give the reporters a chance to take breath.

POLICE APPOINTMENTS.

After recess, Mayor Burr made the following appointments which were confirmed.

Inspector of police, James D. Henneberry.

Policemen for the probationary term of six months: Fred M. Mitchell, Joshua H. Seaver, Richard T. Tarr, John J. Davis, Guy S. Shannon, Wm. O. Harlowe.

The following jurors were drawn for the April term of court at Lowell: Wm. E. Elder, Winthrop street, Ward 3; Albert H. Adams, Washington street, Ward 2.

The board then, at 9.30, adjourned.

"I will not sit in the same church with him," and his lordship picked up his hat and pranced out of the chapel. It was Lord Boston who spoke and Mr. Gladstone was the one referred to. It happened not a great while ago, for that matter.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

A Place for Everything.

One of the many stories told of Lincoln states how he once went into Secretary Stanton's office and found that gentleman with a very cloudy brow reading a letter just received. "What's the matter?" said Lincoln. "Matter," said Stanton; "just read that letter. It would be a real relief to me to answer that scoundrel as he deserves." "Go on," said the President. The irate official turned to the desk and wrote fiercely for some time, handing the letter to Lincoln when finished. "Your mind is relieved and you feel better, do you?" asked the latter as he returned it. "Yes," replied the Secretary, preparing to enclose the missive in an envelope. "Don't do that," said Lincoln; "don't send it. It did you good to write it and me good to see you, but it won't do any one else good. Put it in the scrap basket." The letter went into the scrap basket.

The True Protection.

(Two weeks ago we printed a speech protesting against Mr. McKinley's Bill with its taxes on raw materials. At the same time we promised to publish a reply to the same in our next column. Unavoidable delays at Washington preventing this but to-day we are pleased to be able to give our reader this later speech with its frank plea for true protection.)

Mr. Speaker, it is with mingled feelings of sorrow and astonishment that I have listened to the eloquent words of my friend from Massachusetts—words worthy of a better cause. Ohio is proud of Bunker Hill and Concord, proud of Webster and Sumner, proud of the past glories of New England's commerce and the present prosperity of her manufactures, and beyond all proud of the rugged courage that has always maintained the sacredness of principle before any party, however honored, and any policy, however specious! The gentleman assumes to represent New England! If he rightly represents her, then the decadence of agriculture and commerce in that section is surpassed by the decadence of morality. The gentleman speaks of the tribute that New England has paid to Ohio, and to Pennsylvania, and to New York; but not a sentence, not a word, not a syllable, drops from his lips about the tribute that those great states, and all the states of the West and the South, have annually paid to the manufacturers of New England. The member from Massachusetts demands free wool; has he ever heard that the looms of New England are protected by a duty of 80 per cent? He affects surprise at the proposition to put a paltry tax upon hides for the welfare of the great farming interest of the West, does the gentleman know that New England's leather industries are protected by a tax of 30 per cent uncomplainingly paid by the consumers of the others sections? Has this amazing representative ever been told that paper and linens and cotton and hardware and silks are protected?

Sir, the honorable member asks for a removal of restrictions? Does he wish it? Does he mean it? Will he cease all paying of tribute, and receiving of tribute? Ah, there's the rub! He is bold enough to plead for freedom from paying tribute, but he seems willing enough to receive, but he, it would seem, is very ready to let others be more blessed if they will do the giving.

In this, sir, the voice of Massachusetts? Is this fair and just? Is it right to tax Ohio for her supplies of linens and cottons and woollens, and give Massachusetts her wheat and wool and flax free? Sir, I am a protectionist, but if protection has become synonymous with partiality, I for one will abandon it. If protection, sir, means the taxation of many for the support of the few; if it means the recognition of privileged classes demanding government aid withheld from others no less fairly entitled to it; if it means injustice and wrong, it must fail and fail quickly. Such protection long upheld by our government would finally bring chaos and annihilation upon the nation. But, Mr. Speaker, the True Protection means equal rights for all. No difference between the cowboy in Texas and the manufacturer in Lynn; no difference between the hardware of Connecticut and the wool of New York; no New South, no East, no West, but one united land and protection for everybody. Help all or none!

The honorable gentleman, sir, in the course of his remarks made some allusion to the overthrow of governments.

During the past week, a man passed evidence of his generosity and public spirit, which will survive even when his name might be forgotten, except for these stones of remembrance. During the past week also, in a daily paper of Boston, there have been published from day to day, and accounts of boys, under the age of their majority, inhabiting places of gambling and vice. We all know, at least to some extent, how many places there are, which hold out allurements to attract the young men, even of our own fair city. Probably not many of us are aware of the number of young men and boys, who resort to places of questionable repute and which inevitably lead to shame and disgrace if not ruin.

No grander opportunity for doing good can we conceive of than by planting in our midst an attractive building which shall be a safe place of resort for our boys and young men. Such a building would be always open, with a secretary ever ready to lend a willing hand in the games or sports of the boys, as well as to lead them in spiritual things. A gymnasium which would not only be hailed with delight by the boys and help to train their limbs and muscles for strong and active duties, but would be a boon to any of our married men, who come home weary in mind and apparently worn out with the perplexities of business, and who, by skilled appliances and direction for a few moments in the evening, might retire to sleep soundly and awake refreshed for the day's duties. It would provide a place for our natural history society, as has been said, and prove to be one of our best educational institutions by its evening classes and lectures. Who will respond to start this grand movement by subscribing for a Y. M. C. A. building?

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

NORA'S RETURN.

The publication of a "Sequel" to "The Doll's House" by Henrik Ibsen, written by so distinguished an American author as Mrs. Ednah D. Cheney, is a matter of considerable interest. The title of the book is "Nora's Return," giving to the heroine a future career, carrying with it a moral lesson with reference to the ennobling and advancement of woman. Lee & Shepard, Boston, have published the volume, and the fact that an American author so widely known as Mrs. Cheney has undertaken to produce a "Sequel" to "The Doll's House," from a purely American standpoint, will be sufficient to attract public attention to the importance of her book. The profits of the publication will be given to the New England Hospital for women and children.

THE CAMDEN MOUNTAINS.

Summer visitors to the coast of Maine will be much interested in "The Camden Mountains, the Norway of America," just published by Lee & Shepard. It has sixty illustrations by Wm. Goodrich Beal, and is a very satisfactory handbook of the mountain, ocean and lake scenery on the coast of Maine.

Resolutions.

The following resolutions were passed at the last meeting of the trustees of the Newton Savings Bank:

Whereas, another of our number has been removed, in the fullest of years, from the scene of his earthly labors, to enter into the rest of a better life above, therefore,
Resolved, That in the death of Mr. Edward Spear, this bank loses one of its oldest and most highly respected members; one who through all the changes of years has been its interest, performing every duty conscientiously, and by his well known character for uprightness and purity has gained the confidence of his associates as well as of the entire community.
Resolved, That we tender to his bereaved and sorrowing family our warmest sympathy in this time of affliction, and assure them that we mingle our sorrows with theirs, because we shall see the face of our friend no more on earth.
Resolved, That these resolutions be entered upon our records and that a copy of the same be sent to the family of the deceased.

Resolutions.

Resolved, That in the death of Mrs. Emilee L. Collins, the members of the benevolent society which bears her name and is pledged to continue her charitable work, recognize not only a personal bereavement, but a great loss to the social and charitable interests of this neighborhood.
Resolved, That while we accept in trustful submission this dispensation of an all wise Providence, we renew our zeal in the good work she has left us to do, believing that we can best manifest our love for her, and do honor to her memory.
Resolved, That our society offer our heartfelt sympathies to the only son, and to all those connected with her by the ties of kinship.
Resolved, That copies of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased and be printed in both the Newton papers.
Mrs. DE L. SHELLEY, President.

BOARD OF HEALTH.

At a meeting of the Board of Health held April 1st, 1890, the following rules and regulations were adopted in addition to those already in force:

Rule 19. Whoever has knowledge of or reasonable cause to believe that the diseases called pleuro-pneumonia among cattle, or farcy or glanders among horses, or any contagious or infectious disease among domestic animals exists among such animals in the City of Newton shall forthwith give notice thereof to the Board of Health of said city, in order that such animals may be secured at or collected in some suitable place or places within said city and kept isolated.
Rule 20. No person except as ordered or directed by said Board of Health shall drive or place upon a public road any animal infected with pleuro-pneumonia, farcy or glanders, or any other contagious or infectious disease.
Rule 21. Persons having the care or custody of animals diseased or infected with pleuro-pneumonia, farcy or glanders, or any other contagious or infectious disease, whether their own property or otherwise, and having received an order for their isolation, shall neither sell, swap, trade, give nor in any way dispose of such animals, nor drive, nor work, nor move, nor allow them to be moved away from the place of isolation, nor allow other animals already so isolated to come in contact with them until otherwise ordered by the Board of Health of said City of Newton, or the State Cattle-Commissioners.
Rule 22. Whoever violates any of the provisions of the foregoing rules (19, 20, 21) shall be punished by a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding one year.
A true copy. Attest,

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS.

The argument in favor of submitting the question of a board of public works to the vote of the citizens is used, evidently, by those who are opposed to having such a board; but this seems a roundabout way of defeating it, as it would be much simpler to have the bill killed in the legislature, and thus save the expense and trouble of a general election. A strong opposition to the project has recently been developed and evidently there would have to be a strong fight to carry it through. Those opposed argue that there is no need of having such an expensive method of managing city affairs, and that we have the germs of a strong and efficient board at present, which renders the change unnecessary. They say that Mr. Fuller, the superintendent of streets, is as capable and efficient a man as could possibly be found to serve on the board, and that he is abundantly qualified to take charge of the streets of the city and keep them in good condition, if he was given the necessary power, and that this would furnish the needed relief to the aldermen and councilmen on the highway committee. As for the water board part of the board of public works, they ask where a more efficient and practical member could be found than we have already in Mr. Nelson Hyde, who has managed the water works so successfully for many years, and whose experience makes him a valuable man for the city.

These are some of the arguments one hears when the question is discussed by citizens and there is no denying that they have a great deal of force. Such men as Mr. Hyde and Mr. Fuller have demonstrated their fitness for the positions they hold, and it is argued that there is no use of having high salaried and ornamental officials to supervise the work which these officials are now doing, and which they would continue to do under the new arrangement.

But the question arises why do not the opponents defeat the bill before the legislature and so save both expense and trouble. That would be the simpler and more direct way, and from present appearances the legislature might as well kill the bill outright and not bother with any more amendments.

There would have to be a very serious state of affairs to have such a measure succeed at a general election, without a strong feeling on the part of the citizens that a change was absolutely necessary. But these conditions are not present at this time, and the only ones who have much feeling on the matter are business men who have served or are serving on the highway committee, and who realize that a busy man can not give the time now required of members of that committee, and ought not to be asked to do so, when the city is able to pay for such services. A change of some kind is certainly needed, or it will soon be impossible to get business men to accept positions in the city council, but perhaps a simpler way of meeting the difficulty could be found by giving the officials we now have more power and greater responsibility. As a prominent citizen said when interviewed some time ago, he was in favor of a board of public works if he could select the members, and this seems to be the general feeling.

The High School investigation will have served one useful purpose if it awakens the parents to the necessity of placing some restrictions on outside amusements, which both interfere with the studies and with the health of pupils. One lady writes to the GRAPHIC upon this matter and says that the young people when they finish school are ready to be laid on the shelf, instead of just ready to appear in society. Parties and dances and theatres have become an old story to them, and their school days have been robbed of half their value through this indulgence in society. There is quite too much truth in what our correspondent says, and parents will do well to bear it in mind.

In another column Rev. R. A. White asks some very plain questions in regard to the board of health, which we hope some member of the board will take the time to answer. As to the powers of the board, in all matters where public health is concerned, they are very extensive and allow of prompt action, as has been shown in a number of cases. In the case presented by Rev. Mr. White, the story of the board has not been presented, and it might be well to suspend judgment until their side of the case is given, and the columns of the GRAPHIC are open to them. Rev. Mr. White's letter was received last week but owing to a press of other matter its publication was delayed.

The matter of buildings for contagious diseases to be located on the Cottage Hospital grounds was endorsed by the board of aldermen, Monday night, and an order appropriating $10,000 for the purpose was referred to the finance committee to be put into legal shape. There seems to be little doubt of its passage, as such buildings are very much needed, and would have been almost constantly in use the past year if we had had them. It is very important for the general health of the city to have places where those ill with contagious diseases can be cared for.

The Gamewell Company have again won in a contest with the Municipal Company, the city of Cambridge having adopted the Gamewell police signal system. This seems to be the regular program now, and the Municipal Company are reported to be threatening all kinds of vengeance. As the Waltham Free Press says, "This continual whine every time they miss getting a contract merely calls the attention of the public to the number of times such a thing happens."

The report of the school board on the adoption of calisthenics in the grammar and primary schools is published in this issue and will be found to be very interesting reading. The committee make very practical and common sense recommendations.

The State Senate shows a disposition to yield to the wishes of the people in its action on the biennial election amendment, and the House ought to follow suit. The people would adopt the amendment by a great majority, if they had a chance to vote upon it, and this seems to be what the opponents of the measure are afraid of.

SOME new rules and regulations of the board of health are advertised on the third page.

Industrial School.
The Social Science Club has again undertaken the work of carrying on the Industrial School at Nonantum, started by them last summer. The arrangement of the details of the work has been put into the hands of a committee, whose plan, as far as perfected, provides for holding the school for a term of eight weeks during July and August in the Athenaeum building on Dalby St., Mr. H. W. Wellington having again generously offered its use. It is proposed to have three departments, sewing, cooking and carpentry, the whole to be under the charge of one principal, with assistants in each department. The sewing and carpentry classes will be conducted on the same general plan as last year. The cooking department, which is an addition to last year's plan, will consist of classes selected according to age and proficiency from the sewing department. The expense of the school will be between six and six hundred dollars. Less than this amount will necessitate shortening the term. The club is endeavoring to raise this sum and earnestly invites the help of all the people of Newton. A work like this should command the attention of every one in our city for the comfort and happiness of our midst like Nonantum is of vital importance, and such a work, whose chief aim is to make more useful and self-dependent citizens, surely deserves the support of every public-spirited man and woman. Contributions will be sent to Mrs. Walter White, Franklin street, treasurer of the school.

Newton C. E. Union.
The next regular meeting of the Newton Christian Endeavor Union will be held, Monday evening, April 14th, at the Universalist church, Washington park, Newtonville. A sociable has been arranged as the best means of promoting a better acquaintance among the societies of the union. Supper will be served at 7 o'clock and a short entertainment given. All members of the societies connected with the union are cordially invited to attend.

Carpenters Meeting.
A meeting will be held in Cole's Hall next Wednesday evening, April 10th, at 7:30 o'clock, under the auspices of Local Union 275 of Newton. There will be some good addresses by prominent speakers. The noted speaker, Frank K. Foster of Boston, publisher of the Labor Leader. Those who have heard him before will be sure to be present to hear him again. Also W. J. Shields, vice president of the Brotherhood, will speak. A cordial invitation is extended to all as it will be the best meeting of the kind ever held in Newton. Seats reserved for ladies. Per order of Local Union 275.

NONANTUM
—James Blue of Williams College is spending a few days at his home in this village.

—Mr. Geo. Nolen and A. K. Worth were the delegates from the North church at the Suffolk West Conference, Tuesday.

—Mr. Geo. Hudson and Mr. Richard King have been elected as representatives to the Grand Division, Sons of Temperance, and will attend the same next Wednesday at Boston.

—Charles Rollin who has kept the Parker house for several years, removed to Robert's Crossing, Waltham, where he has fitted up a large boarding house. H. S. Foss has gone into the Parker house which he has refitted and improved and will keep it as a first class house.

—Peter Nugent who has kept a small variety store on Watertown street for several years, died at his home Wednesday. He has been sick with pneumonia for two weeks past and but little hope has been entertained of his recovery. He was about 45 years old and has been a sufferer from rheumatism for years.

—The Sons of Temperance gave a very successful entertainment in the Lower Athenaeum Hall on Tuesday evening to a large and appreciative audience. The admission fee was ten cents and about twenty-five dollars was realized which is to be used in cleaning and renovating the hall. The division will make a fraternal visit to Banner division, Cambridgeport, next Wednesday evening.

—The Easter concert at the North church was held at six o'clock last Sabbath evening and was as usual a very successful affair. Miss Hudson presided at the organ with her usual ability and the Sabbath School orchestra accompanied the singing of the school. Rev. Mr. Taylor of Newtonville made a short address to the children the subject being the ever present Jesus. The children acquitted themselves well in the recitation and received into their ranks a new recruit, Miss Maude Butler who said she was three years old. Alfred Hurdley, soprano, and Woodrow Hurdley, alto, rendered a duet Easter day very nicely. A. R. Cox superintendent, conducted the concert, which was very satisfactory, the floral decorations were profuse.

The advertisement of Mr. George D. Cox, which appears this week, calls attention to some very desirable property at West Newton, which can be secured on reasonable terms.

The system of dress cutting taught by Mrs. Bennett, 12 West street, is the very best. Mrs. Bennett would be pleased to see the ladies of Newton who are desirous of obtaining a first-class fit.

Mr. D. Toy has recently received a large invoice of suitings, overcoatings, etc., which he is prepared to make into stylish, well-fitting garments for the gentlemen of this vicinity. Remember he is located at 71 Beacon street, Boston.

Bent & Co.'s Crackers are without a rival in purity and excellence.

The Bayside at North Weymouth will open for the season June 1. This is the eighth season of this popular resort, and those who have not visited this charming spot should read the inducements in another column that this house holds forth.

—It is understood that the Newton Street Railway Company purchased the site on Washington near the corner of Cross street formerly owned by Edward Batcheller. The price paid was in the vicinity of $5000. The house will be moved nearer Washington street and the site will be utilized, probably, for a corporation boarding house.

—The High School class of '90 gave a complimentary dancing party to the officers of the 10th cavalry and the 1st Cavalry in Tremont Hall, Tuesday evening, and it was very pleasant, social, festive and some pretty costumes were worn by the young ladies. The hall was tastefully trimmed with the class piece of a glass monument in the corner of the hall being an especial feature of the decoration.

—The Methodist church contained large audiences Easter Sunday and the services were in accordance with the joyful character of the festival. The musical numbers were finely sung by the quartet choir, the Anthem "Christ our Passover" being rendered at the morning service. In the evening, the cantata "Our Easter Hope" was rendered by the quartet choir, all participating in the musical features.

—A beautiful hall clock in an antique oak case has been placed near the main entrance in the Newton clubhouse. It is an exquisite piece of workmanship from the workshop of Shreve, Taylor and Lowe, and it is intended as a prize for the lucky man with the best average in the club bowling tournament. He cannot hold the clock trophy until he is successful in defeating all comers for a year.

—A preliminary meeting of persons interested in the formation of a Chieftain's League in connection with the Improved Order of Red Men, was held in Tremont Hall, Wednesday evening. The following committees were appointed, including membership, hall, name, institution and general details. Another meeting will be held Monday evening, April 21. The League will be instituted Monday evening, April 28.

—The New Delta Sigma was entertained by Mr. E. T. Rollins Tuesday evening, and its members enjoyed among other things the singing of the following songs, including rolls, a la Roll-ins. Crockett; "The Future," Charles West; "Our Host," Frank W. Adams; "New Delta Sigma in the Colleges," Thomas G. Adams.

—Mr. Joseph Byers is adding another to his group of fine houses on Lowell street; Higgins & Nickerson are busily at work on two more close by, and Mr. Needham, our genial dry goods dealer, is to build another on Broadway street, and Edinboro streets for himself and son. Even Newton parties have looked with envious eyes upon this street with the idea of establishing a pretty home thereon, which she hoped they would be able to locate that the land in this pleasant section will soon, it seems, be all monopolized.

on Monday at his home in Lowell. The Chamber of Commerce of Boston, as well as many other organizations of which the deceased was a valued and prominent member, have made large contributions to the floral offerings of love and sympathy were very profuse. Mr. Nichols leaves a widow, one son, Edward H. Nichols of the firm of Sargent & Sons, Cambridge, and a daughter, Mrs. Albert W. Crocker of Newtonville. The interment was at the Lowell cemetery.

A very pleasant children's party was held last evening at Hall Woodbury's afternoon, given by Mr. Wetherell, the guests present being the little friends of her daughter. The usual social features and dancing were enjoyed. The following is the program: C. George, B. B. Carter, Bob Hawley, Harold Gordon, Charlie and Harry Johnson, Robby Dresser, Milly Dresser, Grace Eppler, Bessie Bancroft, Helen Gore, Ethel Johnson, Edna Johnson, Irene Norman, Lillian Johnson, Laura Hayward, Pearl Bird, Vera Rumery, Helen Avery, Maude Allen, Lizzie Nickerson, Merrill Sands, Ethel Washburn, Nellie Ellis, Gerlie Spear, Sadie Bailey, Mary E. —Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jordan, residing on Washington street, celebrated their wedding anniversary last Tuesday. They received from 4 until 6 and from 7 until 9 p. m., many friends calling to offer congratulations and good wishes for their future happiness. They were the recipients of many beautiful flowers and appropriate gifts, including $50 in gold from Newtonville friends. The occasion was of an informal, pleasant social character. Music was furnished by the orchestra. A poem was read by the author, Mrs. Walter P. Chaloner. Mr. and Mrs. Jordan were married in Boston April 9, 1840, by Rev. Otis A. Skinner. They have resided in Newtonville since 1842. Both are highly respected and beloved by a wide circle of friends.

—The Newton Club pool and billiard tournament is progressing, as the following might be recalled: Billiards, where C. H. Carter won 1 lost 1; C. H. Sprague won 4, lost 2; H. N. Baker won 4, lost 2; W. H. Mendall won 3, lost 2; W. O. Hunt won 1, lost 3; L. A. Nicholl won 1, lost 3; E. E. Burdon won 0, lost 3; E. E. Burdon won 0, lost 2. WEST NEWTON.

—James D. Henthorn has been appointed inspector of police.

—Some of the children have returned to school and are looking forward to the summer vacation.

—N. T. Lane started Sunday evening on a three weeks' business trip. He will return about the middle of next week.

—Mr. Wilbur Thomas, the Globe correspondent, has taken rooms at Mrs. M. B. Hussey's, Elm street.

—Daniel J. Linahan has accepted a position as travelling salesman for the well-known Philadelphia house of Hirsch Brothers, Philadelphia.

—The engagement is announced of Mr. Walter M. Cotting of Melrose, formerly of West Newton, and Miss S. Carrie Spidle of Lunenburg, N. S.

—Henry H. Hunt has been granted a portion of a large carriage shop Chestnut street, adjoining the store of H. E. Woodbury.

—Past Grand Duane and staff worked the first degree at the meeting of the Odd Fellows, No. 22, in Knights of Honor Hall, last evening.

—Mr. Henry Bush has sold his fine residence on Putnam street to Dr. Bellows of New York city, who will remove to Brookline with his family.

—Miss Kathleen M. Russell sang in the chorus at the Macbeth performance given by the Newton amateurs in the Globe Theatre building, last Wednesday night at Newton lodge, I. O. O. F. will appropriately observe the 71st anniversary of Odd Fellowship, by an entertainment to be given Thursday evening, April 24.

—A civil service examination will be held in City Hall at an early day for a foreman in the office of the City Engineer. Applications can be made to the City Clerk or to H. C. Hayden, Newtonville.

—Fast Day J. Wiley Edmunds Camp 100, S. V. attended the Campfire of Post 62, G. A. R., at Needham Heights, last Friday evening. In the evening they assisted in mustering a new camp at Needham.

—The last sociable of the Unitarian Sunday school will be held this Friday evening, far away by a feast of the little Misses, under the leadership of Mr. George H. Emerson, the principal entertainment of the occasion.

Messrs. F. G. Barnes & Son, the real estate agents, have secured the Queen Anne cottage with 12,000 sq. ft. of land situated on Webster Park, West Newton, owned and occupied by Mrs. Mary E. Bullard, to Wm. W. Wells of Milton, Mass.

The Messrs. Florence Davis of West Newton and Miss Virginia Davis of Roxbury gave a very pretty harlequin party at the residence of Miss Homer, last Friday evening. After refreshments were served dancing commenced in the parlors.

The meetings of the "Lend a Hand" club that have been carried on so successfully the past two months, will be discontinued until the autumn. The boys who have been in attendance, will be served an excellent supper in the hall on Saturday evening, in their rooms, Nickerson's block.

A large delegation of the Friends of John M. Barry assembled at the depot at Roswell, Mass., to bid him goodbye. He left for Boston on the 9.20 train and went to New York on the "owl" on his way to Philadelphia, where he has accepted a position with the Gayety Publishing company.

The electric light globe and fixtures with the wires attached, situated on the corner of Waltham and Washington streets, near the intersection of the latter with horse attached to a milk wagon got entangled in the wires and was thrown down. The damage consisted largely of a broken harness and shattered globes.

The lower end of River street are inundated, and householders have been obliged to wade through water to coal bins and furnaces. Drainage is badly needed in this section. The board of health is investigating, especially as wet cellars are said to be promoters of serious forms of typhoid disorders.

The first ball of local note, 426, Carpenters and Joiners of America, was held in Nickerson's Hall, Monday evening. Over 100 couples participated, and dancing lasted until nearly daylight. Music was furnished by Sylvester's orchestra. B. L. Deady acted as floor director, assisted by the following aids: Thomas F. McLuskey, A. S. McDonald, James Saunders, John Hunter, J. M. Durchein, J. E. Harris, J. A. T. King.

At St. Bernard's church, Easter Sunday, large Mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Barrett at 10.30 a. m. The sermon was delivered by the rector, Rev. L. J. C. Toole. The choir, composed of the full choir, the organ movements being rendered by Miss Maggie Fitz. Vesper services were held in the evening. The attendance was unusually large. Members of all denominations being present at the morning and evening services.

The annual parish meeting of the Antislavery Society will be held next Monday evening. A social gathering to which all the members of the congregation are invited will precede the business meeting. The services will be held at the church, connected with the church will be read, and choice of parish officers will be made. Active preparations are already in progress for the annual meeting, and it is anticipated to be made one of unusual enjoyment to the little ones.

—Dalby & Bailey, the painters and decorators, will have their shop in H. H. Hunt's new building on Chestnut street, between Arch and Third streets, and have just fitted up. Both members of the firm were for many years with W. J. McPherson, Boston, which is a guarantee of their ability, and to do also fine carriage painting and repairing, sign and furniture painting, paper hanging, outside painting and interior painting and decorating.

—Mr. Elijah A. Wood and Mr. Harry Mason have been selected to make preliminary arrangements for the formation of a base ball nine alluded to elsewhere. The players include men well known in nautical and professional circles. Bob, formerly of Chatham, has a very probably pitch and Al Pine, formerly of the Athletics, will occasionally take a hand at twisting the sphere. Fredericks, formerly of the Mechanics, and George, who was a member of the old Newtons, will both probably play in the new nine. The opening game will be played on Decoration Day.

—At the Congregational church, the Easter services were largely attended. The pastor, Rev. H. J. Patrick, preached an appropriate sermon in the morning and a fine musical program was rendered by the choir. The organ accompaniment was by J. E. Trowbridge's organ, "Emanuel," and included "But Mary Stood at the Sepulchre Waiting," and "They Have Taken Away the Stone." At the evening service, the organ accompaniment was rendered by Mr. J. E. Trowbridge. Carols were sung by the Sabbath school chorus and Pine Farm boys, and interesting remarks were made by the pastor. The decorations were appropriate and beautiful.

—The appointment of 6 patrolmen at the meeting of the aldermen Monday evening has made some very happy and unhappy men. The list is, on the whole, a good one, and with a large number to be selected from, a measure of disappointment to some was sure to result. The appointments correspond very nearly to the list presented in the papers as the probable men. Several of the names of the new patrolmen, H. Condrin appeared in the last named list, the opinion that his appointment was reasonably assured being based on the fact that he stood high in the estimation of the police officers. The name of Charles Young was also mentioned, but there is still a chance for him, as there yet remains one vacancy to be filled. He is a reputable and well-to-do man, and with a large number of men as a special officer and possesses, apparently, the necessary qualifications for permanent membership on the police force.

—The appointment of James D. Henthorn an inspector of police was anticipated by many of the police officers, and several of his numerous friends who think that he possesses especial fitness for the position. There can be little doubt that he will make a most efficient officer, and that the interests of justice and the protection of property owners. He is one of the oldest members of the force, having been appointed patrolman May 15, 1875. He served as a patrolman until within a few weeks of his last day, and day officer at Newton, occasionally performing special duty, being detailed to work up evidence leading to the capture of the rascals and other offenders. He has been engaged in many of the most important cases, and has displayed good judgment in producing evidence. For three years prior to his appointment as a member of the police force, he was a special police officer. Inspector Henthorn was born in 1843 and has resided in Newton since 1849. He received his education in the Newton and Brighton schools.

—There was a large audience present in the parlors of the Second Congregational church, last evening upon the occasion of an orange tea and musicale. The rooms were tastefully decorated with streamers and flowers, and the tables were covered with paper were twined about the chandeliers. A number of pretty young ladies presided at the tables, being assisted by eight youthful pages attired in Florentine costumes and carrying a basket of oranges. The decorations were elegant and attractive in design, and appropriate souvenirs were presented to each person present. The entertainment consisted of piano and vocal selections by Mrs. Marsh, soprano in number by Miss Denley of Chelsea, vocal selections by Mr. W. T. Rice and duets by Miss Denley and Mrs. Walter Whittlesey. Mrs. Whittlesey also sang, and piano accompaniment was given by Mrs. Marsh. The success of the affair was largely due to the efforts of the following committee: Mrs. Jane Hastings, Mrs. George Child, Mrs. J. Fuller, Mrs. Henry J. Fuller, Mrs. Child, Mrs. Child, Mrs. Fuller, Mrs. M. S. Cora Underwood, Miss Julia Sizer.

—The new patrolmen will be sworn in and assigned to routes as soon as their uniforms are received. The following is the list of men, with age and place of birth: W. O. Harlow, aged 25 years, born in Sandwich, Mass., son of Deputy Sheriff Harlow, of Barnstable; John J. Harlow, aged 24 years, born at Portsmouth, N. H., honorably discharged after three years service in the U. S. Navy, from the Vandalia at Mare Island Yard, Alameda, Cal.; Richard T. Taffet, 26, born in West Newton, a graduate of the Newton schools, served two years as a special police officer; Joshua H. Seaver, 30, born in West Newton, now residing in New Orleans; Lower Falls; Fred M. Mitchell, 28, born in Cambridge and graduated from the Cambridge schools; John J. Davis, 30, born in Boston, formerly employed by the Newton Water Electric Light Works. Seaver and Mitchell have been in the employ of the Boston & Albany Railroad Corporation for several years, latterly in the capacity of baggage and express men. Seaver is of the usual weight and height averaging in the latter respect about five feet eleven inches. They are bright, active men and seem to possess the necessary qualifications for efficient and painstaking officers.

...acknowledged fact that common House Painting is not one as skillfully and with the durability that it was fifty years ago?

What is the reason? Great improvements have been made in the mechanical arts, science has accomplished much, valuable discoveries have developed wonder.

It is the desire, for cheapness that has affected every one. A dollar's worth of labor or material is wanted for half a dollar. To make a show of giving it everything is counterfeited, and we have become aiders and abettors in universal rottenry. This will apply to every nation on the face of the earth.

Mean competition compels work done without a living compensation. Fifty years ago a painter was given a job to do, with the single admonition of "Do it well," and charge a fair price for it." General satisfaction was the result.

As a result of many years' study and experience in the manufacture of Paints,
Mr. Wheeler has made valuable discoveries, whereby paint will endure twice the time than ever before, and the labor of painting will yield to the employer a better reward and more satisfactory results.

This information is embodied in a new pamphlet, just issued by Mr. Wheeler, which he presents to the public free or mailed for 2 cts. Asabel Wheeler, 145

—Dr. Mary E. Bates expects to sail for Europe May 3rd. She will go direct to Rome from here to enable her to visit that place before the warm season.

—Mr. Cotter, who is building the new street near the depot, has taken the contract for the new avenue to be cut through from Grant avenue to Hammond street.

—The morning service at the Congregational church last Sunday was very well attended, also the evening exercises, and the fine Easter music was a very interesting feature.

—There will be an especial attraction in this evening's service at the Congregational church, as Rev. Geo. A. Hood is expected to speak of the progress of Christian work in the west.

—An addition, 16x20 feet, is to be put on to H. S. Williams' house on Centre street. Other inside improvements are also to be made. S. G. Stevens has the contract for doing the work.

—The Village Carnival which was to have taken place Wednesday evening was postponed to April 23, on account of the possible exposure of the children to a contagious disease near the hall.

—The attendance at the Baptist church last Sunday was very large, both morning and evening, and the musical program was very pleasing. At the latter service Mrs. Waterbury gave an interesting address on India.

—The Baptist sociable in the church parlors, Wednesday evening, was a very pleasant occasion, and in addition to other exercises an orchestra from Winchester rendered music. There was a fair attendance notwithstanding the rain.

—Col. L. F. Kingsbury, administrator for the Benj. Kingsbury estate near Bowen street, is having the house there repaired and the other houses belonging to the estate thoroughly repaired and painted, and the land cleared and improved.

—Mr. Harry W. Mason has the ground staked out for two new houses on the corner of Centre and Ballard streets. Mr. H. F. Ross has the contract for building them. The houses will be of attractive design and will help to improve that section.

—Chas. J. Anderson, the father of the boy whose leg was amputated at the Cottage Hospital last week, says that the amputation was without his consent or his knowledge, although he was at the hospital, and the doctors told him that they would wait for the arrival of Dr. Loring, his family physician, who had been sent for and was on the way over. But when he arrived the operation was over, and the boy never rallied from the shock. The father talks of suing either the operating surgeon, Dr. Porter of Auburndale, or the hospital corporation, as he thinks the amputation was unnecessary, and that without it the boy would have recovered.

—Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mosher and Mr. Edwin Mosher of Nova Scotia arrived at Mr. Thos. C. Armstrong's, Centre street, on Fast day for a few days' visit before proceeding on their trip to California. Soon after their arrival Mr. Edwin Mosher was taken down with a severe attack of diphtheria, and on Dr. Loring being summoned he advised his immediate removal to the City Hospital, Boston. On arriving at the hospital the patient was refused admittance, and a letter sent to Dr. Loring by the hospital authorities, informing him that they "wished it forcibly understood that they cannot take any more contagious cases from the city of Newton." They stated that their wards had been so occupied with suburban cases that they had not room for their own city patients, and the trustees have refused to allow more.

—Mr. Mosher has since been under the care of Dr. Loring, and although he has been very ill it is hoped he will recover.

—All will remember Miss Sparhawk's charming story of "Polly Blatchley" for young people, published a year or so ago by Roberts Brothers. The same firm has brought out another book by the same author in which readers will be glad to meet Polly again, now grown to be a young lady, and seized with the idea of spending a winter at the Indian school at Carlisle, Pa. The book recounts her experience there, described with a great deal of local color, Miss Sparhawk having spent a winter there while gathering material for the book. Polly's adventures and conclusions are very interesting, but one also gains a clearer insight of what the school is doing for the young Indians, and also of the right side of the much discussed Indian question. The book deserves a wide circulation, on this account, as well as for its charming account of the very interesting heroine.

—Mr. McAleer of Upper Falls, who was the builder of Mr. T. W. Mullens' house on Centre street, will build one of similar style for Mr. Dickerman near Eliot station, the cellar for which is now being put in.

—Mr. Newell of Upper Falls has discontinued the running of his barge to and from the Highlands, as the special commission of the pupils, as the city have made no appropriation to meet a portion of the expense.

—Advertised letters—Mr. D. Atkinson, Chas. Baird, Mary E. Coyne, Mr. Elmir Crane, Mr. W. H. Keating, Mr. J. H. Lewis, Luther J. B. Lincoln, Mr. W. D. Rice, Mrs. James M. Rowell, Mrs. J. Rice, Mr. J. M. Williams.

—We hear that the city of Newton have purchased of Mr. Thomas Hanney fifteen acres of land, fronting on Winchester street and extending to the river, for a city farm, and on which suitable buildings will be erected for almshouse purposes.

—Rev. Mr. Todd of the school of Theology, Boston, who preached at the Highlands church last Sunday evening, will occupy the pulpit next Sunday morning, and it is probable he may be settled here by the conference which meets in Boston this week.

—The Easter and Missionary concert at the Methodist church last Sunday was listened to by a large audience. The exercises were recitations by the children of the Sunday school, readings, and singing, and made the evening meeting a very pleasant affair.

—Methodist services were held in Lincoln Hall last Sabbath afternoon, at which there was a good attendance. Rev. G. S. Butters conducted the exercises. Services will be held in the same place, on Friday, at 3 o'clock, to be in charge of Rev. Mr. Gill. All are invited.

—The last "Assembly" of the pupils of the dancing school took place in Lincoln Hall on Tuesday evening. A dancing party will take place in Lincoln Hall on Tuesday evening, Apr. 15th, to which tickets of admission will be on sale. Refreshments will be served.

—All lovers of college glee club music should attend the Boston University Glee Club concert at Stevens' Hall next Thursday evening. Those who have heard these fine voices say the concert will be exceptionally fine. It is given under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E.

—A horse belonging to Mr. Geo. Smith of Lower Falls was frightened one day last week, while eating his dinner with his bride off, and ran into the yard of Mr. Hoyt's house, breaking the door and wagon. Mr. Hoyt had just entered the house from the yard, and narrowly escaped getting hurt.

—The services at the Congregational church were largely attended on Easter and of special interest. The floral decorations were fine and the music beautifully rendered by the choir. It was gratifying to see the choir again in their accustomed places. "The Living Hope" was the subject of the sermon and the service was interspersed with much singing and responsive scripture reading. The evening service was on the character of the spiritual body of the resurrection.

—One of the most enjoyable entertainments ever given in Lincoln Hall was that of Thursday evening by the Newton Highlands minstrels. The Hall was filled by a very appreciative audience, many being present from the other villages of Newton and the surrounding towns. Soon after 8 o'clock the curtain rose and the following named composed the circle: Interlocutor, M. L. P. Leonard, end men, Mr. E. B. Sampson, A. W. Small, Samuel Tyler, C. P. Clark; chorus, F. W. Manson, T. W. White, T. P. Treadwell, J. P. Estabrook, F. E. Babcock, W. E. Moore, L. S. Brigham, C. F. Johnson, J. H. Adams, H. P. Ayer, F. R. Moore, C. H. Moulton. The opening piece of the musical program was a song finely rendered by the chorus, after which the end men and Mr. Ayer of the chorus, rendered several selections, interspersed by local hits, jokes, questions and answers by the end men, which were received with roars of laughter and applause of the audience. After the rising of the curtain, the second part of the program was an exhibition of Edison phonograph by Mr. L. C. Beckwith, who explained the working of the instrument, and tested it by reproducing sayings and music, which was greatly appreciated, after which an exhibition of McGinty of powerful physique, by Messrs. Nash, Sampson, Mabey, and Tardiff was well received, and the program was brought to a close by an exhibition by the inventor of the Equimuculus, which was beyond our powers of description, and must be seen to be appreciated. The members of the club are to be congratulated upon the success attending their efforts to give the public a very enjoyable performance, and that it was so well patronized.

WABAN.

—St. Paul's Episcopal church, Brookline, was the scene of a very brilliant wedding Wednesday evening. The contracting parties were Miss Elizabeth Dana, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dana of Brookline, and Mr. Arthur Comer of Waban. The church was beautifully decorated with flowering plants, and the chancel was one mass of ferns, tropical plants and hydrangeas. At 7 o'clock the bride entered the church on the arm of her father and, preceded by the ushers, the party passed up the aisle to the altar, where they were met by the best man, Mr. Edmund Winchester, and the officiating clergyman, Rev. Leonard K. Storrs. The maid of honor was Miss Ruth D. Dana, and the ushers were Edward R. Nash, Charles W. Coe, William F. Buffum, George F. Hussey, Henry Waterman, Jr., Harry Russ and J. H. Comer. Dr. Weston presided at the organ. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents on Washington street. Mr. and Mrs. Comer, on their return from an extensive tour, will reside at Waban.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. Horace Clark is spending a week in Waban.

—Prof. Bancroft returned to Pennsylvania the first of this week.

—Mr. J. Fred Hopkins has returned to his studies in Brooklyn, N. Y.

—Will Fanning is attending the Bryant & Stratton Commercial school, Boston.

—Mrs. M. H. Coffin and daughter of High street, are visiting relatives in Chelsea.

—Mr. J. B. Newell is quite ill with heart trouble, and is being attended by Dr. Hildreth.

—The alarm from Box 65 last Friday was for a grass fire near Eliot station, which was soon extinguished.

—Mrs. Strong has moved out of Dr. Lowe's house on Chestnut street, and as yet it has not been re-let.

—The bill board partakes more of the proper dignity of such an important public benefactor now, and the square looks the better for it.

—Hose answered a still alarm on Fast Day, for a brush fire on land belonging to Mr. Witherrall at Oak Hill, which was speedily put out.

—Head Master C. E. Hussey of the Prospect school, has been in Washington, D. C., the greater part of the week, superintending a Raymond excursion.

—Mr. P. F. Lilly has returned home from South Carolina, after an absence of eleven weeks, where he had been engaged in machinery for the Pettie Machine Works.

—Rev. John Peterson was in attendance upon the New England Methodist annual conference which commenced at the People's M. E. church, Boston, last Wednesday.

—Services will be held as usual at the Methodist church next Sunday. The pulpit will be supplied by one of the preachers in attendance on the New England Conference now in session in Boston.

—People are very much gratified at the renewal of the large trips to Newton Highlands, also at the reduced fare of 5 cents, which was formerly 10 cents. Mr. Miner commenced running Monday morning.

—A meeting of gentlemen interested in another checker tournament, was held at the residence of Mr. Wm. Lowe on Tuesday evening, and it was decided to commence on Saturday, the prizes to be the same as before.

—Quinquo association had their last spread of the season last Monday evening. Caterer Dill of Waltham furnished an excellent repast for the assembled members. Nearly all who belong to the association were in attendance, and after the dinner, which of course was the feature of the evening, an informal social hour was spent with much speaking and with others busied themselves with checkers or dominoes.

—The Easter services at the Baptist church were very largely attended. The church was very prettily decorated with flowers, and the sermon by Rev. Mr. Holman in the morning, and the music, was very appropriate for the occasion. A fine musical program was rendered in the evening in addition to the other exercises, a solo by Miss Edith Newell being especially fine, also the singing by Miss Ingraham, Miss Billings, and Mr. Walton.

—At the meeting of the board of aldermen Monday evening, the special committee on removal of the almshouse recommended that the Thomas Hanney place on Winchester street, Oak Hill, be purchased, and the order was passed authorizing the necessary expenditure, which was limited to $7,000. The purchase contemplated consists of 19 acres of land not including buildings and one acre, which have been reserved to Mr. Hanney, the land running to the Charles river.

—The funeral of Mrs. Norcross of Wellesley Hills took place Wednesday. A number of guests attended, and many beautiful floral designs.

—The people in this vicinity learn with regret that Dr. E. Baker is to leave here, as he has purchased a house in Newtonville last Tuesday evening.

—The ledge at Rice's Crossing has been sufficiently removed to allow the B. & A. to lay two double tracks if required. "The Living Hope" was the subject of the sermon and the service was interspersed with much singing and responsive scripture reading. The evening service was on the character of the spiritual body of the resurrection.

—At the Wellesley town meeting last Tuesday, the proposal for a fire alarm system was voted down, 4 hours was made a day's work in the town's department, and it was voted to enlarge the Shaw school house for Wellesley Hill scholars.

—A gang of Italians arrived here this week and will be assigned to the work on the road which is to run parallel with the Charles river and called Quinquoquin. Mr. Hale has had a house erected near their work, where they will live during their stay here.

—It is expected that the privilege to cross the Boston Water Works will be granted by the commissioners next week, as the matter has been before them for consideration for some time. This is the first time in the history of the department of delay of work on Waban avenue, as the owner of Waban is very anxious to have this thoroughfare begun.

—Mr. Fred M. Mitchell and Herbert J. Seaver received appointments to the police force last Monday evening. Both stood among the first in examinations, and will make worthy officers. Mr. Seaver was born in this village, is 39 years of age, weight 160 pounds, height 5 ft. 10 inches, and has been in the employ of the city of Albany road about 12 years, and at present is baggage master on the Newton train. Mr. Mitchell holds a similar position on the Boston train and has already given in his resignation, which will take effect next week.

—Mrs. Rachel A. Robinson at 5 Hamilton place, is selling a great many of the Jenness Miller dresses and undergarments of which she makes a specialty.

—Ladies should visit the art exhibition of Mrs. Helen Farley Blaney at her rooms, 20 Beacon street, Boston. The pictures will be thrown open to out of town visitors to-day and to-morrow.

—Bent & Co. make Water, Butter, Soda, Wine and Milk Crackers.

Carpet Cleaning.
This is the time of year when carpet cleaning and repairing becomes of special importance to housekeepers, and it is of benefit to know that Simon A. White of the Newton Carpet Cleaning company, Clinton street, Newtonville, does work that proves perfectly satisfactory, as will be vouched for by hundreds of Newton families who have patronized him in the past. He can be reached by mail or by telephone, as will be seen by his advertisement on 3rd page.

Newton Horticultural Society.
The Newton Horticultural Society has decided to offer this year five prizes additional to its usual list—three for 12 named hybrid perpetual roses and two for six named roses of the same kind. The sum of $130 has been appropriated for prizes, and the show will be held about June 30 in Associates' Hall, Newton Centre.
Those who have not yet decided where to pass the summer months should send for a handsome hollyleaf circular, such as are issued by Manager Edgar J. Rich of Hotel Preston, Beach Bluff. The location of this house is unrivalled on the North Shore, while the cuisine has always proved to be the very best. On the whole, no better spot could be selected in which to pass the summer, on account of the delightful surroundings and the elegant service that this house affords.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE COMMON COUNCIL DISCUSS THE HIGH SCHOOL BARGE.

The common council met Monday evening, President Hyde in the chair and Councilmen Mead, Porter, Crehore, Roffe, Churchill, Collins, Richardson, Forknall, Hall, Estabrook and Dutch present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved, and a long docket of business from the upper branch was disposed of in concurrence.

When the item appropriating $1,200 for the purchase of four horses came up, Councilman Dutch said he did not see why the city should pay $300 for a horse, when Mr. Eddy, Mr. Magne, or any other large buyer of horses in the city could get the kind of horses required at $250 each, and get them a month on trial if desired. The price of horses had been reduced from $250 to $50, as he found when he was buying them, and he thought it was his duty to protest if the city was paying more for anything than individuals had to pay. In other departments the city was paying more than he had to pay for the same things, and he thought it was the duty of the councilmen to stop the leaks, if they could.

Councilman Richardson said he knew horses could be bought for $250, but they were not first-class horses, such as the city of Newton wanted, and he would like to have Mr. Dutch go round the Boston sale stables with him, and see whether first-class draught horses could be taken a month on trial or not, or could be bought for less than $300. A little experience in such matters opened the eyes a good deal, and he did not think that $1,200 was any too much.

When the report in regard to buying the Sargent land on Waban Hill came up, Councilman Estabrook asked if the land was for a reservoir or for a park, as the report was a little indefinite. In other parts of the city, if a park was wanted, the citizens were told that they must pay half, and he did not see why Chestnut Hill should be made an exception.

President Hyde said that the land was wanted for water purposes.

Councilman Estabrook said that in the water board report it was stated that only two acres were needed for the reservoir, and yet here the plan is for the city to buy between 9 and 10 acres. What is the other seven acres for, and why should the city buy it? Six years ago the land could have been bought for $10,000, and last year it was assessed for $20,000, and it was only a short time that the owner wanted to sell it so bad that he was offering it for a hotel site, and to take stock in the hotel. He had been told by a prominent real estate dealer that $20,000 was a good price for the land, and yet it was proposed to have the city pay over $40,000. Why not condemn the two acres needed and take it in the usual way, without making the city buy such a large tract at such an exorbitant price?

Engineer Noyes was called on to explain, and said the two acres was only what was needed at once, but the plan was to make the new reservoir only one-fourth of a reservoir system to be placed on the hill, so that in future when the fire system was extended all over the city, there would be plenty of room for extension. The plan called for some 5 and 6-10ths acres, which would allow for a driveway around it. This would leave a tier of lots which could be used for building purposes. The committee which had been negotiating with Mr. Sargent, could not get a less price from him. He wanted $25,000 for the 5 and 6-10ths acres, and real estate men say that for the whole tract 10 cents a foot is not excessive, as land has been sold near there for 11 and 13 cents a foot.

Councilman Estabrook said he had a very good opinion of the assessors, and thought they very seldom failed to get all a piece of property was worth. In the list, and if it was worth only $20,000 a year ago, he did not see how the land had increased so much in value in such a short time. It showed a great appreciation in that section of the city.

President Hyde said he knew several real estate men and they had said that it was not an excessive price. He would quote Mr. J. F. C. Hyde, who would be admitted as having the interests of Newton at heart, and he had said it was a good thing for the city to take the land at the price.

Councilman Estabrook said the whole business was to supply with water a few people who had built on the highest points of land in the city, knowing that they would have no water supply. He thought it would be cheaper for the city to give them water, or haul the water to them. He did not believe in spending so much for a few residents.

Councilman Hall said the high service was only one part of the proposed system; the fire service was inadequate and it was necessary to improve this.

Mr. Noyes said the high service was not only for the Chestnut Hill people, but for the people of Waban, Upper Falls, Oak Hill and parts of Newton Centre. The fire service would be more adequate.

The order for the purchase of the Sargent land was then passed in concurrence.

NEW BUSINESS.

Councilman Roffe presented the petition of Newton Centre residents for the repairing of the asphalt walks on Parker street, from a point beyond the residence of Elisha Bassett, and also for the extension of the walk to connect with Ridge avenue.

E. T. Fearing, J. P. Levitt and G. P. Atkins asked for concrete walks on Tremont street, in front of their houses.

J. B. Thomas asked for concrete walks on Warren street.

J. G. Lyford called attention to the way in which Washington street drainage flowed over his land, and said he was willing to give the right to build a proper drain under certain conditions.

Residents of Boyd street, on both sides, asked to have that part of the street between Jewett and Emerson put in respectable condition.

Residents of Central avenue and Judkins street asked for a concrete cross-walk at junction of the streets. All the foregoing were referred to the highway committee.

Residents on Beacon street, Waban, asked for one street lamp.

HIGH SCHOOL BARGE.

Councilman Roffe stirred up quite a commotion by introducing a petition in regard to the high school barge that had stopped running, as Mr. Newell was losing money, and recommending an appropriation to help pay for the balance of the year, and also that a committee to consist of one member from each councilman be appointed to confer with the Boston & Albany railroad officials, to secure if possible, equitable rates for high school scholars. It was signed by Frank Edmonds and some forty others.

Councilman Forknall asked how long the barge had ceased to run.

Councilman Roffe said four weeks ago.

Councilman Forknall said the school board had voted down a proposition to ask the city to pay part of the expenses of the barge and he should oppose it.

President Hyde said the proposition had failed in the school board because Mr. Putney was absent and Mr. Hornbrooke was late. It would undoubtedly be passed at the next meeting.

Mr. Forknall said he was wholly opposed to voting money for residents of Wards Five and Six. Other wards did not receive any such assistance, and scholars did not have the advantage of good concrete walks.

President Hyde said Mr. Forknall would fail to find much concrete between the High school and the Highlands. This appropriation was not a new matter, but the barge had been running as far back as he could remember, and it had started in the early days of the High school on condition that the advanced school at Newton Centre was given up. On the railroad, the children from the south side had to pay from 12 to 15 cents each way, while on the north side the highest charge was 5 cents, and a trip ticket was used. Many poor children were obliged to give up the high school as they could not walk the four miles from Oak Hill and Upper Falls, and could not afford to pay the fare.

Mr. Forknall said no money had been appropriated for two years.

Mr. Dutch said 4 miles was the farthest point, and most of them only had to go two or two and one half miles. That was not a long distance for children 15 years. When he was a boy he thought nothing of walking four or five miles after a day's work to go home with a pretty girl.

Mr. Collins said the children to be carried were mostly girls, many of whom were delicate and could not walk such a long distance, especially in inclement weather, and their parents could not afford to pay the car fare, and so they could not attend the High school.

The motion was passed to appoint a committee to confer with the railroad authorities, about the price of tickets.

Mr. Roffe then introduced a motion to appropriate $125 for conveyance of pupils the balance of the year, but it was opposed by Mr. Forknall, and he and Messrs. Dutch and Porter voted against it, thus preventing its passage.

An invitation was received from the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners to attend a meeting to be held in Cole's Hall.

An order was passed authorizing the Water Board to lay 165 feet of 8 inch water main on Webster street, at an expense not to exceed $220.

RESOLUTIONS.

The special committee appointed by the City Council reported the following resolutions on the death of Hon. John S. Farlow, which were adopted by a rising vote:

Whereas, our esteemed fellow-citizen, John S. Farlow, has been called to a better life, it is fitting that we, the representatives of the City which has for so long a period been his home, and in which his liberal benefactions have been bestowed, should give public expression of the appreciation in which his life and character are held, and to record in brief, the deeds which will forever endure his name and memory, therefore be it

Resolved, that in the death of Mr. Farlow, the city has sustained the loss of a citizen, prominent in the community in which he lived, and whose influence was far reaching; a gentleman conspicuous for his public and private benevolence, a witness to his gifts of a public reference room in the Free Library. His gift of a mortuary chapel at the Newton Cemetery, a tribute of honor and affection to a dead friend, will bear enduring testimony to the finer traits of his character.

Resolved, That his absolute integrity, sound judgement and great strength of character form objects worthy of emulation, and combine to make a notable example of a good citizen.

DEATH FROM HYDROPHOBIA.

EDDIE BARNES, A WATERTOWN LAD, A VICTIM TO THE DEAD DISEASE.

Eddie Barnes, the 8-year-old son of James J. Barnes, dealer in groceries, Main street, Watertown, died in terrible agony from hydrophobia Sunday morning. He was bitten Nov. 29, 1889, by a stray shepherd dog, which seized him by the knee, inflicting three wounds, the largest being about an inch long and half an inch deep. Dr. Mead was called, and the child, after being carefully dressed, healed up in a short time. The dog was followed and shot by Chief Parker. At that time it was stated that the dog was not rabid, and as he wore no collar, his owner is not known. At the same time he bit another boy, and also a dog, which was killed. The other boy recovered, and has shown no signs of illness since.

The parents of Eddie had some fear of the result, as the boy was of a rather nervous disposition, and was afraid of going "mad." Since the biting he has slept with his father, in case any change in his condition might occur. About two weeks ago he was taken with a severe attack of diarrhoea, and on Wednesday complained of pains in his stomach. Thursday morning he was quite ill, and Dr. Mead and Kelley were summoned, but they could not help the boy, who had spasms and convulsions, with frothing at the mouth. He suffered untold agonies up to the time of his death. He was conscious, and although he knew he was sick, had no idea he was going to die. The physicians say little about the matter, except that without a doubt the boy died from genuine hydrophobia. "There is no doubt of it," they said.

Master Barnes was a bright, neat little fellow, and a regular attendant of the St. Patrick's parochial school, where he was loved by the scholars and sisters.

It is to be regretted that many mothers do not commence the use of Mellin's Food until their infants are ill. This food, it must be borne in mind, is not a medicine, and is not intended primarily for sick babies; it is the artificial food for both healthy and feeble infants.

NEWTON.

The A. O. U. W. male quartet spent an evening last week with Mr. Luther Dana, of Kenrick Park, at his invitation, and gave a fine selection of songs, and instrumental music. Mr. J. H. Parks rendering some fine vocal solos, and Mrs. Edward Bacon gave some bass solos. Mr. Walter Peabody acted as pianist. The evening closed with a fine supper.

—Miss Annie M. Kelley of Newton, and Mr. John F. Costello of Brighton, were married Wednesday evening in this city by Rev. Fr. Morris. Miss Maggie Costello was bridesmaid and Mr. M. J. Costello best man. The groom is gardener at the Concord Reformatory. The couple will enjoy a wedding tour and will reside in Concord, N. H.

—The Misses Parker of the Newton Bazar passed the 20th anniversary of the establishment of their business in Newton, last week. They have seen their store burn down twice in some noted Newton fires, and have made several removals, during that time, but they have made an excellent business record, and have a valuable trade. Newton ladies finding their store very convenient.

The guests of the Massachusetts Club, who met at Young's Saturday afternoon, were Hon. Jonathan A. Lane, Rev. N. Boynton, Jr., and Peter C. Jones of Hingham, formerly of this city. Hon. William Claflin sat at the head of the table, and after the dinner called upon Mr. Lane for an account of his recent tour in the South. He responded with a glowing description of what he had seen below the Mason and Dixon line, with especial reference to the encouraging outlook for manufacturing interests of all sorts.

—The steam roller and a gang of high-waymen have been at work on Washington street, this week, making some much needed repairs. The street has been in bad condition for a long time, waiting for the street railway to lay its tracks, but there is now no reason for further delay. When the cars begin running the first of June, people will realize the necessity of widening certain sections of Washington street, that part in front of the railway bridge, for instance, where there is hardly room for teams to pass a car without going on the sidewalk.

—A brief notice was given last week of the death of Mr. Isaiah Thomas, son of Judge Thomas of the Mass. Supreme Court, at Goffstown, N. H. He was well known in Newton, as he married a daughter of the late George Lane of Elmwood street. The Manchester, N. H. Mirror and American, in an extended notice of his life, says that after graduating from Harvard he devoted himself to stock raising, being especially successful with horses, and was one of the best posted men on horse-breeding and its kindred features of any man in New England, or even in the country. He wrote a series of letters on this subject, some of which were copied in the Graphic, and the series gave him an established reputation. He was well known as the owner of Viking, the horse that won a record of 2:14, and he has also owned several other celebrated horses. The Mirror and American says he was genial, entertaining and affable, and attained marked success in his calling, although he had only reached 35 years. A widow and one daughter survive him.

—The parlors of Grace church parish house were filled Monday evening with an interested gathering of persons from different parts of the city, who had come together for a conference on the work of the Hygiene and Emergency Association. The speakers were Rev. A. A. Miner, D. D., Dr. Greenleaf and Mrs. Kate Gunnett, Wells of Boston, also Dr. Loring, Rev. Dr. Shinn, and Prof. S. E. Warren of Newton. The plans and aims of the organization were very fully set forth and illustrations were given of what good could be accomplished by it. It was finally proposed to organize a branch in Newton, and a committee consisting of Dr. Loring, Mrs. Sawyer and Mr. Weston, was appointed to propose the names of an executive committee to arrange the necessary details. They reported some eighteen or more names including Rev. Dr. Shinn as Chairman, Miss M. E. Welch as secretary, Mrs. R. H. Bishop, Mrs. E. A. Butler, Dr. J. C. Dr. W. O. Hunt, Dr. David Baker and others. The full list will be published after a meeting has been held to perfect the organization. One of the first things the organization will be welcomed as one of evidence of the willingness of our citizens to put our city in the forefront of good movements.

The Channing Party.

The annual social party of the Channing society was held in Armory Hall, Tuesday evening, and was a most successful and may be numbered among the very pleasant events of the season. Mrs. Walter H. Stearns had charge of the arrangements, and nearly 70 couples participated, and dancing was enjoyed by all. The refreshments were furnished by Cole's orchestra. Many society people attended, and some beautiful costumes were worn by the ladies. The matrons were Mrs. Francis B. Houghton, Mrs. H. C. Haddon, Mrs. R. B. Ballou, Mrs. W. L. Lowell, Mr. W. H. Stearns acted as floor manager, and he was assisted by the following ladies: Mrs. H. H. Soule, Jr., S. L. Bartlett, Russell Ballou, Louis A. Hall, A. L. Brackett. Among those present were noticed: Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lowell, Mr. and Mrs. A. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Cook, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Kenrick, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Fearing, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. ASK YOUR GROCER FOR THE COMMONWEALTH SOAP, Manufactured by the COMMONWEALTH SOAP CO., 458 Federal Street, Boston.

This soap will absolutely wash any clothing perfectly clean, without rubbing, in fifteen to twenty minutes, by using it according to directions on each package. It will make the clothes whiter every time they are washed. It will not injure the finest fabric or strength of the clothes, nor skin of the most tender hands. For washing woolen goods and the lares it is not surpassed. It will remove grease spots and paint from carpets, clothing and any kind of goods, cotton, silk or woolen. It will restore color in silk, cotton or woolen goods. For washing floors, oil cloths, marble, slate or tile, and cleaning paint it has no superior. For cleaning gold and silverware, and scouring brass and tin, it has no equal. It is a most excellent disinfectant. 8 17

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the Tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

All Things to all Men.

The McKinley Tariff Bill puts a higher duty than at present upon barley, corn, oats, oatmeal, wheat, flour, butter,
cheese, milk, beans, eggs, potatoes,
vegetables, apples, prunes, fruits, bacon, ham, beef, mutton, and pork. Now this increase of the duty must either produce some effect or produce no effect; and if it produces some effect it must either make prices higher or lower. So we have three possible results of this bill so far as concerns these food products:—

1. No change in price;

2. A rise in price;

3. A fall in price.

If the first supposition is correct and the new law fails to produce any result whatever, what shall be said? Are men sent to Congress to idle away their time and waste the nation's money in simply changing figures on the statute book?

If the second supposition is right and prices will rise, what becomes of the constant boast of the protectionist that a tariff lowers prices? If the farmer is to get more for his bacon and his barley, where is the protection for the man who buys and eats the bacon and the barley?

If the third supposition is correct and prices will fall, what about the farmer?
If the consumers are to be given butter and milk more cheaply, what about the farmer?

Come, come, Mr. McKinley, let us hear what it is. Is your bill a lie to the consumer, or to the farmer, or to both?

The Barbarous Book Duties.

(From the New York Weekly Post.)

Mr. Charles B. Curtis has written a very striking letter on "Duties on Books," which the Tribune handsomely prints—we use the phrase seriously, for really it is handsome of the Tribune to print such an attack on the sacred tariff, and denotes some lingering of the affection for letters and arts which once gave distinction to that newspaper. Mr.
Curtis says, with great force, that for our public schools we spent in 1888 more than $115,000,000 and he adds:

We willingly submit to this outlay because we believe that education is the cornerstone of our free institutions.
And yet, while with one hand we spend our money lavishly to make knowledge free to all, with the other we close the door against it by taxing the very books which we have taught our children and ourselves to read. We seem anxious that our people should have a smattering of knowledge, but if they seek to go further and become truly learned, we refuse their desires by means that have no parallel in the history or practice of mankind, civilized or savage.

We seem to care less for our offspring than for our cattle. Animals for breeding purposes are, under our tariff, admitted free. We think it important to improve the bodies of our heifers because they have a computable value, but we do not concern ourselves to improve the minds of our children by giving them untrammeled access to the best wisdom of the world.

Every Government in Europe admits books free, excepting only Spain, whose tariff, however, is but 80 cents per 100 pounds. "Even China and Japan, nations which we, in our pride and selfconceit, call uncivilized, and whose people we shut out from our shores, have sufficient intelligence to make a tariff that, in this respect, should put us to the blush." The only countries which maintain duties on books are Hayti, Liberia, Mexico, the Argentine Republic, Guatemala, and Spain; two of them peopled by negroes, and all of them poor, in debt, and, as we should say, very much behindhand in ideas. Yet it is in this contemptible category that we place ourselves, with taxes on knowledge two and a half times as high as the highest in any of these poor countries, and greater than the sum of all of them added together. As to the duties on books by mail, concerning which we had ourselves something to remark, on the same day that the Tribune published Mr. Curtis's letter, he says:

Of all petty annoyances this is the worst. In 1884 the number of book packages coming by mail from abroad was 60,225, the duties were $10,497, an average of seventeen cents per package.
This sum was less than the salaries, rent, stationery, and postage required in collecting it, so that the only profit the Government gained was in harassing its citizens. There is probably no tax levied by any government in the world which is collected in such small sums, from so many different people, and which is more than absorbed in the cost of collection.

Mr. Curtis observes further that the case was not always so with us; that under the tariff framed by the fathers of the republic in 1789 books were free, and so continued for half-a-century, and that the present rate, which is 10 per cent.
above that of the war tariff, has been in force only since 1883. To the condition that the existing tariff admits free of duty books which are more than twenty years old, he replies that this is an insignificant matter, for these amounted last year to only 12 per cent. of the books imported.

Moreover, old books are not the ones we most need. This is an age of intense progress, when even steam and electricity are too slow. Twenty years ago far more to us than a century did to our ancestors. The student, the scientist, the chemist, the physician, the engineer, and even the skilled workman, must keep up with the time, and he can only do this by informing himself of what the latest and most advanced thinkers and workers are doing, not in America alone, but in the world beyond.
It is not enough that we should have what all the rest of mankind knew twenty years ago. Within that period the wonderful discoveries in chemistry, dyeing, photography, steam, electricity,
explosives, machinery, etc., have revolutionized the industry of the nations and altered the map of the earth, and yet our tariff hinders us from reading of these things in foreign works until the knowledge has ceased to be practical or useful. If we thirst for knowledge of Pasteur, Koch, Darwin, or Huxley, we are told that we must satisfy ourselves with Bacon, Addison, Sculler, and Jeremy Taylor.

Our imperative need is that all books should be absolutely free. If we tax any, let it be those that are over twenty years old. But if we are not wise enough to make all books free, we can at least add to the free list "books, maps, and engravings, specially imported, not more than one copy for the use of any individual, and not for sale; books in any other language than English, and books in the English language more than one year old, and not republished in the United States."

Illustrated books and engravings especially should be admitted free, since they are never republished, and they are of infinite value for industrial as well as artistic purposes.

"This is not," said Mr. Curtis, "a case of patriotism or protection." The most thoroughly protective countries of Europe "are able to see that there are other things worth possessing besides money." And as for the protectionists of this country, "The worst thing that can happen to us is to let our people discover that protection and education in this country cannot coexist. If we are compelled to choose between the two, the issue will not be always doubtful."

Newton Boat Club.

The annual meeting of the Newton
Boat Club was held in the clubhouse, Riverside, Monday evening. It was largely attended and several important matters were discussed, notably the plan of raising the dues in order to increase the revenue.
A difference of opinion was manifested as to the advisability of taking this step, it being thought by some that it might have a tendency to decrease the club membership.
It was finally voted, however, to raise the annual assessment from $12 to $15. With the social and pleasure which it was voted to members, the dues are low, especially in comparison with other clubs. The tendency, so far as membership is concerned,
is naturally progressive and with the constant accession to population the fear of reduced members is groundless. Few boating clubs possess more beautiful grounds, a more commodious and well-stocked boat house, or more advantages in the character of its membership. The club is a strong and popular element in the social life of the city and to be numbered among its members is to derive personal advantage aside from the pleasure which its many interesting features afford. An effort will be made to increase the membership during the coming year and the secretary was instructed to send blank application to each member of the club, with this purpose in view. Four new names are to be acted upon and one additional application was presented at the close of the annual meeting. It was voted to extend the thanks of the club to the retiring officers; also, instructing the executive committee to take the necessary steps to incorporate the club under the laws of the State. The following officers were unanimously elected for the ensuing year: William S. Eaton, Jr., of Boston, president; Sydney Harwood, Newton, vice-president; Charles W. Loring, Newton, treasurer; Horatio Page, Secretary;
William A. Hall, Auburndale, captain.
The above officers also constitute the executive committee of the club. The annual dinner will be held at the place at the Hotel Thorndike Friday evening.

C. E. Union.

A reception to the Newton Christian Endeavor Union was given in the Universalist church by the society connected with that church and the Howe C. E. Society, Monday evening. Nearly 300 persons attended, representing the several societies of the union. Social features preceded a supper served in the vestry at 7 o'clock.
After the material features an entertainment was provided consisting of vocal numbers by the quartets of the Eliot and Auburndale societies and readings by Miss Coolidge. The general arrangements were directed by Miss North, secretary of the union. The union was organized Jan. 12, 1887, and it now numbers 517 active and 139
associate members. The following societies are represented: Newell, West Newton, Auburndale, Congregational, Newton, Highlands, Congregational, Lowry, Nonantum; Howe, Newtonville; Newton Upper Falls; Eliot, Newton; Newton Center, Congregational; Baptist, Newton; Latimer, Auburndale; Universalist, Newtonville. Its present officers are F. F.
Davidson, president; F. C. Partridge, vice-president; Miss C. N. Worth, secretary and treasurer. The executive committee consists of two members from each society.

Improvement in Real Estate.

The work of improvement in Hunnewell avenue commences this week. It is to be widened to forty feet, graded, drained, side walks made and new side streets laid out, which with the natural fine lay of the land is going to make it one of the finest avenues in the city. The new street running north nearly opposite the Pope estate and between the Moore and Stephenson estate is to be called Fairview street, and a new street nearly opposite running south is to be called Linder Terrace. The area to be put in line order which will bring some fine building lots into the market.

Aban, Trowbridge & Co. have sold the lot on the east corner of Hunnewell avenue and Linder Terrace (2900 ft.) to Mr. Henry Adams of Morse street, who will build there.

They have sold to Mr. T. W. Trowbridge the lot on the west corner of Hunnewell avenue and Fairview street (1214 ft.) where he will shortly build. They have sold the lot corner of Hunnewell avenue and Grasmere street to Mr. J. F. Brown, who will build there. They have rented the west half of the Pope house, corner of Waverly avenue and Tremont street, to Mr. H. M. Williams of Newton Highlands.

A Cure for Constipation and Sick-Headache.

Dr. Silas Lane, while in the Rocky Mountains, discovered a root that when combined with other herbs makes an easy and certain cure for constipation. It is in the form of dry roots and leaves, and is known as Lane's Family Medicine. It will cure sick-headache in one night. For the blood, liver and kidneys, and for clearing up the complexion it does wonders.
Druggists sell it at 50 cents a package.

The Engineer

Of the Wakefield, Mass., Works, C. N.
Young, says: In all cases of biliousness accom-

NEWTON'S YOUNG PEOPLE.

Whether Newton is doing its full duty by the young people within its limits is the question that is agitating some minds. We have a fine system of schools, the public library, with reading rooms in West Newton and Newton Centre, and a play ground in the latter village. We have also a Y. M. C. A. building in Newton, in rather dim prospect, and we have the city streets. Whether the citizens have done their full duty in providing these advantages is being asked in many quarters.

For the boys who have attractive homes and careful and watchful parents, perhaps nothing more is needed, but in every village there is a large class, whose only resort for recreation is the streets, and that it is a popular school can be seen any fine evening. Whether the instruction given there is such as to fit these growing boys for the duties of citizenship is a doubtful question. What some of them learn there is told only too plainly in the police court records, where too many young boys appear.

The Y. M. C. A. building might meet the needs of Wards One and Seven, if the building should become an established fact, but what about the other villages? Ward Two has a reading room recently established in one corner of the ward, at Nonantum, by people who realize the necessity of providing some place of resort for young people, and furnishing them with innocent amusements. People are asking if this is sufficient, or if it is not the duty of citizens to go further and take a more serious interest in the welfare of the young people who are to become our future citizens. It is proposed to build a Memorial Hall for the exhibition of relics of the war, and to provide a meeting place for the Grand Army, but it is not equally important to provide men fit to succeed the heroes of the war of the rebellion? Would it not be well to broaden the Memorial Hall project so as to include some effort to reach the boys who now throng the streets, and who are left almost uncared for?

The men of the city with their clubs, and lodges, and societies almost without number are abundantly provided for, but there is a lack of organized effort to reach those upon whom at no distant day the future of Newton will depend. A number of citizens are giving the matter serious consideration, and are anxious that it should be agitated in the newspapers, until some society or some body of citizens take the question actively in hand, and do what they can to keep the boys not only out of mischief, but furnish them with some attractive instruction that will tend to make them good citizens.

It is expected that the High School Investigating Committee will make a report at the meeting of the school board, next Wednesday evening, and if so, the committee has certainly acted with commendable promptness. To make a thorough investigation of all the difficulty that is said to exist, to find the reasons for the dissatisfaction and to present a remedy in such a short time speaks highly for the ability of the members of the committee, and they probably have devoted the greater part of their time to their duties, as otherwise it would have been impossible to go over so much ground in so short a time. Unfortunately Mr. Hollis has been ill and unable to attend any meetings, so that the whole burden has fallen on Rev. Mr. Hornbrook, and Messrs. Dickinson, Travis and Drew. The report will be looked for with a good deal of interest.

EX-GOVERNOR CLAFIN denounced the proposed duty on hides at the Boot and Shoe club dinner, Wednesday evening, and said its only effect would be to raise the price of shoes to the farmer and others and then there would be a fuss. This is directly contrary to the assertions of the Boston Journal and the American Economist that it is the foreign producers who pay the duty, and not the American consumers of imported articles. Evidently Mr. Clafin needs looking after by the Tariff League as he is becoming unsound in his tariff views. He also said that the proposed duty would only benefit such men as Armour and Swift, who already make eight per cent, on every animal they slaughter. If the leather men had not made such a vigorous protest, these beef monopolists would have succeeded in their efforts to have the duty put on hides, and then they would have grown a good deal richer, while every one else would have been a little poorer.

MR. JOHN S. FARLOW'S WILL.

CHARACTERISTIC REQUESTS FOR PUBLIC OBJECTS—MANY BENEFICIARIES.

By the will of the late John S. Farlow of Newton the following disposition of his property is made: To his clerk, Albert P. Simpson, $3000; to his farmer, Levi Coldwell, and his coachman, James Farrell, each $1000; to his cook, Jennie McKenna, and his chambermaid, Ellen Campbell, $500 each; $10,000 in trust, the income of which to be paid to his wife's sister, Charlotte F. Blanchard, and on her death the principal to be divided equally between Home for Aged Men, Home for Aged Women and Home for Aged Couples of Boston; $5000 in trust for his wife's sister, Maria B. Currier, and on her death to her daughter; $5000 in trust to his wife's sister, Lucy B. Johnson, and on her death the principal to be equally divided between the Massachusetts Charitable Eye and Ear Infirmary and the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals; $5000 in trust to his wife's sister, Hannah M. Blanchard, and on her death the principal to go to the Newton Cottage Hospital; $5000 in trust to his wife's brother, J. Q. A. Blanchard, and on his death to his wife, and on her death to be divided between the Home for Aged and Friendless Women and the Consumers' Home; $5000 in trust to his aunt, Mary Sawyer, and on her death the principal to be divided equally between the Massachusetts Horticultural and Newton Horticultural Societies; $5000 in trust for J. H. Woodford, and on his death to his wife. All the rest of his property he directs shall be invested, and from the income $10,000 per annum be paid to his wife, all income over and above that sum to be divided between his children, share and share alike. He provides that his wife shall occupy the homestead, and also that several notes held against certain parties be released. The deceased's sons, William G., Charles F. and George A., are named as executors of the will.

Great Cry. Little Wool.

For several weeks there has been an active, and, to the casual newspaper reader, bitter warfare carried on by the Massachusetts insurance commissioner's office against the New York Life Insurance Company, which was peremptorily, and, as the Gazette took occasion at the time to remark, arbitrarily refused permission to do business within this commonwealth, in which its financial interests were very large. From one end of the country to the other its distribution policy was advertised as being "wholly inconsistent with the spirit of the statute, contrary to its language, while its provisions and terms render it unfair, misleading, deceptive and ensnaring."

We quote Commissioner Merrill's exact words, in his open letter to the president of the New York Life, to the end that no injustice may be done him.

After such a loud outcry we were prepared, when the announcement was made that the company had altered its policy to conform the views of Commissioner Merrill with reference to this branch of insurance, to see a sweeping change, but a careful examination of the original and amended policies as published in the papers on Saturday last fails to show wherein the policy has been altered in the slightest material degree. To all intents and purposes it is the same policy.

In the eighth line of the amended policy the words, "being the premium for two years' term insurance," are substituted for the words, "being the first premium." In the tenth line of the amended policy the words, "being the life premium," are inserted after the words, "and of the annual payment of several hundred and twelve dollars and—cents."

In the 36th and 37th lines of the so-called amended policy the words, "that is to say the premiums for four years of insurance," are inserted between the sentences, "as above specified," and "a paid-up policy will be issued."

The new policy of life is now termed "a combination term and life" where before it was referred to as "an ordinary life" policy.

Now the point we wish to make is: Why put the New York Life in this state, to all the trouble and expense to which they have been subjected, when a half hour's friendly talk concerning the matter would have obviated all difficulty? With the exceptions above noted, and they in a wise alter the scope or intent of the policy, the amended one, which meets with the approval of the insurance department, in no wise differs from the old, and it would seem that an insurance company of the New York Life's deservedly high standing has been subjected to needless hardship, worry and expense.

We would advise its officers in future dealings with the officers of Massachusetts insurance officials to remember the words found in the Good Book:

"Now go, write it before them in a table, and note it in a book." Otherwise they may, at any time be called upon to explain away other equally trivial objections.—[Haverhill Gazette.]

Fashion Sayings

The young men of Boston have the reputation of being the best dressed men in the world.

The firm that makes more clothes for young men than any other two firms put together in New England are Chas. Green & Co., Tailors, 581, 583 and 585 Washington Street, Boston.

Men have good reason to congratulate themselves upon the many opportunities to gratify their taste for Fashionable Clothes provided by this popular firm.

Wide trousers are still in vogue, so are the Black Cheviot Suits.

Five dollars and fifty cents seems rather a small sum for a pair of custom trousers, but Chas. Green & Co. are displaying over 1000 different styles of goods suitable for trousers at this price. Their suits to order at $25 and Spring Overcoats to order at $21 cannot be duplicated at any other Merchant Tailor for less than $50 to $85.

Persons desiring well fitting clothes should give them a call, they guarantee a perfect fit.

Open evenings till 7 o'clock, Saturdays till 10.

MISSING THE TRAIN.

Mr. Smith missed the train by just one-half minute, and he was in a furious temper over the matter. He lived in a pretty, country-like suburban village about forty-five minutes' ride from the large city in which he had his place of business, and he was accustomed to take this particular train every morning. Not once in three months did such a thing happen as his being late for the train; but on this occasion he felt like declaring that half the time he had to rush himself clear out of breath to reach it, or else miss it.

He was in that exasperated state of mind where he wanted to blame somebody, abuse somebody; a state of mind which, in a condition of development a little nearer the savage, would impel him to acts of cruelty toward anything or any person on whom anger could be wreaked. The person on whom, in this instance, he could most quickly and with the least impunity cast blame was his wife. It was all her fault. Why could not she manage household affairs so that he could get his breakfast earlier? He worked like a slave at his business ten hours a day; he gave her full control of the house and furnished money to run it; she had a servant, and it was pure and utter shiftlessness in her that breakfast could not be furnished in proper time. Thus, with flashing eyes, soliloquized Mr. Smith; so with anger-flushed face, he watched the train disappearing in the distance.

It was a full hour and a half till the next train; it was nearly half a mile back to Mr. Smith's house. He paced back and forth nervously for a few minutes on the station platform, debating in his mind whether he should wait there for the next train or go back home. As he mused his anger grew. He would go home and give his wife such a piece of his mind as she would remember for months. She should be made to feel that it was no light matter to have breakfast five minutes late. He turned his face homeward and stamped heavily along, with the air of a man determined to do a desperate deed. His face was flushed with anger and his eyes gleamed fiercely.

But as he hastened along, somehow or other his attention was diverted by the song of a bird among the trees that lined his path. He looked up involuntarily. How brightly the sun was shining; how blue the sky was; how balmy and fragrant the air; how peaceful everything appeared as he looked off through the green space on either side of the village street.

The trees were putting forth their tenderest green; so was the grass. He noticed the fragrance of the crab apple and wild plum blossoms, he distinguished the peculiar strain of a bird he used to hear in boyhood. It was the wood thrush. He had listened to that bird, when, years ago, he had walked in the meadows and lanes with the pretty, shy young girl whom his heart was bent on winning for his wife. She was his wife now. She was the mother of three rosy, active children, they were his and hers. She was not as pretty now as she was then; she was thin and careworn. The plump rosy and merry smile were for the most part gone. But what a good, true wife she had been to him! How her economy and faithfulness had helped him in getting the start he now had in the world! How little she saw of the outside world, or of diverting pleasures! How self-denying and uncomplaining she had been, and what a devoted mother to their children.

And on that bright, sunshiny morning he had been thinking hard thoughts of her, and meditating what sharp, cutting words he could say to her—and all for a trivial little thing of her being late! He felt a little ashamed of himself. His heart melted. On such a morning he could not, would not, by harsh words, mar the harmony and beauty of the sunshine and birds and the green things growing. No; if he could not speak kindly he would hold his peace.

As Mr. Smith neared his home he felt a certain shrinking from meeting his wife directly. He almost feared he might betray on his countenance some of the harsh thoughts he had been thinking. So he went around the side of the house and entered the kitchen door. Bridget was standing with a perplexed and exasperated expression on her face, looking into the kitchen stove, in which smoldered a dark, dying fire.

"What is the matter, Bridget?"

"Faith, sur, it's the stove that breaks me heart, sure. The water is broke and the stove-pipe smokes, and whin I strive to make quick fire here's the way it serves me."

"Well, Bridget, I believe, it is all my fault. Your mistress has asked me many times to bring a new grate from the city, and also to send a man to clean out the stove-pipe and chimney. I will put this down in my note book and bring the new grate this evening, and Pat McFlynn, the tinner, shall be sent right up this morning to clean and fix the pipe."

"Oh, thank ye, sur," said Bridget, with a brightening countenance. "And could Pat fix the cistern, too? The pump has been broken a long time and keeps me back in my work and breaks me back drawing water with a rope."

Again Mr. Smith's conscience smote him. How often had his wife asked him to send a man to fix the cistern.

"Yes, Bridget, the cistern shall be fixed this very day."

"Well, sur, then I think I'll stay. I was just telling the mistress that I wouldn't work any longer with such inconveniences, but if the stove and the cistern are fixed a poor girl can get along."

Mr. Smith made another memorandum in his book and passed on through the dining room toward his wife's room. He noticed that her place indicated an untasted breakfast. Softly he opened the door of their room. His wife started up hastily with an expression of alarmed inquiry on her face. Her eyes were wet with tears. The baby, still in its night-dresses, was fretting in the cradle, while a little two-year old, partly dressed, pulled at her skirt.

"And so you missed the train—breakfast was late—well, I can't help it—Bridget is going to fix it, too!"

The poor little woman covered her face with her hands and burst into sobs and tears. She fully expected angry complaints from her husband, and, in some vague way, she felt that she was to blame. She could not compass everything, and the babies were so troublesome. Oh, did every young mother have such a hard time as she did?

"Why, darling, what is the matter?" said Mr. Smith, putting his arms around his wife and drawing her to him. "Come! don't mind. I think it is really mostly my own fault. I have come through the kitchen, and I find Bridget has so much trouble with the stove being broken and the chimney smoking, that I wonder she can get breakfast at all."

"I ought to get up in time to see that I have breakfast early," sobbed the poor little woman; "but Bridget is so cross this morning, and—I am so tired."

"No wonder, darling, that you are tired, with the care of those big babies wearing on you all the time. You have no business to have any care of breakfast at all, and you shall not have later this morning. You need your good morning nap, and you shall have it. Bridget is all right. I'm going to get that broken stove and cistern fixed to-day, and then if Bridget can't get breakfast in time we'll try some other way to do. Come, now, cheer up, and I'll help you dress these rogues; I have plenty of time before the train comes."

How wonderful is the effect upon the physical nature of a spiritual impulse! How quickly can an uplifted and strengthened spirit energize and strengthen the body! Everything seems instantly to change for poor, dejected little Mrs. Smith. She laid her cheek to her husband's breast, feeling that a haven of strength and peace it was. How dear and precious was his love and protection! Her eyes brightened and her cheeks glowed. Her weariness and depression, which had been utter misery, gave way to a delightful feeling of repose and a glowing happiness. The fretful and prosaic surroundings her heart was full of the finest and most inspiring emotion.

"Dear, dear love, how good you are!" she said. "How you have changed the aspect of everything for me this morning! Had you reproached me, as many husbands do, I should have sunk in the deepest anguish. Now I feel strong—strong and happy."

Releasing his wife with a tender kiss, Mr. Smith took the baby from the cradle and merrily drew its stockings and shoes on his little, plump, kicking, rosy feet. Then he rushed out the little fellow's curls and buttoned his shoes. Willie, the oldest, had slipped out of the house, and Mr. Smith went to look for him and found that he had taken advantage of an insecure lock on the gate to run off up the street. Bringing him back, Mr. Smith got the hatchet and in a few minutes had the gate fixed so that Master Willie could not open it. His wife smilingly opened the front door, and seeing what had been done, exclaimed, "O, I am so relieved to find that Willie cannot get out of the yard! It has been such a trouble that he could open the gate."

And now it was time to start for the next train, if he stopped to order the stove and pump-man to do the promised work. So gayly kissing his wife and children, once more Mr. Smith started for the station. As he walked along with a light and cheerful heart he mused.

"How cheap a thing is happiness, after all, and yet how easy it is to turn it into misery! If I had given way to my temper this morning I should have gratified a momentary impulse of unreasonable anger and left behind me aching and discouraged hearts. The heaven for the influence of the song of birds and scent of flowers; and thank heaven, too, for the gentle influences and sweet affections that can make the most uneventful life a blessing! Dear, good wife! and dear, precious little children! Thank God I have left them happy this morning, if I did miss the train!"

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Mrs. S. W. Jones leaves this week for a visit to friends in Ohio.

—House painting seems to be prevalent at the Highlands at the present time.

—Mr. H. M. Beal, contractor, has two more houses to erect near Eliot station.

—Please read the advertisement concerning dressmaking among the business notices.

—Mr. J. P. Estabrook has as a guest his sister, Mrs. Whitney, of Royalston, Mass.

—The Chautauque Club will have their next meeting with Mrs. L. A. Ross, Walnut street.

—Mr. J. F. Edmunds after being confined to the house by a severe illness for the month past is now out again.

—Mrs. Howard with her mother from South Boston have taken rooms in Mr. G. P. Stevens' house on Lincoln street.

—Home Lodge, I. O. O. F., initiated two new candidates at their meeting a week ago, and two additional last evening.

—Mrs. S. C. Cobb arrived home on Sunday morning from her sojourn in Florida during the winter months.

—Miss Emma Stevens and Miss Mattie Healey are at home for a few days' vacation from the Normal school at Bridgewater.

—Mr. C. Peter Clark and family have this week moved into the house lately vacated by Mr. F. H. Gould on Hartford street.

—E. Moulton has taken the agency for Eddy's refrigerators. The price is the same as at the Boston office, 15 off the price list.

—The Monday Club will hold their next meeting with Mrs. Moulton. At this meeting a paper will be presented on Pompeian Art.

—Mr. E. H. Tarbell will have two houses erected immediately on land lately purchased on Bowdoin street, and the cellars for same have been staked out.

—Miss Dole, a sister of Mrs. Pike of Ducklee street, has returned from an absence of several weeks visiting among friends at Lowell and Concord.

—Dr. Henry F. Provan, dentist of So. Boston, will occupy about May 1st the house of Mr. Simpson on Walnut street, now occupied by Mr. John P. Tenney.

—Mrs. H. D. Estabrook of Framingham and her son, who is engaged with the Gloucester Co., have taken rooms at the residence of Mr. G. W. Ferren, Winchester street.

—Mr. T. P. Ritchie has staked out a cellar for a house on his land, corner of Walnut street and Hillside avenue. Mr. J. C. Knapton of Upper Falls will be the builder.

—Advertised letters—Mr. Solomon Graham, Mrs. H. Howard, Mr. Francis Quinn, Mrs. W. M. Reed, Miss Nora Scamnell, Mr. Bert J. Small, Mrs. Ellen O. Sullivan, Miss Margaret Taylor.

—The "dancing party" held in Lincoln Hall on Monday evening was attended by a large and select number from the Highlands and surrounding villages, and was much enjoyed by those who love the dance.

—A large number from the society of Christian Endeavor attended the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Union held at Newtonville on Monday evening last, which was an occasion of great interest and was much enjoyed.

—Rev. Mr. Strout, who has had a pastorate in Utah but now of Boston University, conducted the service for the Methodists in Lincoln Hall last Sabbath. Rev. G. W. Butters of Newtonville is expected to conduct the service next Sabbath afternoon at 3 o'clock. All invited.

—Mr. A. B. Putney has bought the Watson buildings on the corner of Lincoln and Columbus streets, also the Bemis house on Columbus street, and will remove the same to land recently purchased by him west of Bowdoin street. Upon the site of the removed buildings two fine residences will be erected.

—The Boston University Glee Club gave an entertainment before a full house at Lincoln Hall on Wednesday evening. The singing of male voices is always deservedly popular and this concert proved no exception. It was shown by the many encores called for. "Old Uncle Ned" and "There was a Tack" were two numbers which seemed especially to please the audience. Altogether the Young People's Society, under whose auspices the concert was given, as well as the Boston University Glee Club are to be congratulated on the success of the entertainment.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. J. B. Newell is improving, being able to sit up now.

—Rev. James T. Allen of the Washington street Methodist church, Newburyport, officiated at the Methodist church, Sunday morning. Rev. Mr. Peterson being here at the evening service. The Newburyport church was formerly the pastorate of the Rev. John Peterson.

—Gardner Gould, son of Mr. John A. Gould, Jr., gave a birthday party to a large number of his little friends and acquaintances on Wednesday afternoon, on the occasion of his 4th birthday. It was a happy party for the little folks and they thoroughly enjoyed it.

—A union Temperance meeting will be held in the Baptist church, Sunday evening, April 19, under the auspices of the Good Templars. Rev. Mr. Dearborn, secretary of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, and Miss Jessie Forsyth, grand supt. of the Juvenile Templars, will address the meeting. There will be good singing. All are invited.

—The jug breaking at the Easter and missionary concerts of the Methodist church was an especially interesting feature of the program. For some fifteen or twenty years it has been the custom of the Sunday school to have a jug breaking at the end of the conference year. There are fifteen classes in the school and each class has a jug into which the contributions are put, and at the end of the year the breaking takes place, the contents of each jug being credited to the class to which it belongs. The result this year was the largest received to the present time, the whole amounting to $45.00, the banner class jug yielding about $15.00.

The Protection of Birds.

A little card with a conspicuous headline, in red ink, has been issued by Mr. Geo. T. Angell, President of the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and other humane organizations, which reads as follows, and it is for the special benefit of the small boy who has a penchant for bird's eggs:—"I hereby offer twenty prizes of $10 each, and forty prizes of $5 each, for evidence by which our Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals shall convict persons of violating the laws of Massachusetts, by killing any insect-eating bird or taking eggs from its nest." The aforesaid small boy will take due notice thereof and govern himself accordingly!

TEN TEAMS BOWLING.

GAMES IN THE TOURNAMENT UNDER THE AUSPICES OF THE NEWTON CLUB.

The bowling tournament under the auspices of the Newton Club is progressing and already a large number of games have been played. Three teams are pretty well bunched for first position and it is too early yet to determine the chances for first place. There is a strong aggregation of bowlers in the teams engaged in the tournament and some remarkable individual scores have been made. The man with the best average will get the beautiful hall clock, a conditional gift, for he must respond to challenges and hold it successfully against all-comers for at least a year. The scheme is well devised and the members of the club are likely to gaze upon the clock in its beautiful case for, at least, some few years, unless a phenomenal bowler arises like a general in past history, equal to the situation and bound to serve faithfully for the full term, 12 months. Appended is the result of three games played April 9, 10 and 11. Other games have been played, but the absence of members of teams has prevented the completion of the score:

What They Think of Us at "The Hub."

Those of our readers who had the good fortune to be present a fortnight ago, at the grand exhibition of gymnastics in Mechanics Hall, Boston, will not soon forget the effective and beautiful display of some 600 pupils of both sexes from various schools and gymnasia in and around Boston, 100 belonged to Miss Ireson's classes, mainly from our High School.

Newton people formed their own judgment of the graceful evolutions of our girls; but it will interest them to see what they thought of us at "The Hub." A writer in the Traveller reviewing at length the whole exhibition says—

"At this point one hundred girls marched upon the floor. They were from the Newton High School, with a delegation from Dana Hall, Wellesley, and were directed by Miss E. Ireson. Sixteen of them were dressed in white houses and skirts, with sashes and ties of various bright colors, and armed with rings. They went through a unique ring exercise, while the others gave an exhibition of statuesque, poised and graceful gesturing that was highly suggestive of a well-trained class in dramatic action. Their backward and forward movements and upward and downward stretches and other technical movements were personifications of grace. But the best part followed in the marching. With the exception of the 16 mentioned, they were attired in long dresses of neat, dark blue, and wore bright orange bows at the neck, the officers having gold stripes down the sides of the skirts."

Later on in the exhibition the writer says:—"The finest affair of the whole exhibition now took place. It consisted of a hoop exercise by the Newton High School 100, with the Wellesley contingent. Each girl carried a hoop wound with varied colored ribbons and decorated with bright bows, which were circled in graceful curves about the pretty heads of the young ladies."

As they turned rhythmically, the sun shined on the rainbow colors of the hoops in white, the effect was beautiful. Greek crosses, rings and other difficult formations were made without a single hitch, and the graceful young athletes retired amid a storm of applause."

He closes his article by saying:—"The whole thing was a grand success, but the Newton High School girls easily bore off the palm."

As the school board have voted to introduce gymnastics into the primary and grammar grades of our schools, they are to be congratulated that they can see the work in the hands of so competent a director as Miss Ireson.

"Get another dozen lamp chimneys."

"What! are they all gone?"

"Yes."

"I'm going to try a sort I've been reading about, if I have to send to Pittsburgh for 'em. Macbeth & Co.'s 'pearl-top.'"

"They say their chimneys don't break."

"Another humbug, probably."

"Don't Muggins keep 'em?"

"I'm going to see. Give me a postal card. I'll have that chimney, anyhow."

Muggins got 'em for him, and did a thriving chimney business for several weeks, till everybody got 'em; and somehow his trade has increased all round ever since.

"SOME USES OF RICH PEOPLE."

A discourse on this topic was recently delivered by the Rector of Grace Church, and one on a similar topic by the Rev. Brook Hereford. A full report of the latter appeared in the Boston Herald, and was followed by a number of statements gathered by the enterprising interviewer who called to get the views of wealthy Boston people.

The general drift of the two discourses is probably best expressed by a remark made in Dr. Lyman Abbott's recent speech in Chicago, viz, that we have now reached a period of distribution when those who have means must see that more accumulation or accumulation for selfish purposes is contrary to the demands of the age. Wealth is to be recognized as a trust to be employed for beneficent purposes.

In the sermon in Grace Church the point was made that while no man should be abused for possessing wealth which he had gained honestly, or which had come to him by inheritance, every person who had more than was demanded for his legitimate needs was bound to consider what use he could make of it for others, and especially for the improvement of the community in which he lived. One of the uses of rich people was declared to be to press forward those movements which advanced the comfort, the convenience, and the morality of the people.

It would seem as if these utterances from persons occupying such different standpoints may indicate a growing conviction that the time has indeed come to regard the custodianship of wealth as bringing with it special responsibilities. It were well if this responsibility were more regarded by our own citizens, so that the many opportunities for benefiting others were more eagerly made use of than they are.

For example:—There are now several movements in Newton where money could be most advantageously applied. The Cottage Hospital ought to have some new buildings and its endowment fund should be largely increased.

The Young Men's Christian Association should have its new building. The Pomroy Home should be put on a more secure foundation, as also Miss Williston's Home at West Newton.

It is not necessary to look far for good objects. We have them in our midst.

The Boston Journal thinks that there will be no opposition to Mr. Candler's renomination in this district. This may be, but it depends a good deal on Mr. Candler's record in Congress. The people are beginning to think they should have New England men to represent New England, and although Mr. Candler talks satisfactorily, the people are waiting to see how he votes.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

Good Housekeeping for March 29 opens with an interesting account of maple sugar making in Canada. There are the usual number of housekeepers' suggestions in the way of appetizing dishes, and the young folks are by no means forgotten. Clark W. Bryan, Springfield, Mass.

The Forum for April contains a posthumous article by the late President Barnard, of Columbia College, on the degradation of our politics, which is perhaps the most notable of all President Barnard's writings. Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott points out the difference between the "new theology" and the "no theology." Charles Dudley Warner in "The Newspapers and the Public," undertakes to show where the blame rests for ultra sensational papers. Dr. J. M. Charcot contributes another article about his experiments on hypnotic persons. Rev. Dr. Wm. Barry writes on the "Rights of Public Property," and Richard Hodgson tells where trickery in Spiritualism ends, and where really interesting phenomena begin.

The April St. Nicholas contains the first of several important papers by E. J. Glave, one of Stanley's pioneer officers on the Congo. It is called "Six years in the Wilds of Central Africa," and vividly presents the lights and shadows of the explorer's life. A serial by Mrs. C. V. Jamison, "Lady Jane," dealing with Southern life and character, is begun. "Marjorie and Her Papa," by Lieutenant Fletcher, U. S. A., is continued. "The Ballad of King Henry of Castile," is a rhymed story from old Spanish history, by Tudor Jenks, and illustrated by Child Hassam. Mary Halleck Foote tells the story of a little boy's "Visit to John's Camp," and illustrates her own story. Other contributions are: "The Chinese Giant," an amusing extravaganza, by Ruth Dana Draper, illustrated by Bensell; "The Buny Stories," natural history papers by Ernest Thompson, and verse by Kate Cleary, Helen C. Walden, and Caroline Evans.

The April Arena presents a table of contents which will challenge the attention of every thoughtful magazine reader. Bishop J. L. Spaulding, of the Roman Catholic Church, reviews Colonel Ingersoll in the scholarly manner that characterizes all his writings. A full-page photograph of Bishop Spaulding forms the frontispiece of this issue. One of the most comprehensive papers ever written on the "public-school question" opens this number. It is from the well-known pen of Rev. Minot J. Savage. The Rev. W. E. Manley, D. D., contributes a paper on "Eternal Punishment." Elizabeth Cady Stanton makes an important contribution to the present discussion on "divorce." "White Child Slave," a symposium, is a noticeable feature of this issue. The writers who contribute to this symposium are Helen Campbell, Rabbi Solomon Schindler, Jennie June, A. A. Chevallier, F. K. Wischniewitzky (the daughter of the late Judge Wiley, of Pennsylvania), and C. Orchardson.

Lasell Notes.

Mr. C. C. Bragdon, the Principal, invited the whole New England Conference out to visit the Seminary Friday afternoon, April 11. The day proved pleasant, and most of the "brethren" came, for it had gone about that the bishop and cabinet were going, and what was the use of staying if they were gone? The wives went with their husbands. The three special cars provided by the seminary were more than full, and the overflow made the suburban "regulars" stand and wonder. Nearly 250 wended their way through lovely Abundantdale's pleasant streets to the seminary grounds. They were cordially greeted by young women from 30 states, deftly divided into small parties, and so shown about the spacious parlors, libraries, gymnasium, cooking hall, and other departments, and other departments. In the studio, Lasell's collection of paintings was shown, and glimpses given through open doors of the cozy rooms of the girls' dormitories. In the swimming bath a half dozen pupils were swimming, diving, floating and performing various aquatic surprises. At 5.45 the entire party were seated in the ample dining hall, where a collation was served and a departure was made by an early train for the evening services at the People's church. The entire affair was an enjoyable break in conference routine.

Saturday afternoon a small number attended the lecture of Miss Mabel Jenness in Boston, upon Physical Culture.

Sunday the regular meeting of the Temperance Association of Lasell was held.

Prof. Hills' second Piano Recital will take place Monday evening, April 21. This is not open to the general public, but a limited number of the friends of the pupils are invited. At a recent concert Prof. Hills made these exercises educational, tending to inspire a taste for the best classical music.

Mr. and Mrs. Bragdon are in New York for some days.

Mr. Kimball, Principal of the Barnett School at Allston, visited the school and inspected the classes early in the week.

Mrs. Cutler, a pupil of thirty years ago, finds great changes in the school since the time she was here. Dr. Metcalf of Waltham, once visiting physician, made a short call.

The company to go to Europe under conduct of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Shepherd is gradually fitting up.

BLACK BEAUTY.

THE UNCLE TOM'S CABIN OF THE HORSE.

(From the Boston Herald.)

Mr. Geo. T. Angell, president of "The American Humane Education Society," and the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, has his heart's desire.

Whether he "waited patiently," according to scriptural injunction, or not, he does not say, but he does say that for more than twenty years the wish of his heart has been to see somebody write a book which should be as widely read as "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and which should have as wide-spread and powerful influence in abolishing cruelty to horses as "Uncle Tom's Cabin" had upon the abolition of human slavery. Many times he would have made a book which would call the attention of American writers to this matter and asked them to undertake the work.

The book has at last been written by an Englishwoman, Anna Sewall by name. Its title is "Black Beauty, His Grooms and Companions," and it is the autobiography of an English horse, who tells of kind masters and of cruel ones, of happiness and suffering, and makes remarks, which betray great powers of observation and reasoning and deep interest in all that goes on around him.

The book contains two hundred and sixty pages, and over 900 copies have been already sold in England.

Through the gifts of friends of "The American Humane Education Society," Mr. Angell has been able to have the book electrotyped, and to print a first edition of 20,000 copies, which will be sold at the marvellously low price of twelve cents each, though to people sending by mail for them eight cents additional for postage must be charged.

Mr. Angell wishes to give away thousands of copies of this book. He would like to put it into every home, every workshop, and every school in this country, and he would like to make a free gift of it to every man and boy in the universe. Through the kindness and generosity of Mrs. William Appleton, he is authorized to present a copy to sixteen hundred Boston drivers, who may call for the book at the offices of the society, No. 19 Milk Street.

We need not say that the above notice, and similar in other Boston dailies of March 31st and April 1st, poured into our office a living stream of Boston drivers, for copies of "Black Beauty."

We have heard but one opinion from all who have read it, and that is of unqualified praise.

If we mistake not, hundreds of thousands and perhaps millions of American horses will have reason to thank God for the publication of this book.

Geo. T. ANGELL, President of the American Humane Education Society, the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and the Parent American Band of Mercy, 19 Milk Street, Boston.

THE NEWTONVILLE BANK.

RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE.

Representative Boothman from the Committee on Claims has made a report upon the famous case of the First National Bank of Newton, Mass., which grew out of the Hartwell defalcation. This bill was favorably reported by the Committee on Claims of the Senate in the 48th Congress, and after an exhaustive discussion passed that body. It was again favorably reported by the Committee on Claims of the Senate, the report being made by Senator Jackson, which was adopted by the Committee on Claims of the House in the 49th Congress. The committee after recommending the payment of the money, says:

The bill calls for the payment of 41-2 per cent interest, but your committee regard 3-1-2 per cent as a sufficiently high rate under the circumstances of this case. The government is placed in its present position as regards this claim by reason of the criminal act of its true employee, entirely without authority from the bank. But regarding it as a matter between individuals, it is a case where two innocent principals are compelled to suffer by reason of the wrong—unauthorized wrong—of persons in their employ. The government has repaid the principal sum taken. Suit to recover that principal sum was only brought on Feb. 24, 1874. The demand for payment was made on the 1st day of March, 1867—almost six years of delay.

Your committee, therefore, in view of all the facts, conclude that the government should pay interest at the rate of 3-1-2 per cent from March 1, 1867, to the date of the judgment on Jan. 24, 1881. They think that if a proper effort had been made during the time of delay the authority to recover interest, as well as principal, would probably have been granted by Congress. And we do not wish to establish a precedent that might be cited to encourage delay in the presentation of claims against government for the purpose, it might be, of securing interest during the delay, although it is not intended to charge any such intention in this case.

Gott's orchestra will furnish the music. It is given under the auspices of the Improvement Association and will be their last entertainment for the season.

—The Newton Centre Women's Club held its last meeting at the house of Mrs. Charles S. Duffin. Mrs. Kate Ganuett Wells read a paper entitled, "Responsibilities." Briefly stated the lecture was a protest against the spirit of "caste" which has quietly invaded our social life, and is establishing separate classes in society. The remedy for this evil lies in the adoption of a true social standard, which should not be fortunate lineage into the next generation, but rather, "Family Reading."

—Mrs. Oliver Warren, widow of the former secretary of the State, has taken rooms at Hotel Hunnewell for the summer. Other new arrivals are Mr. and Mrs. Valpey and the Misses Valpey of Lynn. Mr. Valpey being a member of the firm of Valpey & Anthony.

—Mr. Wellington Howes has in his market window a lynx that was shot at North Woodstock, Vt., about four years ago. It was seen to spring from a tree to the back of a deer, which it killed, and was afterwards shot. He has also a black bear recently shot in Maine, which attracts a good deal of attention.

—Ex-Alderman and Mrs. Harwood of Hotel Hunnewell gave a Progressive Euchre party last week in honor of Miss Pastorius of Colorado Springs, who has been here for some weeks visiting her sister, Mrs. Damon. It was a very pleasant affair, with handsome prizes and a fine collection. Miss Pastorius left for home on Wednesday of this week.

—A new bridge is talked of across the Charles River to the Stickney estate, which is now being developed, and the plan is to extend St. James street to the river, and cross by the bridge at that point. Such an improvement would bring all the land within easy reach of the Newton depot, churches and the stores here, and at moderate priced houses are being built there, they would be a great benefit to the location is one of the finest in this vicinity.

—Fourteen members of the New York State Library school of Albany, New York, visited the Newton Free Library, Thursday afternoon, under the charge of Miss Cutler, acting principal of the school, and were shown over the library and studied the systems employed here, under the care of Miss Thurston and her assistants. The visitors are spending a week in Boston for the practical study of the libraries in that city and vicinity. The school has a two years' course, and fits the pupils, who come from all parts of the country, for positions in public libraries, and is a New York State institution.

—Miss E. J. Robbins, who has purchased the millinery business of Mr. H. J. Woods, will have the assistance of her mother, Mrs. N. Robbins, who will always be found in the front store. Both ladies have had from ten to fifteen years' experience in the millinery business and the ladies of Newton may depend upon their skill and taste. Their trimmer is Miss Herrie of New York, an experienced artist in her line, and Miss Livermore of Newton will always be ready to serve customers. Miss Robbins hopes to make it necessary for Newton ladies who wish for artistic creations in hats or bonnets to go out of the city for them, and to merit a continuance of the liberal patronage given to Mr. and Mrs. Woods.

—Walter E. Hand of Fayette street, who was arrested last Sunday for alleged embezzlement, seems to be only technically guilty. He came on from Syracuse, N. Y., some months ago, and has been in the front store. He has a brother-in-law, Richard Johnson, and was promised a good deal, and when he was unfairly, as he thought, thrown out of employment by his brother-in-law, selling the business, he retained $97 which he had collected. He turned the money over to his wife, and she wrote to her brother that they needed it, and that he would regard it as a loan and pay it back when her husband found other employment. The reply was Mr. Hand's arrest, and the case will come up for trial next week.

—Hubbard & Procter have put up a pole in front of their store this week, bearing an illuminated mortar, and for the convenience of their carriage patrons an electric button has been placed on the pole, which will summon a clerk to take orders. They have also added a large and handsome new soda fountain, which has a base of mottled green marble, with red-brown marble above, and trimmings of black Bologna. At each end are handsome ornaments of Mexican onyx; the top of solid mahogany, with a large plate glass mirror and a hanging crystal chandelier. The fountain has six mineral water and two soda draughts, and 14 syrup reservoirs. It is a handsome addition to the store, and if ice does not get too high, it will probably be a very popular feature of the summer. Hubbard & Procter say they are bound to give Newton people all the modern conveniences in their line.

—A public meeting of Newton carpenters, under the auspices of local union 275, Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, was held in C. C. H. Hall, Wednesday evening. It was largely attended, a delegation of 75 representing local union 426 being present, with the members of union 275 and members of other trade organizations, comprising an audience of 300 persons. The speakers were W. J. Shields, vice-president of the brotherhood, Frank W. Foster and J. H. Moulton. The eight-hour movement was advocated as being in the interests of the elevation of the condition of the working classes and the co-operation of all union men was urged in securing its adoption. W. J. Shields has recommended the union to be strictly to prevent, if possible, outside contractors from working more than nine hours per day, all the local builders having agreed upon nine hours for a day's work. The union men in Newton are satisfied with nine hours, and will endeavor to compel all builders to agree to that basis for a day's work. They are dissatisfied with a Brighten contractor who is employing 12 men and working them 13 and 14 hours per day. The total number of carpenters in the city is about 600, and of that number 340 are members of the local unions.

—It is advocated by several citizens, that a space on Farlow Park, of suitable size, be set off by shubbery, and given to the school children for a playground. There is a space large enough for a boy's ball game, and by limiting the use of the strictly to school children, and forbidding matches, games, it is believed there would be no possible objection to the plan. Such a use of a portion of the park was probably intended by the Board of Education, but Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke at the funeral services, and this would provide about the only playground for the children of this part of Newton have at present. The available space is in the hands of the Boston and Wards One and Seven, and the boys have no place to play save in the streets, and the authorities forbid them to play there. Newton Centre people took hold of the matter and succeeded in getting a playground, but although Newton has a great deal more ability, financially, to provide for its children, it seems impossible to secure any organized interest in the plan of the kind. Even the proposed Y. M. C. building has not yet got beyond the incubating stage, and as far as known, the first subscription has yet to be made, unless Mr. H. E. Hubbard's generous offer of a loan can be considered as a subscription. But a lot would be of no value without some money for the building, although possibly if the association had the money for the moment for the building could be raised by a mortgage. If it is impossible to raise $20,000, why not cut down the plans and have a $10,000 building.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

SEVERAL HEARINGS BEFORE THE BOARD OF ALDERMEN.

The board of Aldermen met Monday evening, Mayor Burr presiding. Messrs. Hamblen, Johnson, Fenno, Coffin and Harbach were present.

Heman B. Hartford was appointed special policeman without pay for Eliot Block.

Aldermen Pettie and Hamblen were appointed on the committee to see the Boston & Albany railroad officials about securing just and equitable reductions in tickets for the High School soldiers from the South part of the city.

Alderman Johnson from the police committee made a report in regard to the delay of the Gamewell Company in carrying out their contract for a police signal system in this city. He said that the contract was signed last November, and the four months the company asked for expired March 10th, but still the work was not completed, and nothing seemed to have been done until within a few days, when some apparatus had been sent to City Hall. The Gamewell Company had not asked for any extension, and had given no explanation of the delay, and the City Solicitor informed the committee that the delay rendered the contract void, at the opinion of the City Council. The committee asked for instructions.

Alderman Johnson moved that a committee of five, two aldermen and three councilmen, be appointed to take action in the matter.

Alderman Fenno said that the company intended to finish the work immediately. Early last week they shipped the central desk and office appliances from New York, and they were now in the chief's room, and they had been waiting for the city to set up poles. They intended to have the boxes all put up by the first of May. He moved to lay the whole matter on the table till the next meeting to see if the boxes were put in by that date, as the next meeting would be held on May 5th.

Alderman Hamblen said he had been heartily in favor of giving the contract to the Gamewell Company, but he thought the company should have given some explanation to the committee; Alderman Johnson's motion was right, and he would like to know why the work was not done.

Alderman Johnson said as for the poles not being ready, the committee had agreed to allow the company to use the city's poles as far as such poles were set, and when no such poles existed the company were to furnish them. He read from the contract in support of this, and said their waiting for the city to set poles was merely to save expense.

The motion to table was not seconded, and the motion to appoint a committee was then passed. Aldermen Hamblen and Coffin were appointed on the committee.

Alderman Hamblen reported from the claims committee giving John Joyce leave to withdraw, on his petition for damages for injuries received from an accident because of a pile of stones on Washington street.

Alderman Harbach presented the petition of Fred H. Henshaw and others for such a location of the lines on Woodward street as would not interfere with the trees on said street, according to plans in the office of the city engineer.

L. A. Ross gave notice of intention to build a house 25 by 29 on Ballard street, Ward 6, and another 34 by 39 on Centre street, Ward 6.

A. L. Pratt gave notice of intention to build house 25 by 29 on Centre street, Ward 6, and another 34 by 39 on Centre street, Ward 6.

N. T. Allen and others asked that Cherry street be widened to agree with the width from Washington to Webster street.

The employees of the highway and water departments petitioned for the establishment of 9 hours for a day's work.

The Newton Street Railway Company petitioned for license to build a car shed on Washington near Cross street, 82 by 155 feet, and also for leave to run switch tracks into the shed. A hearing was granted on both petitions for Monday evening, May 5th, at 8 o'clock.

H. N. Baker and others asked for one street lamp on Chester street, between Grove and Maple streets.

RIVER STREET HEARING.

The hearing on the petition of M. Taff and others to have the street railway tracks placed in the middle instead of on the side of River street, as they now are, was opened.

W. H. Ryan asked what rights had been given the company on that street and wanted the clerk to read the petition.

Mayor Burr said the rights were granted some 20 years ago, but he would have the charter looked up.

Mr. John Lane, of the Street Railway Company said that when the company first heard of this petition they had already begun to lay their tracks on this street, and as they had no other work that could be done at that time and the road must be put in order by June 1st, they had gone ahead. It would be a great hardship if they were ordered to take up their tracks now, but they intended to keep the tracks in first class condition and this he thought would do away with the most of the opposition.

Mr. George W. Morse said the company had the franchise to build on the side of the road and none to build in the centre, and they had to push the work to get ready to begin operations.

James McGillicuddy said that in Waltham the company had been notified that there was objection to laying their tracks on the side, and they didn't put them there. The old track had been 6 1/2 feet from his line, and the new one had been moved out 2 feet, and in some places 14 feet. This narrowed the street just so much, and it was dangerous to have electric cars run right in front of the steps of a man's store, the track ought to be in the centre of the street.

W. H. Ryan said electric cars will kill lots of children, and ought not to be allowed on one side of a street, especially where the children were so thick. One child had been killed by the horse cars. He wanted to know what right the city gave the company and why his question was not answered.

Geo. D. Cox wanted to know if the city intended to regrade River street or leave it just as it was.

W. H. Ryan again interrupted about the rights granted to the road.

City Clerk Kingsbury said the road had the same rights the old Waltham road had.

Jack McGillicuddy asked why the tracks had been moved then.

Mr. Lane said that he supposed they had been laid in the same place as the old rails, but if they had been removed it was done by direction of the city engineer.

Michael Foley asked why no chairs had been used under the rails on River street. The company had been to the board every meeting for something, and they tried to skin every thing. There would be fifty children on the tracks all the time, and it would be impossible to keep them off. The city had a right to make the company lay their tracks in the centre of the street and why didn't it do it?

Alderman Harbach said that no chairs were used because the company were not required to use chairs on the side of the street.

W. H. Ryan said for half a mile the company took up so much room that River street was only 10 feet wide. The railroad had obstructed the street for 20 years, and it was wrong to let them do it, on one of the greatest thoroughfares of the city. The road was not for their benefit, they didn't want it or use it, and it was only for benefit of Waltham people who wanted to take the Albany trains.

The hearing was then closed.

THE SPUR TRACK HEARING.

Superintendent Emerson explained the necessity for the spur tracks near Bacon street and above Elm street, and said that when the road used two cars there would have to be some means of getting the motor car around the tow car. This called for the spur track near Bacon street. At Elm street it was proposed to have the cars from Newton run up the spur track and wait for the Waltham car to pass down, when the Newton car would back up and go ahead, and this would avoid having an extra turn-out, as turnouts were much objected to. They had only two, one at the watch factory and one at Parsons street, and hoped not to need more if they had these spur tracks; they had to make very close time with their round trips. The spur above Elm street could be used if the railway was ever extended up Washington street.

AUSTIN STREET.

The famous Austin street extension came up on an order presented by Alderman Fenno, appropriating $3,500 to be charged to the collection of taxes of 1890, and to be paid towards the construction of Austin street, on condition that the street was built by Dec. 1st, and all land needed given and releases signed for all grade damages.

On motion of Alderman Fenno, Mr. T. H. Carter was given a hearing and set forth the reasons for the extension and the fact that it was endorsed by ex-Mayor Kimball, ex-Aldermen Powers, and ex-Governor Claflin.

Alderman Harbach said he was strongly opposed to the passage of any such optional order; it had been the custom for all parties to build their own streets, if they wished to develop their property, and he saw no reason for different action in this case. It would establish a dangerous precedent and would destroy all private enterprise, as people would be right down and wait for the city to help them instead of depending on themselves. A vote was then taken and all the members present voted against the order.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS.

On motion of Alderman Harbach an order was passed appropriating the specific sums set apart in the general appropriation bill, for widening and reconstruction of certain streets, as follows: Auburn street, $4,500; Walnut street, Ward 2, $3,400; Walnut street, Ward 6, $3,000; Kenrick street, Ward 7, $2,000; Waban street, Ward 5, $1,500; Eliot street, $3,000; Washington street, Ward 7, $2,100; Washington street, Ward 4, $2,500; total $22,000.

An order was passed for one gas lamp on Chestnut street, Ward 3; incandescent lamps on Concord street, Ward 4, 1 on Webster place, Ward 3, and one gas lamp on Park street, Ward 7.

Alderman Fenno presented the petition of the Street Railway Company for leave to substitute wooden poles for iron, where the road tracks ran by the side of the steam railway on Washington street, and moved that it be granted.

President Morse said that he felt as the heathen did when he approached the images of his deity—you may be ugly but I know you are great. Although the road was a short one, yet it was situated just as many petitions as the West End road in Boston had to have. He saw with grief the sardonic smile on the members every time another petition came up, but we are your children, and we sit at the foot of the throne and trust in your goodness. Of the 150 cities with electric roads, only five use iron poles, so he thought they were not extravagant in asking the slight favor.

Alderman Johnson said he hoped the board would not be influenced by tatty, or by sentimental considerations that they were granting favors to Newton men. Only one-fourth of the track of the road was owned in Newton, and he hoped the board would insist on keeping the company to the agreement.

The order granting the right to substitute was 3 to 2.

DRUGGIST'S LICENSES.

Alderman Johnson reported on the petition of the druggists of the city for sixth class licenses, granting licenses to all but Frank W. Freeman of Lower Falls and Albert F. Wright of West Newton.

$47,300 was appropriated for city expenses during May.

J. F. Higby was granted an honorable discharge as driver of No 3 hose, and W. H. Ayles appointed to fill the vacancy.

Joseph Commons was granted an honorable discharge from the Chemical company.

The board then went into executive session to consider the case of Officer Emerson, and it was voted to dismiss him from the police force.

After the regular session was resumed on motion of Alderman Harbach, $1,500 was appointed for 250 feet of 6-inch main on Jewett and Gardner streets, to take place of some that had rusted out, and for 820 feet of 8-inch main on Winchester street, Ward 5.

The N. E. Telephone Co's petition for location of poles on Bellevue, Centre, Park, Eldridge, Franklin and Washington streets came up and Alderman Coffin asked what kind of poles were to be used.

Mr. Keller said the poles would be chestnut poles, 20 feet above ground, the best that could be had, and painted.

Alderman Johnson said he was glad to see the Alderman from Ward 1 looked after his own street, and he moved that the matter lay on the table for two weeks, which was done, but the order was afterwards more strictly drawn and passed.

J. H. McAdams asked license to set a 6-horse power engine and boiler in Consens block, Ward 6, for mechanical purposes. Hearing granted for May 5.

The Mass. Pulsion Telephone company was granted license to run wires across Hartford and Boylston streets, Ward 5.

J. N. Evans asked for license to put up a store 12 by 22 feet on Channing street.

C. A. Harrington was granted license to put up lumber shed 54 by 34 feet on Crafts street.

Mary Mountain was granted license to keep intelligence office, corner of Centre and Jefferson streets.

Nice Mathematics.

"And now, children," remarked Pof. Hailes in one of the public schools the other day, "if a family consisting of father and mother and seven children should have a pie for dinner how much would each receive?"

"Why?" remarked the bright boy, "each would get an eighth."

"But there are nine persons, you must remember."

"Oh, I know that; but the mother wouldn't get any. There wouldn't be enough to go around."—Albany Journal.

THE COTTAGE HOSPITAL.

A NEWTON LADY TELLS BROCKTON HOW TO START ONE.

Mrs. J. F. Heckman gave an address before a meeting of ladies and gentlemen in Brockton, last week, which was called to form a Ladies' Hospital Aid Society. Mrs. Heckman was reported in the Brockton Enterprise as follows:

Mrs. Heckman was then introduced, and the story she told proved full of interest. It was about two months ago, she said, that she first heard of Brockton's movement to secure a hospital, and she immediately became interested in it. She then went on to tell of the work that had been done in Newton when the move was first made there. In September, 1887, the present Ladies' Aid Society was formed there, and directors appointed to receive donations. They met with consideration and kindness on all sides.
Monthly meetings were held, and for several months nothing was more talked of than the hospital. Entertainments were given in its behalf, and the contributions rolled in from all sides.

In June the Newton Cottage Hospital was dedicated, and when the ladies saw the result of their work in it they were well repaid for their every effort. The different wards and apartments had all been fitted up and furnished from money raised directly by them or through their influence, and the result was more than gratifying.

A graphic and minute description of all the apartments and the work connected with them was given by Mrs.
Heckman, and she mentioned a large number of the donations that had been made. The desk in the physician's office was given by the young ladies of a church, who raised the money by giving an entertainment, and a calisthenic drill
by the young ladies of the High school netted enough money for a lounge for the same apartment. The 15 or more beds in the men's ward had been furnished at the expense of individuals, as were also those of the women's ward.
There was a special apartment, where everything was more dainty and comfortable, for the occupancy of patients who were to undergo some operation, the furnishings of which were given by the Grace church.

The food was the same over the entire establishment. More trouble was experienced in furnishing the kitchen than in anything else, as no one appeared desirous of doing the work, but it was at last accomplished by having a children's collection in the churches on Christmas.

The thing in which the most delight was taken was the children's ward. The young ladies banded themselves together under the name of the "Merry Workers," and when their efforts had been concluded, at an expense of about $300, the ward was a beautiful place. The beds were of a dainty light blue tint, and the walls were adorned with pictures calculated to please the children's eyes.
The apartment was fitted with everything that would tend to make a sick child more happy and comfortable. But few children had been treated, but they were those who had never known the true comforts of a home, and their last hours were spent very peacefully there. By a newspaper solicitation enough preserves and vegetables were secured to last a year, and other donations were constantly being received.

The society of ladies now has a membership of about 500 ladies, who pay an annual fee of $2, which insures for the year the sum of $1000 a year. Although constantly paying out money there was always about $500 in the treasury, and the greatest harmony prevailed in the society and in its relations with the gentlemen, to whom many things were suggested and never had to be insisted upon.

The free bed was a great blessing, and had been occupied about 30 weeks in the year. Music from an organ, donated by a gentleman, and vocal music was given at the hospital every Sunday. The Newton aldermen have lately passed an appropriation bill for an addition for patients with contagious diseases. The bill awaits passage on the part of the council. During the five years the hospital has existed 350 patients have been treated.

Mrs. Heckman said there were a thousand and one things that the ladies would find to do in the good work, and in which they would become intensely interested. She concluded her very interesting talk amid applause by saying:
"Although we may not all be Florence Nightingales we may in our own humble station be happy in doing the work allotted us."

Our Life-Saving Stations.

Those who are familiar with the work of the life-saving stations on our coast will be glad to notice that a new one is to be established at Brant Rock in Marshfield. This is a peculiarly isolated and exposed spot, and during the last few years there have been nine shipwrecks at the island with the loss of thirteen lives. Had this station been established earlier this loss of life might have been prevented. Those who have been off our coast in a storm, exposed to shipwreck, or who know anything of the hardy men engaged in this service cannot but feel the deepest admiration for their energy and daring they display in their perilous work. The small salary offered them by the government is but a meagre acknowledgement of the debt owed them by the public and by humanity. Their exposures in winter, especially, are severe and while patrolling the coast with twenty to thirty degrees of frost in the air, or in driving storms of hail, or snow, the freezing of the ears, face and hands is a constant liability. They need thick mufflers, caps, wristers and mittens to protect them from these exposures—and those who admire their bravery and faithfulness to duty will be more than willing to recognize these traits in them and acknowledge their service to humanity in some substantial way. Two or three ladies of Newton have recently attempted to supply this need to the men of the Massachusetts stations, but they would like the cooperation of others in it—not as a charity—a debt to the indigent, but as their acknowledgement of manly daring in the cause of humanity, as we acknowledged the patriotism and bravery of our soldiers during the war. It is a very simple and inexpensive way of doing a worthy deed. If any lady who may read this, should desire to "lend a hand" and so to share in the gratitude those men will feel for the comfort—thus ministered to them in their necessity—they will be glad to know that the way has been made very easy to reach them.

The scarfs, mittens and wristers can be forwarded to them through a channel already provided. Miss E. C. Lawrence, Beacon street, Newton Centre, will be glad to give further information as to the materials, size, length, etc., and to take charge of any articles offered for the purpose.

BICYCLISTS ENJOY THEMSELVES.

PROMINENT WHEELMEN ENTERTAINED
BY MR. STERLING ELLIOT.

Mr. Sterling Elliot, the well known bicycle manufacturer, entertained a large company of friends in Hickory Hall, Maple street, last Friday evening. A large number of invitations were sent out, written in a humorous vein, and promising an entertainment abounding in humorous features. The guests assembled shortly after 8 o'clock, about 300
ladies and gentlemen being present.
The program of exercises was much enjoyed and occasioned much merriment.
Humorous recitations were given by Miss Brown, who read a laughable extract from Will Carleton's writings; an exhibition of fancy bicycle riding was given by Lewis Clay, in which the unhappy experience of beginners was illustrated;
selections were rendered by the Ogden orchestra, a cornet solo was well rendered by Miss Monroe, Miss Daisy Monroe gave a violin number, and Mrs. South-well and Mrs. Hopkins gave humorous recitations. Mr. Elliot announced the various attractions, and introduced an Italian fruit vender, whose array of good things were displayed in one of Elliot's express cycles. The guests were invited to help themselves from the contents of the cart, and oranges, bananas and a variety of other fruits disappeared quickly. A collation was then served, followed by the usual social features.

Among prominent wheelmen present were noticed: Messrs. Abbott Bassett, secretary of the L. A. W.; Edward Pope, treasurer of the Pope Manufacturing Company; W. W. Stall, Boston; Albert
Beers, Everett; Dr. R. W. Southwell, Charlestown; Capt. Cubberly, Somerville Cycle Club; F. M. Linnell, Dorchester;
Charles Hopkins, Wollington; J. F.
Adams, Haverhill; Fred Gage, Milton;
Arthur Glines, Charles Bassett, and E. P.
Burnham, Newton. Among the lady cyclists were Miss Beers of Everett and Misses Maggie and Jennie Kirkwood of Boston. The North Shore Tourists' Club and Middlesex Cycle Club were both represented.

BOOKS AND MAGAZINES.

The number of Harper's Weekly published April 23d will contain, in an eight-page Supplement, a comprehensive account of "The Stanley-Emin Relief Expedition," beginning with a biography of Stanley, giving an outline of the revolt in the Sudan, describing the hardships of Emin and Jephson before relief came, explaining the central African slave-trade, and furnishing details of Stanley's last expedition from the time it was first planned up to the date of its successful termination. The Supplement will be elaborately illustrated with pictures of scenes and incidents of the expedition.

W. Hamilton Gibson's illustrated article in the number of Harper's Young People published April 22d will treat of "April Birds." Incidentally Mr. Gibson will discuss the vexed question as to how the partridge "beats his throbbing drum." In the following number, "Prince Tommy," a serial story of a boy's adventures in New York, by John Russell Coryell, will begin. The story will be illustrated by W. A. Rogers.

A notable art feature of the number of Harper's Bazar published April 25th will be a double-page reproduction of Rembrandt's painting "Le Rieur," specially engraved by Charles Baude for Harper's Bazar. This engraving was exhibited at the Paris Exposition last summer, when
M. Baude received a gold medal in recognition of his skill. This engraving will be accompanied with an article by Ripley Hitchcock, the well-known New York art critic.

W. D. Howell's new story, "The Shadow of a Dream," the dramatic analysis of a remarkable completion, will be concluded in the May Number of Harper's Magazine. The next serial, beginning in the June Number, will be Alphonse Daudet's humorous story, "Port Tarascon: the Last Adventures of the illustrious Tartarin," translated by Henry James, and illustrated by Rossi, Myrbaech, and others. This is the first time that the work of any great French author will be laid before American reader shore fore the French public sees it in its own language.

To Preserve Shoes.

A shoemaker on upper Broadway says that if men would adopt the English fashion of keeping their boots on trees they would get ten times the wear out of them. When the shoes are taken off they should be put on a tree at once. The leather is stretched to its fullest extent then, and all the wrinkles smoothed away. There is no chance for the leather to crack, as it does if the wrinkles are allowed to remain in one condition long.—

NEWTON.

—Strawberries and pineapples appeared at the City Market this week.

—New fresh made creamery butter at Elliot Market only 25 cents a pound.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Billings have returned from their visit to Florida.

—Elliot Market is selling new fresh made Creamery Butter at 25 cents a pound.

—The S. S. C. will meet at Mrs. N. P. Cutler's Montrose street, Wednesday April 25, at 10 a. m.

—Mrs. J. M. Brackett dressmaker, will remove from Washington to Baldwin street about May 1st.

—The annual May festival of Channing Sunday school will be held next week Saturday, in Armory Hall.

—General and Mrs. H. F. T. Townsend, in the new State of Washington.

—T. F. Mague began the work of constructing Hunnewell avenue, Wednesday morning, at the Copsey street end.

—Hiram H. Hartford has been appointed a special police officer, without pay, and assigned for special duty at Elliot Hall.

—Mr. R. A. Brackett has been leased through Charles F. Rogers' agency, half of the double house of Albert Brackett, on Baldwin street.

—Rev. C. C. Shackford of Brookline, formerly professor of literature in Cornell University, will preach in Channing church next Sunday morning.

—Rev. C. H. Watson of Arlington will preach at the Baptist church next Sunday.

—The pastor-elect, Rev. J. E. Merrill, will enter upon his duties May 4th.

—Mr. and Mrs. Peter C. Jones and their daughter, Miss Ada Jones, of Honolulu, are stopping for two weeks at the Hotel Gerlach, 26th street, New York.

—Eddy's Refrigerator is the most economical consumer of ice, which is great recommendation this year, and John S. Sumner is the agent for Newton, and has been for 22 years.

—Dr. Madison Bunker attended the annual meeting of the Mass. Veterinary Association at Young's Hotel, Boston, Wednesday night, and was chosen a member of the executive committee.

—Aban Trowbridge & Co. have leased the house of Mr. Henry Fuller on Pearl street, to A. E. Pattison of the Paper Manufacturing Co.; also the Ely house, 36 Vernon street, to G. H. Wright of Watertown.

—Mr. H. E. Bothfield has sold 5,000 feet of land on Cambridge street, to Mr. H. D. Corey of Newtonville, who is at once to build a fine house there. Hunnewell Hill seems to have a healthy real estate boom this spring.

—A letter box on the corner of Watertown and Chapel streets, was demolished by a runaway team, Wednesday morning. Fortunately Postmaster Morgan had an extra one on hand, and the box was replaced before noon.

—Mr. Johnson has a beautiful display of bedding plants at his greenhouse on Thornton street, and he evidently intends to be prepared for all demands. The spring has been very favorable for greenhouse plants and they are in fine condition.

—The service at Eliot church next Sunday evening will consist of selections from the hymn-book which has been used since last year, some sung by the choir and some by the congregation. Many of the best new tunes more familiar.

—The Helping Hand Society of Grace church will give an entertainment at the Parish House next Monday evening, when two plays will be given, "The Christiana-telegraph" and "A Rice Pudding." The tickets have all been sold in advance.

—Miss Hamlin, the former soprano of Grace church choir, is meeting with a very flattering reception on her Western tour with the Mendelssohn choir, and the Portland Oregonian says she is the finest concert singer who has yet appeared in that city.

—The third annual ball of Middlesex Court, M. O. F. E. was held in Armory Hall, Wednesday evening. It was a successful and enjoyable party, some 20 couples participating. Music was furnished by Hobb's orchestra and a concert was enjoyed between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock.

—Mr. Samuel Furlong, for a number of years with the Amoskeag company of Manchester, N. H., delivering their engines, and Mr. James Furlong of the Chicago Fire Department, with Mr. William Warwick who in 1874 was a member of the fire engine No. 1 of this city, were guests of Engineer J. J. Judd at the engine house last Sunday.

—The Hygiene Emergency Society completed its organization, Monday evening, at the parish house of Grace church. A constitution was adopted and plans laid out for work. One of the branches of work contemplated is a series of lectures on home nursing, the care of injured persons and remedying defective sanitation.

—The Methodist society of Christian Endeavor elected their officers, Monday evening. President, F. O. B. Pier; vice-president, Mrs. K. L. Stevenson; secretary, H. S. Leonard; treasurer, Miss Grace Whitman. It is proposed to hold a regular work, to hold monthly entertainments, to consist of musicals, lectures, etc.

—Miss Blanchard, the librarian of the Weymouth library, has been a recent visitor at the Newton library to study its methods. The Newton library has the reputation of being the model one of its size in the country, and the New York visitors last week were very enthusiastic in their praise, saying that it was the most perfectly arranged and managed library of any they had visited in New England.

—Buffaloes and moose are a tidal and terror to housekeeper Barber Bros. at their hardware store have the exclusive sale in Newton of a carpet paper that is neat and economical, put up in small rolls, can be used on bare floors or over padded lining, and appears to be the most practical and common sense preventive of disease and against moths and beetles. Call and see it.

—The boys of the Bigelow school have raised within $20 of the amount needed for the flag staff, and are very anxious to get that amount, and are very anxious to get the flag until the staff is entirely paid for. They have had several contributions promised, which they hope will come in this week. Any sum will be welcome, and money can be sent to Mr. Savin, or to Gardner Hall, Fred Foxes or Clarence Moore.

—There were 20 deaths in Newton in March, of which three were children under one year, and three between one and five years. Four were due to bronchitis, three to consumption, and three to meningitis. There were nine cases of contagious diseases reported, 5 of diphtheria, of which 4 were in Ward 1, 2 of scarlet fever, and 2 of membranous croup. The report of the agent states: "It is gratifying to note the small number of contagious diseases reported during the month. In four cases of diphtheria out of five reported local conditions sufficient to develop the disease were found. The cases of membranous croup could also be easily accounted for."

—The Baptist church gave a surprise and reception to Rev. and Mrs. H. G. Safford at the close of the Friday evening's devotional meeting. The occasion was the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. Mr. Geo. S. Harwood, in behalf of the company, addressed the much surprised couple.

ASSOCIATED CHARITIES

HON. ROBERT TREAT PAINE LECTURES ON TENEMENT HOUSES.

The anniversary of the Associated Charities was celebrated at Masonic Hall, Newtonville, Monday evening, about 300 invited guests being present, among whom were ex-Mayors Kimball, Councilman Churchill, Hall, Forknell and Eastern-brook, ex-Alderman Chadwick, Representative Gilman, ex-Representatives Walworth and Slocum, Mr. Otis Petter, Rev. Messrs. Calkins, Lamb, Taylor and White, President Hovey, Messrs. B. F. O'Neil, N. T. Allen, Geo. A. Walton, W. S. Stocum, N. W. Farley, A. L. Harwood, C. A. Drew, Dr. Baker and many other prominent citizens, accompanied by their wives. The hall was attractively decorated with flowering plants, kindly loaned by Mr. Mansfield, and the High School Orchestra furnished music.

The President, Mrs. Mary E. Bates, called the meeting to order, and Rev. Dr. Calkins offered prayer. Mrs. Bates then made the annual address, showing the good work the society is doing in Newton, the need that exists for such an organization, and the field of work before them in visiting the poor, finding out their difficulties, giving them sympathy and aid when needed and helping them to be self supporting and useful citizens. Such a systematized method was needed in Newton, as the society had found by experience. One family that came under their care was receiving aid from several churches, several benevolent organizations, and a number of private sources, all working unknown to each other, and such cases were unfortunately not uncommon. By having a perfect system this can be prevented, and also the demoralization consequent upon a family receiving such indiscriminate aid. The society strove to investigate every needy case, and to keep a list of all such, and if more than sympathy was needed it had a list of benevolent people to whom applications were made. If any wished to contribute, they could do so in any amount, as large as they pleased, and a list of place would be found. The visitors appointed by the society gave themselves their advice and sympathy, but they let others do the giving, unless immediate help was necessary, and it had been drawn on, and it had been organized, yet empty since it was organized. The visitors were friends, and the cases were reported to the board and lists made of them. They were amazed at the number of poor people in Newton and had their hands full in the work of preventing people from becoming paupers. The great difficulty was that they had to have a list of all such, and they must have the poor with us and provision should be made that they may have a healthy place to live. Some of the families were made poor by sickness, the result of bad drainage, and when the fault could not be remedied by the board of health, in one case they had to make repeated applications, but they intended to keep on applying till they succeeded. The tramp question was alluded to and a striking instance given of a poor man in search of work who had been to seven different ministers and nothing had been done in England, hoped some time to have a building where poor women could be taught to sew, where the unfortunate might find a refuge and be again put in the path of virtue. Mention was made of the generous help given by Messrs. Chas. E. Baker of Newton and J. R. Leeson of Newton Centre.

A song was then given by Miss Sibley of Newtonville after which Hon. Robert Treat Paine gave an address on Tenement House Reform, beginning with a description of scientific charity, which had been done in England to remedy the evils that exist in London. In New York much attention has been given to the construction of tenement houses, and there has been a steady development in the improvement of the plans, as it seems as if they had been brought to perfection. In Boston the municipal interference to promote better tenement houses has been greater than in New York. Mr. Paine said that the Boston Herald had done a great work in calling the attention of the public to the evils that exist, and it thus sounded the death knell of the more degraded tenement quarters. He told of the work that had been done by Mr. John M. Berry of Worcester in building cheap houses in Lynn, which he sold to the poor for the sum they cost him on small monthly instalments. Remedies for the tenement house problem in Boston can be provided by the board of health by vacating unsanitary tenements and the board of health would go just as far as public sentiment compelled them to go, whether in Newton or anywhere else. If your board of health don't move, go with twenty people to their meetings, or with a hundred, and show them that the public demand action. The talk was a very interesting one and gave much useful information.

Mr. W. A. Wetherbee sang a solo, after which Mrs. Bates read letters of regret, expressing sympathy with the objects of the society, from Hon. Everett Safford, Dr. O. S. Stearns, E. B. Haskell, J. R. Leeson, Geo. S. Harwood, Rev. Dr. Shinn, Rev. Mr. Hornbrook and others. Brief speeches were made by Mr. A. C.

Walworth on the need of sewerage in Newton, and the good work being done by the Metropolitan Drainage Commission; Dr. Baker, who spoke of the foul soil around some of Newton's tenement houses; Rev. Mr. Lamb, who said that bad drainage was one of the chief things that made people poor, by causing sickness; Mr. Thomas Weston and Rev. Mr. White.

Owing to the lateness of the hour other speakers were not called on but Mrs. Bates suggested a mass meeting in City Hall to rouse public sentiment on this question. The guests were then invited to the banquet hall where a fine collation was served.

A SAD ENDING.
OFFICER EMERSON SHOTS HIMSELF THROUGH THE HEAD.

Officer William C. Emerson, who was dismissed from the police force Monday evening by vote of the board of aldermen, committed suicide Tuesday morning, by shooting himself through the head at the police station. He left his home on Thornton street about 7 o'clock, and going to the Newton station found a letter there notifying him of his dismissal. He returned home and was spoken to by several, but shortly after returning to the station. At 8 o'clock Officer Emerson entered the station, and seeing Emerson's coat and hat hanging up, he looked about for him, and found him lying on a bunk in the last cell, with a bullet through his right temple, the ball passing through his head. A revolver lay beside him, and evidently death had been instantaneous.

The deceased had not been in good health for some time, as he was suffering from neuritis, and when the notice of his dismissal came he evidently determined to give up the fight. He had been heard to say recently that he thought the dead were fortunate, as they were out of misery. He had been before the police court several number of times, and had been warned that further violation of the rules of the department would result in his dismissal, and it is said that he had been long last week before the police committee, for alleged misconduct, and the committee decided that they must recommend his dismissal.

He was appointed patrolman Jan. 21, 1878, and served as night officer at Newton, until a few weeks ago, when he was assigned to day duty. He came to Newton shortly after the war, in which he served, having enlisted from Cambridge in the 8th Mass., in response to President Lincoln's call for troops, as a three month man, and was present at the battle of Bull Run. On the retreat he was captured, and taken to the path of the troops, severely wounded, and removed him to one side of the road out of harm's way, and did what he could for him. Coming home at the end of his term, he was stationed in the 1st Mass. Regt. and served through the war, receiving an honorable discharge. He was formerly an active member of Chas. Ward Post, and had served as Commander. He was also member of Bethel Lodge, I. O. O. F. of Arlington, his former home, and a past noble grand of that lodge. He leaves a widow, who is in feeble health, his remaining son having died some years ago, from whom he was separated.

The funeral services were held at Mr. Blanchard's residence on Thornton street, Thursday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Lamb officiating. The service consisted of the reading of appropriate passages of scripture and a short address, in which Mr. Lamb spoke of the fine war record of the deceased, and dwelt upon the duty of being charitable to each other, and having that love for our friends that will enable us to see the good that is in them. The address was a very affecting one.

There were some handsome floral pieces, a pillow from the Newton Police force, several wreaths from the Veteran Firemen's Association, and a handsome bunch of roses from the baggage men and employees of the Boston Police force. A large delegation of the Police force were present, and many citizens and friends of the deceased. The interment was at Arlington, where his six children are buried.

The pallbearers were Capt. C. E. Davis, Patrolmen Harrison, Ryan, P. F. Bosworth, Henthorne, and C. O. Davis. The first four were appointed in 1878, the same year as the deceased.

ASSESSORS' NOTICE.
The inhabitants of the City of Newton, and all other persons liable to pay taxes therein, are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of said Newton, on any day from

May First to the Sixteenth Day of June, Next,

true lists of all their Polls (males, 20 years old and upward), and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempted from taxation.

ASSESSMENT OF WOMEN.
Chap. 196, Acts of 1880.

The Assessors or Assistant Assessors shall, in the month of May or June in each year, visit each dwelling house or building and make true lists of all women twenty years of age and upwards, who shall be in writing their own signatures, request the Assessors to assess them for a "poll tax," and it shall be the duty of the Assessors to inquire at each such dwelling-house or building for such written requests for assessment, which must give the name in full—age, occupation and residence May 1st, 1889. All women desiring to be assessed for a poll tax should have their written request for such assessment, though the form required by the act of 1889, ready for delivery to the Assessors when they shall visit the house where they dwell. Each request should be upon a separate sheet signed by the applicant with her name in full. No application for the assessment of a woman for a poll tax will be received by mail or in any other than the manner provided by said Chapter 196, except by filing in the office of the Assessors the list provided by Section 12, of Chapter 298, of Acts of 1884, as amended by Chapter 200 of Acts of 1888.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation to such estates.

When estates of persons deceased have been divided during the past year, or have changed hands from other causes, the Executors, Administrators, Trustees, or other persons interested, are required and warned to give notice of such change; and in default of such notice will be held by the law to be the same as if no change had been wholly distributed and paid over.

Returns of Property Held for Literary, Benevolent, Charitable, or Scientific Purposes.

In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, Acts of 1882, All persons and corporations are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the sixteenth day of June next, true lists of all real and personal estates held by such persons and corporations respectively for literary, benevolent, charitable, or scientific purposes on the first day of May, 1890, together with statements of the amount of all receipts and expenditures by such person or corporation for said purpose during the year next preceding said first day of May; such lists and statements to be in such detail as may be required by the tax commissioner.

MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE.
Chap. 175, Acts of 1882, Sec. 1.

Any mortgagee or mortgagee of Real Estate may bring in to the Assessors of the town or city where such Real Estate lies, at the time specified for bringing in the list as provided in Section thirty-eight of Chapter eleven of the Public Statutes, a statement, under oath, of the amount due on each separate lot or parcel of such Real Estate, and the name of the person or persons who are the holders of an interest therein as a mortgagee or mortgagor. When such property is situated in two or more places, or when a recorded mortgage includes for one sum two or more estates or parts of an estate, an estimate of the amount of the mortgagee's interest in each estate or part of an estate shall be given by the mortgagee. The Assessors shall, from such statements or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate parts of such estates that are the interests of mortgagees and mortgagors, respectively, and shall assess the same. Whenever, in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such Real Estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

SHIPPING.
Shipping and business income are not taxable to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items, in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9, of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of return required to obtain exemption from taxation upon the valuation of such property. Said returns to be made to the Assessors on or before June first. Any person bringing in a list of all his taxable personal property will be assessed upon the valuation thereof, and any person neglecting to furnish the Assessors with such list within the time above specified, will be deemed at a legal meeting of the Board of Assessors, according to the laws of this Commonwealth. All persons will take notice that statements of personal property must be in writing and subscribed under oath before one of the Assessors on or before the sixteenth day of June, and that the Personal Property of all taxable persons must be estimated by the Board, notwithstanding any verbal statements or informal written communication to any one or more of the Assessors.—Pub. Stat. Chap. 11, Sec. 39 and 41. When a person has failed to bring in a list or schedule of all his taxable property, in conformity to this notice, no abatement of a tax assessed on Personal Estate to such person can be granted, unless such tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent, the amount which would have been assessed to that person on Personal Estate if he had seasonably brought in said list; and if said tax exceeds by more than fifty per cent, the said amount, the abatement shall be only of the excess above the said fifty per cent.—Pub. Statutes Chap. 11, Sec. 7.

The Assessors will be in session at their office, in the City Hall, in the City of Newton, on the 1st, 8th, 15th, 22nd and 29th days of May, and the 5th and 16th days of June next, from two to five o'clock P. M.

Blank schedules will be furnished on application to either of the Assessors.

THE POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM.

The old controversy between the police committee and Gamewell company has been renewed, and the committee scored a point against the company Monday night, in passing a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee to investigate why the committee had not put up their police signal systems within the four months granted them in the terms of their contract. Alderman Feino voted against the resolution, and Alderman Pettie would probably have made some interesting remarks had he been present. The resolution now goes to the Common Council, which has once before joined issues on this question with the upper branch, and beat them handsomely, and some men who have the deplorable habit of betting are offering odds that the resolution will not secure a single favorable vote in the lower board. Nevertheless, the affair will relieve the usual dull routine of business, and gives a spice to the city government reports.

The Gamewell company are evidently at fault in not asking for an extension and giving reasons for their delay. It is said that the company have been hindered by the prevalence of the grip, which took out about half their men during the winter, and they have been waiting for the city to put up poles, and also to get its new stable in readiness. Besides, they say that the police wagons have only just arrived and the system could not have been used if it had been put in. When the matter comes up in the Common Council the company's side will probably be fully presented. They shipped from New York early last week the central desk, which is now at City Hall, and is a very handsome and complete affair, with all the latest improved appliances, and the company say the whole system will be ready to use by the end of the month.

BIENNIAL ELECTIONS.

That was a very satisfactory vote in the house on Wednesday, when the biennial elections resolve received the necessary two thirds vote, 143 yeas to 38 nays, with 16 pairs. It was especially creditable to the Republicans, also, as 129 Republicans and 20 Democrats voted for it, while 14 Republicans and 40 Democrats voted against it. This gave a republican majority of 115 for the resolution, the Boston Democrats voting solidly against it.

The two Newton representatives were heartily in favor of the bill, and Mr. Gilman did effective work for it. The question is now to be passed along to the next legislature, and the people should see to it that men are selected this fall who will pledge themselves to vote for this much needed reform. The politicians will make a determined effort to block the way, but the victory can be won if public sentiment is only aroused. Biennial elections would be one step and the next would be biennial sessions, and the accomplishment of these two reforms would place Massachusetts in line with the other progressive states.

Col. E. H. Haskell of Newton Centre naturally feels very much gratified at the success gained, as he has been one of the most active workers for it, and has given a great deal of time to the preparation of arguments, the presentation of testimony, and bringing public opinion to bear on the question, and if the right men are chosen this fall, the resolve will be endorsed by the next General Court and then the people will have a chance to register their wishes at the ballot-box.

PAMPHLETS containing a list of the deserted farms in New Hampshire have been distributed about the city this week, by some patent medicine company. The list is certainly a surprising one and shows how easy it would be for any one to own a summer house in the White Mountain region. Think of a six hundred acre farm, with good house and barn, that can be bought for $1200, in one of the most picturesque towns in the state. Or if that price is too high, there is a 200 acre farm, with a large house and two barns for $400, $200 to be paid down and the rest to be left on a mortgage. Such bargains are very attractive, although a New Hampshire native who came to Massachusetts to live and not to run for an office, says that these farms are most of them half a day's ride from a railroad station, with the nearest neighbor from a half to two miles away, and on roads only passable in summer, and that the more land you own in New Hampshire the poorer you are. People up there get so lonesome, the natives say, that they would drive twenty miles to hear even Senator Blair make a speech.

However, intending purchasers of farms for summer residences need not be deterred by these drawbacks, they could secure quiet and rest, and if they wanted to have a little more space, they could probably buy up a whole country for a few thousand dollars.

MR. GILMAN'S bill to compel railroads to furnish free transportation to members of the legislature was voted down, Wednesday, the representatives being afraid that their "privileges" would be cut off. It was rather Utopian to expect a body of men, each of whom had a free pass in his pocket, to vote to deprive themselves of them, even though the state should furnish the transportation required to get them to the gilded dome. One legislator last year was able to procure 100 free passes at one time for his friends, and the majority of the members evidently think they must have some way of rewarding their friends. The free pass business is a scandal, but the average legislator will have to be educated before it can be done away with. There is no sympathy for the railroads, which probably find that this way of influencing members pays, but it puts the state in a wrong position.

THE Austin street extension project was probably killed last Monday night, unless the property owners go ahead as other property owners have to do and put the street in order themselves, when the city would accept it. There were some exceptional circumstances about the street, but not sufficient, the aldermen thought, to justify them in departing from the usual course in such matters. Perhaps the threat made in another paper that all who voted against the extension would be marked men at the next election had something to do with the unfavorable action, as that is hardly the way to secure favorable action from a City Council in Newton. The vote was unanimous and there seems to be no prospect of any reconsideration.

THE talk about an epidemic of hydrophobia may be disquieting to nervous people, but the time for fear was months ago when there were so many reports of alleged "mad dogs," and not now, when the reports seem to have died out altogether. It would take more than three cases in widely scattered cities to make an epidemic, and one of the most skillful dog doctors in the vicinity of Boston says that not one in five hundred of the dogs reported mad and killed, would prove to be so were they shut up, and properly cared for. It is only fair to say also, that many of the most experienced physicians still doubt the existence of any such disease, in spite of the cases reported.

THE Metropolitan Sewerage Commission have been heard from this week, and they have made good progress in their work. The commissioner has a corps of 30 engineers and draughtsmen employed, and a gang of 20 men boring and testing the soil at intervals along the line of the proposed sewers. The work of surveying and testing has been carried out as far as Newton on the Southern system, and the board say they are doing all they can to satisfy the people of Newton, who are so anxious for the speedy completion of the system. It is thought that within two years, at least, the main sewer will be brought as far as Newton.

ROWELL'S American Newspaper Directory for 1890 is out, more carefully compiled than ever, a special effort having been made to get at the exact truth in regard to newspaper circulations, and the figures given can in general be relied on. The book gives one some idea of the great number of newspapers in the United States, and emphasizes the fact that we are a reading nation. All extensive advertisers find Rowell's directory a necessity.

CONGRESSMAN CANDLER has introduced a bill to give every village a post-office building, when the gross receipts exceed $5,000. This would give most of the Newtons a national building, and the bill would also prove an expeditious method of getting rid of the surplus. Its advocates say it would only take some thirty millions, which is probably a very low estimate.

IT is next month, instead of the "next meeting," which was held Wednesday evening, that the High School Investigating Committee are to make their report. The announcement of last week was due to a misunderstanding of the words of one of the committee, and it did seem hardly possible for the committee to have made anything like a thorough examination in so short a time.

THE Tariff Reform column came a little late this week, and we began to fear it had been stolen, when the house of the secretary of the club was burglarized Monday night, but it finally appeared all right and will be found on page six. This is the first time since the column was started that the supply of matter has failed to arrive on time, which is a remarkable record.

IN another column will be found the excellent and patriotic address made by Mr. E. B. Haskell at the presentation of the flag to the Williams school, last Saturday. The exercises of that day must have made a deep impression on the minds of the children present and given them a better understanding of what the flag stands for.

THE annual meeting of the Newton Civil Service Reform Association will be held at the Allen schoolhouse in West Newton, next Monday evening, at 7.45 o'clock. A full attendance will, it is thought, strengthen the cause, and it is hoped that all the members at least will be present.

THE Milford Journal thinks the moral of the Rhode Island election is "Those who dance must pay the fiddler," which means we suppose that if a party wants to carry a state it must raise the necessary boodle.

REPRESENTATIVE RANLETT is suffering from nervous prostration, the result of an after attack of the grip, and at the order of his physician left this week for Hampton, Va., when it is hoped he will fully recover his health.

THE bill authorizing the City of Newton to issue more water bonds has passed both houses.

C. E. Notes.

One of the many good features of the Christian Endeavor movement is its inter-denominational spirit. In at least twenty-two different denominations, the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor exists; and though, of necessity, methods vary, it is believed that in the main, each society is loyal to its own denomination as well as true to the principles of Christian Endeavor.

Rev. F. E. Clark, D. D., president of the United Societies, is this month making a tour in the West in the interests of Christian Endeavor. He reports that every State convention which he has attended the past year has reached "highwater mark" as compared with previous conventions of the same State. In Michigan, where membership in the societies has increased more than 3,000 during the year, and in Iowa as well, the conventions show that the young people are wide awake and enthusiastic, and that the societies are growing stronger and more efficient.

Y. M. C. A.

The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday was addressed by Rev. Dr. J. B. Gould, who spoke from the text, "How great a matter a little fire kindleth." Great things come from small beginnings. Evil habits are formed almost unconsciously, so slight is their growth. The leader spoke interestingly of the great missionary work in heathen lands, so hard to enter upon, and yet to-day every part is open to us for missionary work. Next Sunday Mr. Atchley of the Newton Theological Seminary will speak.

A Grave Question.

It is becoming more and more apparent that there is a real necessity for circumscribing the powers of the insurance department of Massachusetts. The arbitrary powers of the commissioner, under the present condition of affairs, makes it possible for him, upon the slightest pretext, to injure, by an injudicious ruling, the interests of policy holders in any foreign company, and the jaws governing the department ought to be so strict as to render this impossible. Indeed, it is a grave question among many thinking men, as to whether the bestowal, as a reward for faithful party service, of an office of so great responsibility be not altogether wrong. As a result of the pernicious practice of appointing an inexperienced man, the New York Life has been charged with all the time known to insurance men, without the slightest foundation for the complaint, and the spectacle presented before the country of the Massachusetts insurance department giving its sanction to what had previously been declared altogether wrong and misleading. It would seem that a reputable company ought not to be subjected to such annoyance.

Fashion Sayings

The young men of Boston have the reputation of being the best dressed men in the world.

The firm that makes more clothes for young men than any other two firms put together in New England are Chas. Green & Co., Tailors, 581, 583 and 585 Washington Street, Boston.

Men have good reason to congratulate themselves upon the many opportunities to gratify their taste for Fashionable Clothes provided by this popular firm.

Wide trousers are still in vogue, so are the Black Cheviot Suits.

Five dollars and fifty cents seems rather a small sum for a pair of custom trousers, but Chas. Green & Co. are displaying over 1000 different styles of goods suitable for trousers at this price. Their suits to order at $25 and Spring Overcoats to order at $21 cannot be duplicated at any other Merchant Tailor for less than $30 to $35.

Persons desiring well fitting clothes should give them a call, they guarantee a perfect fit.

The Tariff is a Humbug.

Every person interested in the subject of the tariff is cordially invited to take part in the discussion carried on in this column. Respectful consideration will be given to inquiries, criticisms and communications of every kind whether coming from Tariff Reformers, Free Traders, or High Protectionists. Address Secretary of the Tariff Reform Club, Newton Centre, Mass.

Our Chinese Wall.

When we have raised the tariff to a point that will keep off all foreign goods, and perfected measures which will effectually prevent the immigration of all skilled workmen, we shall have reached the Chinese ideal of an exclusive policy, based on the unworthiness of all "outside barbarians." Who is willing to help on this war against civilization and the triumphs of human enterprise and sagacity?

The Tariff in Pennsylvania.

Mr. James M. Beck of Philadelphia, who is a candidate for the seat in the national house of representatives made vacant by the death of Samuel J. Randall, said, in his recent speech in Boston, that the most eloquent advocates of tariff reform in Philadelphia are the sixty-eight woolen mills which have been closed since the presidential election of 1888!

A Wanton Attack on Industry.

It is hardly possible that such a monstrosity should become a law. Should it be passed, however, in spite of the tremendous opposition it has encountered in New England and elsewhere, it would give an impetus to such an agitation for tariff reform as the country has never yet witnessed. And whether passed or not, the Republican party must be held responsible for the malignant and wanton attack which is made upon numerous and important American industries by the McKinley tariff bill.

Trouble in Dividing the Plunder.

There never has been, there never will be, and there never can be a bill framed upon the principle of protection that will be satisfactory to the people of all the country. You cannot divide up the plunder in a way to satisfy all its recipients and at the same time satisfy everybody else that is not taken into the division. The history of our country is proof conclusive of that fact. From the time we began the protective tariffs—from 1816 or 1824—there was dissatisfaction. There was excitement, there was almost civil war in this country, until in 1846 we had a tariff based upon the principle of revenue. When that tariff was adopted the great question passed out of the public mind. People adjusted themselves to it. Eleven years later, in 1857, when that tariff produced a redundant revenue, and there was a call for reduction of duties, those duties were reduced by common consent without any protest from anybody, from the average of 25 per cent. over one-half the existing rates to an average of 18 or 19 per cent. And when in 1890 Mr. Morrill brought in his bill to increase those rates, a distinguished representative of the state of Massachusetts, Hon. Alexander H. Rice, rose in the House of Representatives and said that the existing tariff rates were satisfactory to the manufacturers of Massachusetts.

Infants With Growing Appetites.

Is it not a confession of the absolute failure of the present system of protection to have it affirmed, after a trial of nearly thirty years, that what were acknowledged to be enormous protective taxes, temporarily levied for war purposes—taxes deemed by the protectionist manufacturers of the past to be more than sufficient for their needs—are now insufficient? The Republican members of the ways and means committee practically admit that a continuance of the system of protection implies the periodic imposition of higher and higher rates of duty. That what they ask for now, because they deem it sufficient, will need to be increased a few years later on, just as the proposed tariff taxes are in the main higher than any this country has thus far known.

Growth of the Tariff Since the War.

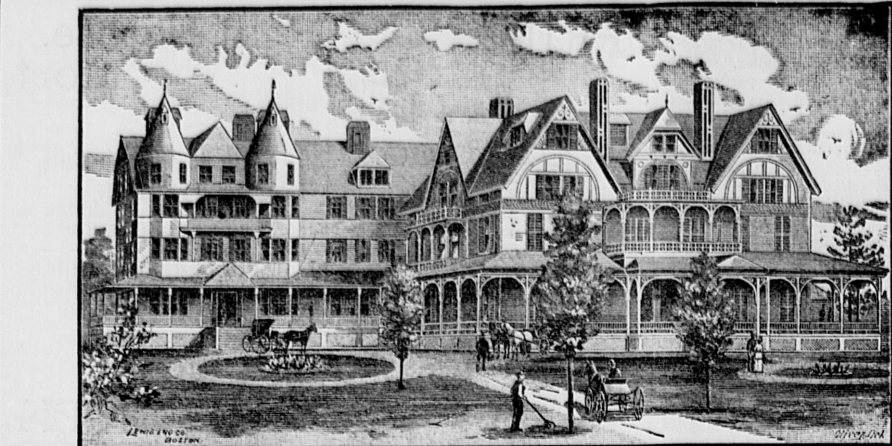

When Senator Morrill presented his tariff bill in Congress in 1890 he apologized to the country, called it a great burden upon the people, but appealed to their loyalty to endure the burden, until the war should be over and the necessity for such a burden of taxation should be removed, and then the tax should be reduced to the necessities of the government in time of peace? When the war closed the Republican party failed to fulfill its promise, but instead increased the Morrill revenue tax of 24 per cent. to a protective tax of 47 per cent. This increase of tariff so increased the revenue that they abolished the tax on railroads, on insurance companies, on express companies, on bank capital, on bank deposits, on bank checks, on everything that was a burden upon wealth. The income tax was abolished, as an excuse for a protective tax on the people; thus relieving the wealthy of the burden of taxation, while the poor are taxed on every necessity of life. If the present protective system has not grown up in the last twenty-five years, then we are not conversant with our history, for certainly no such system ever prevailed before in this country, and has been wholly inaugurated and developed in the last quarter of a century.

FAVOR FREE SHIPS.

THE REV. DR. A. P. PEABODY DEPRECIATES THE DECLINE OF AMERICAN SHIPPING.

At the last meeting of the Unitarian Club, briefly reported at the time, the Rev. Dr. A. P. Peabody of Cambridge spoke decidedly in favor of free ships and deprecated the policy which has resulted in the decline of American shipping interests. He said, in substance:

"I was brought up among the ship-owners and masters of vessels in the East Indian and Calcutta trade, and lived a great many years among shipowners and masters engaged in European freighting business, and must say that they were as noble and upright a set of men as ever I knew. I regard the country as being greatly bereaved in having lost men of that type, consequent upon

WOODLAND PARK HOTEL.

Description of the Beautiful New Annex which is just Completed.

House to be formally Opened May 2, with a Bowling Tournament.

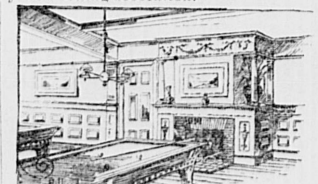

The new annex of the Woodland Park Hotel is an added ornament to the beautiful buildings, comprising one of the most convenient and well constructed suburban hostleries in this country. The new portion rises from the summit of a natural hill, west from Washington street and connected by a long corridor with the main building. The design of the structure conforms to that of the hotel proper. It is constructed of wood, three stories high, with round towers at the north and south end of the building. The two upper stories contain 14 chambers and the first floor is utilized for bowling alleys, billiard and pool room, retiring rooms, smoking rooms and a spacious reading room. The entire building is finished in white wood, stained cherry, with the exception of the billiard room. The walls of the top story are finished in light olive tones, relieved by darker brown lines, light tints being used in the treatment of the ceilings. Soft brown shades prevail in the decoration of the second floor and warm shades of coloring are used in the treatment of the ceilings. The ceilings of the main hall and corridors are treated in a citron shade, with terra cotta wall coloring, forming an agreeable and tasteful contrast.

sive open fire place with tiled hearth, extending nearly across the north end of the apartment. On either side, beneath cylindrical columns supporting the heavy cornice, are placed carved panels of tasteful design. The walls above a high panel wainscoting are treated in an orange shade relieved by a heavy olive frieze and cornice. The ceiling is a very pretty piece of stipple

The apartments of the first floor consist of a reading room entered from the left of the main hall, a billiard and pool room, finished in colonial style, spacious bowling room, containing 4 alleys of the regulation length, smoking room, lavatory and dressing rooms. The reading room contains a large face-brick open fire place with tiled hearth and is lighted by large windows. The walls are tinted in a light shade of olive with light yellow ceiling decoration.

In the billiard room there is a mas-work in yellowish drab. A moss green shade is used in the coloring of the wainscoting and a very artistic effect is produced by the tasteful combination of colors. An idea of the size of the room may be gleaned from its dimensions, 36x34-6, with jog, 21-6x17-4. The bowling room, entered from the billiard room and also from a corridor, is 81x27-2; the smoking room is 14-2x13-8. The extreme inside measurement of the annex is about 107 feet. A verandah, 8 feet in width, extends around two sides of the building. The toilet rooms and dressing rooms are provided with all modern conveniences and there is a large bath room on the second floor.

The furnishings of the annex are entirely new, the chamber furniture having been manufactured from special designs by J. and T. Folan in sixteenth century, cherry and antique oak. Mahogany billiard and pool tables from the Briggs Manufacturing Company, will be placed in the billiard room, with chairs to match the general tone of the apartment. Colonial style seats have been built into the wainscoting across the east end of the main room and west end of the jog. They will be upholstered in olive-green damask. The hangings will be of old gold velours backed by lace curtains.

The following local and Boston firms have been engaged in the building and furnishing of the annex:

Lewis & Phipps, architects; William H. Pettigrew, builder; J. & T. Folan, chamber furniture; Joseph Zeller, curtains and upholstery; O. F. Lucas, plumbing; Hollings & Co., gas and electric fixtures; Walker Pratt Co., steam heating apparatus; Allen & Barry, painting; Butler & Stenberg, decorations.

The main building has been entirely renovated and many of the rooms redecorated. Oil colors have been used almost entirely in the treatment of the walls in the main building and annex. The new part will be thrown open formally to the public upon the evening of May 2, upon which occasion a bowling tournament will be inaugurated between the teams of the Inter-League

Bowling Association, representing the Boston Athletic Association, Norfolk House Casino Club, Newton Club and Newton Boat Club and teams representing the Chelsea River Club. The bowlers will meet upon an equal footing on the new alleys at the hotel, modelled after those of the Boston Athletic Association, and will compete for a first and second prize, consisting of two handsome silver cups, offered by Mr. Lee. The cups are now on exhibition in the store of N. G. Woods & Son, Boston. The conditions of the matches will be similar to those of the inter-league series, the teams to be made up of four men each, 45 strings to be rolled in each contest. Schedule of games announced later.

words written out and sent to Mrs. W. Wallace Brown have been translated by her—her rendering corresponding exactly to the version given by Noel Josephs, the old Indian who sang the song into the instrument. Mr. Fewkes also gave his hearers an illustration of the songs sung at the sacred dances, and on the occasion of the election of the chief of the tribe. He then told an Indian legend full of rude imagery, which he called the story of the Black Cat and the Sable, again illustrating by means of the phonograph, the Indian narrative style. This was the last of the cylinders of which the lecturer made use, although he had collected a large number of stories, and everything he could find relating to the divinities and mythological personages of the Indians. Mr. Newell, secretary of the society, spoke briefly in its interests as Dr. Fewkes concluded.

THE WILLIAMS SCHOOL.

ADDRESS OF MR. E. B. HASKELL AT THE FLAG PRESENTATION.

The exercises at the Williams school attracted a large audience last Saturday afternoon, and passed off very successfully, the scholars acquitting themselves with great credit. The address on the presentation of the flag was made by Mr. E. B. Haskell, and the speech of acceptance was made by Mr. J. O. Godfrey, master of the school. Mr. Haskell's remarks were as follows:

Teachers and Scholars of the Williams School:

My first impulse is to express my gratitude for an opportunity to take a part in this most interesting occasion. The very agreeable duty has been assigned to me of presenting to you this beautiful flag, the patriotic gift of our fellow-citizens and neighbors, Messrs. Geo. E. Johnson, B. C. Baker, F. A. Childs, P. A. McVicar, E. Vickers and J. H. Doliver. This presentation is made, with great propriety, on the anniversary of an event celebrated in our annals, which took place a short hour's ride from here, in historic Lexington, and a little more distant, equally famous Concord—where our forefathers first made armed resistance to the power of the mother country, when that power was unwisely and unlawfully used against their rights as British subjects. That act of "the embattled farmers," who, as Emerson so finely said, "fired a shot heard round the world," followed by the Battle of Bunker Hill, two months later, stands at the very beginning of our national life, though it was more than a year afterwards that the formal declaration of independence was adopted, and seven years of bitter and bloody war was required to make that declaration good, and secure recognition for the infant nation.

I had intended to give a sketch of the growth and development of our flag, but our young friends have anticipated me and have done their work so well that no repetition is required. Suffice it to say that one hundred and fifteen years ago today, on the day of Lexington and Concord, this flag of ours was unknown. It is uncertain what flag, if any, was carried by the American troops at Bunker Hill. In July following Gen. Putnam displayed at Prospect Hill, in what is now the city of Somerville, a red flag, with the motto "Qui Transiit Sustinet" ("He who brought us over will sustain us.") on one side, and on the other the words "An Appeal to Heaven." This last motto was adopted for the Pine Tree flag—a green pine tree on a white ground—which the Provincial Congress of Massachusetts put on the armed cruisers of that colony, and the first war vessels commissioned by Washington carried the Pine Tree flag. On the 20 of January, 1776, at Cambridge, Washington unfurled the "great union" flag, with thirteen alternate red and white stripes, and the crosses of St. George and St. Andrew in the corner. On the 14th of June, 1777, nearly a year after the Declaration of Independence, Congress changed the flag as it is today, unchanged except in the number of the stars, which represent the states in the union. In a little over a hundred years these stars have grown from thirteen to forty-two, and the people who live under the flag have increased from three millions to sixty-five millions. Who can foretell, or estimate without emotion, what changes another hundred years will bring forth?

The act of our fellow citizens, by means of which the national flag was made an object lesson of patriotism in the school, is in the highest degree commendable. Some of us here present can remember when this emblem of the national life had a deep, peculiar, a vital significance. To us it seems but yesterday. How strange that, not only these young people, but all men and women under thirty years of age, know only by hearsay of those days of strife, of peril, of anxious hopes and fears! How well we remember when the flag floating over Fort Sumter was brought low before the first violent assault of treason; when Gen. Dix issued his blood-stirring order—"If any man hauls down the American flag shoot him on the spot"; when the flags joyfully waved from every staff and steeple to proclaim the triumph of the Union arms; and, alas! when they drooped, half-masted, to express a nation's sorrow over the bier of Lincoln—Lincoln the great and good leader, worthy to stand by the side of Washington, in the highest niche of fame!

My young friends, memories such as these hallow the flag for us who have them. You will love the Star Spangled Banner better and better as you grow older, for it will mean more and more to you, some day its full meaning will dawn upon you. A few years ago, I had been for the larger part of a year on the Continent of Europe, where I had scarcely seen an American flag, except here and there a small one over an American consulate. I rode one lovely afternoon along the Maritime Alps, over the famous Corniche road, high uplifted above the sea, to the little port of Villafraña, near Nice, the United States naval station in the Mediterranean. Three American frigates were in the harbor, and from their peaks streamed in the joyful breeze the starry banner. I shall never forget my exaltation of feeling on that occasion—the blood rushed to my cheeks, and the tears to my eyes. For the moment I had a full realization of what the flag of one's country stands for to a loyal and loving citizen.

And now, in presenting this flag to you, I can not do better than to express the wish that it may long continue to wave over this school, representing to you and your successors a country constantly growing wiser and better, as well as larger and stronger; and that its lessons of patriotism may sink into your hearts and be manifested in your lives—yours and of all who live under its starry folds and claim the proud title of American citizen.

The Fall of man. Miss Parsons—"And so Adam was very happy. Now, Willie, can you tell me what great misfortune befell him?" Willie—"Please, Miss Parsons, he got a wife."—Life.

"Mamma," said the son of a member of congress who had presented him with some pastry on condition that he share it with his brother. "What is it?" "Won't you eat this pie for us?" "Why not let your brother do it?" "Cos I can see from the way he acts that he is getting ready to gerrymander it."—Washington Post.

—A children's party will be given in Tremont Hall, Saturday afternoon, May 3d, under the auspices of the Newtonville Guild. Admission, 10 cents for children, 25 cents adults. Refreshments for sale.

—Rev. Mr. Jaynes of West Newton preached in the Universalist pulpit Sunday evening, with Balaam for an illustration of character, and showing the necessity of one's serving God and Mammon; the speaker gave a grand sermon, much appreciated by all who heard it.

—At the meeting of Newton Royal Arch Chapter, F. & A. M., held in Masonic Hall, Tuesday evening, W. M. Russell presented the members' degrees were conferred upon four candidates. Visitors were present representing Morning Star Chapter, Springfield; St. Andrews, Boston, and Natick Chapter. A collation was served at the conclusion of the ceremonies.

—Mr. C. S. Keene has sold one of his fine estates on Grove Hill to Mr. W. N. Potter, Jr., of Boston, who has already commenced removal. Mr. Potter will have a desirable acquisition to Newton, and especially to this ward, already the home of so many of the younger elements in Boston's commercial and business circles.

—A meeting of gentlemen interested in the formation of a chieftain's league in connection with the Improved Order of Red Men, was held in Tremont Hall, Monday evening, W. M. Russell presiding, and reports were submitted by committees previously appointed on name, hall and general details. It was voted to defer the perfecting of the organization until after the formation of the State league, which occurs next week.

—Mr. W. A. Cook died at the Cottage Hospital Tuesday morning. The deceased was 51 years of age and had been a resident of Newton several years. The Newton took place from his late residence, Washington street, yesterday afternoon. Dalhousie lodge, F. & A. M., was represented by a delegation. Rev. Dr. G. W. Shinn officiated, and the interment was in the Newton cemetery.

—An incipient fire in Prof. Taylor's house, Central avenue, was extinguished yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Bosworth and Capt. W. S. Higgins. It was caused by a defective chimney and charred the timbers back of a mantel. The house was soon filled with smoke and the inmates became somewhat alarmed. An alarm proved unnecessary owing to the prompt services of Officer Bosworth and Capt. Higgins.

—The N. L. & S. Club held its regular meeting last Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Nellie E. Barlow, Parsons street. After the business meeting the following literary and musical program was enjoyed: Reading, Mr. H. W. Brigham; piano duet, Misses Lena and Alice Barlow; violin duet, Mr. C. C. Bowen and Master Fred Barlow; reading, Miss Jennie Preston; violin solo, Mr. C. H. Bowen. The remainder of the evening was spent in pulling candy.

—In the billiard and pool tournament, under the auspices of the Newton Boat Club, the following games have been played since our last issue: Billiards, C. H. Carter beat J. B. Goodrich, 100-95; S. J. Brown beat E. J. Burden, 100-50; C. H. Carter beat W. H. Mendell, 100-45; Pool, W. O. Hunt beat A. A. Kenrick, 50-45; C. H. Carter beat J. A. Kenrick, 50-27; J. A. Kenrick beat F. E. Hall, 50-47; J. A. Kenrick beat E. T. Fearing, 50-27; E. E. Hall beat C. B. Coffin, 50-48; C. B. Coffin beat E. T. Fearing, 50-45.

—In December last Thomas Denning living on Crafts street, fell from the roof of George W. Gould's barn on Walnut street, in consequence of the separating of two ladders which Mr. Gould had tied together for the purpose of enabling Mr. Denning to go upon the roof. Mr. Denning was severely injured, and has now, through his counsel, George T. Lincoln, brought suit against Mr. Gould to recover $15,000 damages. The case will be tried in the superior court in Boston, the writ being returnable the first Monday in June.

—Fuller & French report the following sales: Six acres of land in Newtonville, formerly owned by the Crowlidge heirs, to Chas. S. Denison; 14,000 square feet of land on Washington street near Waverley avenue, estate of Geo. Allen and others, to J. L. Damon; building lot on Bridge street, owned by J. W. French, to Catherine McInnis; sold to N. W. Tupper, house and 15,000 feet of land, formerly owned by M. E. Tilton on Linwood avenue; sold to N. W. Tupper, house and 11,000 feet of land on Minot place, formerly owned by Mrs. Tilton.

—When Mr. and Mrs. R. A. White returned home Monday evening they found their house had been entered, and was then fully occupied by a large company of friends who filled the parlors and all available room with their presence, but had placed in the hall without "knowledge or consent" of their pastor or his wife a Wilcox & Gibbs sewing machine of the latest improved and most elegant pattern. A cordial appreciative reply to the note of presentation was made by Mrs. White, and

Mr. White added some apt remarks. Mrs. Leah Willington recited Hood's "Song of the Shirt," adding some verses of her own. A very social hour followed and the company departed.

—Miss Jeanette A. Grant received on Tuesday, the diploma from Herr Johann Martin Schleyer, the inventor of Volapuk. Herr Schleyer lives in Konstanz, Germany, and his diplomas are given to those who have made satisfactory progress in the universal language. It is very gratifying to the inventor that Volapuk has so many zealous students who are spreading it in all parts of the world. There is at present no doubt that Volapuk is a means of communication between people who speak different languages, and is a practical commercial advantage. Holders of diplomas are invited to interest others in the merits of the world-language whose motto is "For one humanity, one language." Miss Grant will communicate gladly with any one who wishes to know about Volapuk.

—A concert was given in Tremont Hall, last evening, by the choir of the St. John's Lutheran church, I. O. R. M. It was well attended and an excellent program was given as follows: Overture, A. H. Bissell; recitation, Mr. J. Q. Bird; cornet solo, Arthur Plummer; soprano solos, Miss Lillian Peck; flute solos, Mr. J. T. Read; bass solos, Mr. H. E. Butler; readings, Mrs. F. H. Hobart; tenor solos, Mr. C. N. Sladen; representative of Saxophone solos, Mr. F. H. Hobart. The vocal numbers were, finely rendered. Mr. Hobart played in his usual pleasing manner and Mr. Plummer gave an admirable rendering of the polka Fantasia. The readings by Mrs. Hobart and the recitations by Mr. Bird were greatly enjoyed.

—An organ recital was given in the new Swedenborgian church, Tuesday evening, by Mr. J. W. Waller, Godrich, organist of Eliot, Church, Newton, and Mr. J. R. Phelps, organist of the Swedenborgian church, Roxbury. The instrumentalists were assisted by Miss Ida F. Hubbard of Cambridge, and Miss M. E. Holmes of Cambridge, contralto. A fine program was rendered, the vocal and instrumental numbers being much enjoyed. Mr. Phelps' improvisations demonstrated his attainments as an organist, and Mr. Goodrich gave a fine rendering of Eliza's Entr'acte from King Manfred and the Grand Choeur from the opera of Faust. The organist of the Boston Cathedral, was announced on the program, but was unable to keep his engagement. The new organ, recently placed in position, is a fine instrument, from the manufactory of Goodrich & Harris, Boston. It cost $3,000, has two manuals of 61 notes each, 942 pipes and an independent pedal organ of 27 notes and 24 stops, 18 of which are speaking stops.

—Rev. R. A. White spoke on church union, Sunday morning, advocating a union of the different denominations, not along doctrinal lines, but the choosing of delegates from each denomination, and these representatives meeting in common council, in unity of purpose and work. It is not possible that all should believe alike, nor desirable, since there would be the possibility of sinking to the level of dull monotony; but it is possible to differ in certain points of creed or faith, and yet, agreeing in all the essentials, to work together in harmony. Where each church draws a circle for its own special work, this denomination here, that one there, and another yonder, there is often a triangle of the field left untouched, and the unshared are without any assistance, or unified effort. The spirit of the church is of a liberal, without bitterness toward any, and if a union could be effected, a great increase of good might be confidently expected, since all would desire to further the cause to present to the world the love of God and the brotherhood of man, with no time lost in the explanation of intricate doctrines, would go far towards the uplifting of humanity for the world over.

WEST NEWTON.

—Mr. C. M. Whittlesey, Cherry street, has gone to New York for a brief visit.

—Who will be appointed day officer at Newton? Possibly Patrol Harrison or E. C. Holmes.

—Mrs. Bosworth, wife of Deacon Bosworth, died at her residence on Waltham street, last evening.

—The contract for the Hunnewell avenue extension and improvements has been awarded to Thomas F. Magne.

—An order has been found for the Shepherd dog advertised by Mrs. H. C. Sheldon—Miss Russell of Waltham.

—The work of installing the police signal system is progressing rapidly and the wires now reach the central station.

—J. Wiley Edmonds, Camp 100, S. V., has accepted an invitation to be present at the sale and supper of the Newton Ladies Home Circle April 30.

—The electric street cars will be running, it is said, June 1. The construction is progressing rapidly and the work will be completed before that time.

—Mr. Philomena Stacy, Waltham street, was able to leave his bed Tuesday for the first time since his illness. He has been ill for the past two months.

—The office desk and fixtures in connection with the police signal system was received at police headquarters, Monday. It is a handsome piece of office furniture in antique oak.

—Citizens of River street appeared before the Newton Board of Health, and offered the side location of the tracks of the Newton Street Railway Company, largely on account of danger to children.

—The usual monthly praise service will be held in the Congregational church, next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. Addresses by the pastor. Musical selections by the choir of the church. All are invited.

—The annual May Festival of the Unitarian Sunday school will be held next Saturday at City Hall, from 2 to 6 p. m., with the usual fine list of attractions. Admission 25 cents, children 15 cents, and all invited.

—T. F. Magne has put in cellars for two fine new residences, one on Temple street and the other on Prince street, for Mr. James Wheeler of Newton, Henry F. Ross, builder.

—The next performance of "The Players" occurs upon the evenings of Wednesday, April 30th, and Thursday, May 1st. "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome, will be the first play of the evening, the cast comprising Messrs. Cobb, Cheney and Pulsifer, Mrs. Farley, Miss Felix and Miss Purdie. The entertainment will close with the farce "Poison," in which Messrs. Sutton, Fowle and Collins, Misses Harris, Farley and Wells take part.

—The base-ball club that was in the field last season, under the name of the Newtons, will still cling to that title and offers to make dates with strong nines the present season, promising a guarantee. The name would seem to really belong to the best equipped nine in the city, backed, if possible, by a responsible management. The nine organized by Messrs. Wood and Mason would seem, therefore, to be entitled to the name.

—There was a large gathering of ladies and gentlemen in Knights of Honor Hall, last evening, upon the occasion of a ladies' night, given under the auspices of Newton lodge 92, I. O. O. F., and commemorating the first anniversary of Odd Fellowship.

—An entertainment consisting of musical selections by the Amphion quartet, and a slight hand exhibition by Prof. Gardner was enjoyed.

—One of the special features of the musical program to be played at the performance of "The Players" next week by what is now known as "The Players Orchestra," formerly the Class of 88, N. H. S. orchestra, will be a set of waltzes composed especially for these performances by a member of the orchestra and a young musician at Harvard, to be played next week for the first time. A new march dedicated to "The Players" will also be heard for the first time.

—Most Reverend Archbishop Williams will consecrate the high altar of St. Bernard's church at 7 a. m., to-morrow, Saturday, and administer the sacrament of Confirmation at 10 a. m., to about 120 persons. On Sunday morning at 10.45 o'clock, Archbishop Williams will dedicate the church, and at the conclusion of the ceremony, a high Mass will be celebrated. Rev. M. T. Boyden of Charlestown will deliver the dedication sermon. The bell will be consecrated at the vesper service at 7.30 o'clock. Archbishop Williams will officiate, assisted by a large number of clergymen.

—St. Bernard's Catholic Lyceum of this city has organized a base ball nine in connection with a league to be made up of clubs whose membership will be drawn from Catholic lyceum associations in Waltham, Watertown and other places. The West Newton nine will include several well known amateurs. The players and positions are as follows: Captain, J. J. Sullivan, catcher; J. Gaw, 1st base; Sullivan (formerly of the Gless), 2d base; Sullivan (formerly of the Boston College nine), short stop; D. J. O'Donnell, 3d base; Kiley, left field; O'Donnell, centre field; Cox, right field. A schedule of games is being arranged and will be published in our next issue.

—Dr. Fred E. Crockett has in his possession an old Irish bag which may be termed a relic connecting the early days of the Republic with the present period. Probably few of the present generation ever saw one, and the relic would grow almost youthful in the hands of its new ownership. It is made of fine linen, hand woven, and was first carried by Joseph Ford, a member of Wiscasset Hand T. Co., who died in 1820. The second member of this old fire company, who owned the bag, was S. Parker, into whose possession it came in 1801. Mrs. Crockett's grandfather, Joshua Damon, became its possessor in 1825 and at his death in 1875, it fell into the hands of Dr. Crockett. There is only one man in Newton whose memory can revert back to the period when the bag was used by the old-time fire laddies. The letting on of the one now owned by the doctor is fresh as in the days of its use and upon either side are inscribed the names of its first owners and the date of its coming into their possession.

—A number of gentlemen interested in base-ball have organized the Newton Base Ball Association and elected these officers: Edward L. Collins, president; Harry Mason, secretary; Elijah A. Wood, manager of the nine. A strong nine will be put in the field this season, comprising the following players: Thomas Lecroft, catcher; E. M. Bent and A. I. Paine, pitchers; G. B. Freeland, 1st base; R. H. Smith, 2d base and captain; Hunting, 3d base; E. L. Smith short stop; Fredericks, former of the Beacons, left field; Conroy, centre field; McNeill, right field. The West Newton common has been secured for grounds, and the work of grading and preparing the same was commenced this week. Raised seats will be erected, accommodating 600 spectators. It is the intention of the management to give to the people of Newton one of the best aggregations of amateur and semi-professional ball players in the State. The personnel of the team needs no special endorsement, as the players are well known. Smith, captain and base ball star of the State, and Fredericks, players in the State and refused an offer a few years ago to play as a professional in the Providence nine. Fredericks is well known also to the base-ball public and has a good record as a general player. The pitcher, played with the Cohassetes last year. He held the Boston leagues down to a few scattered hits, and heavy batters were baffled by his puzzling delivery. Keegan is an old player. He was a member of the Newtons when it was in the State association, is a fine backstop and a good batsman. The other members of the nine can play good ball.

AUBURNDALE.

—Mrs. Maurice of Lasell Place is in Washington.

—Mrs. Fred Wyeth is having a house built on Rowley street.

—Miss Tirrell entertains the Saturday evening whist party this week.

—A sister of Mrs. L. M. Gordon has removed here from Charlestown, Mass.

—Miss Smith of Riverside school has a good family horse for sale.

—Mrs. Geo. A. Hinckley is building a piazza to the front of her house at Riverside.

—The summer boarders are engaging their rooms at the boarding house at Riverside.

—Mr. M. A. Noyes is making extensive improvements in his house on Hancock street.

—A full account of the flag raising at the Williams school will be found in another column.

—Mr. Chas. R. Brown is removing to Newtonville from his former home on Auburn street.

—Mr. Toney of Boston, moved into the stone cottage near the gate on the Pulsifer estate, this week.

—Mr. E. V. Barker intends raising his colt which came from a blooded animal, and will exhibit it at the fair.

—Mrs. A. Kingman, who has been out of town visiting friends has returned to her home on Central street.

—Every room at the Woodland Park Hotel is taken for May and June, and the house has already been full to fill up.

—Arthur Plummer played a cornet solo at the Norumbega Tribe, I. O. R. M. concert at Newtonville, last evening.

—Mr. Frank Tyler is having a house built on his lot on Central street by Mr. Wm. Pettegrew, contractor and builder.

—Measurements were taken last week preparatory to commencing any work at Adams' house, opposite Mr. Bridgman's on Hancock street.

—Mr. W. F. Hadlock's team was run into and somewhat damaged by a team belonging to Mr. Leadbeater of Weston, this week, while driving on Wolcott street.

—All are requested to attend the sale and supper given by the Newton Ladies Home Circle, Wednesday, p. m., and evening, April 30th, at Knights of Honor Hall, West Newton.

—Mrs. O. C. Warren of Hancock street entertained the ladies' afternoon whist club this week, and next Wednesday they will meet with Mrs. Walter Lockett, Auburn street.

—It is a shame that ladies are obliged to take a roundabout way in going on certain streets Sunday afternoons, to avoid being insulted by the gang of loafers near the stores. It would seem that our police officers should disperse such a crowd.

—Three families will come to the mission home in June, and with Mrs. Gulick's who comes to her father's, Mr. James M. Gordon, they will count twenty new children in the neighborhood. There is a prospect of a busy and lively summer.

—Mr. H. W. Robinson's place on Lexington street is being extensively prepared for flowers this summer, and the lawn promises to be very beautiful in arrangement. The fence has been wholly taken away, leaving the effect of the different flower beds visible from the street.

—The annual dinner of the Newton Boat Club was held at the Hotel Thorndike in Boston, last Friday evening, and was attended by about 75 members of the organization, who enjoyed the discussion of an elaborate menu. President W. S. Eaton was master of ceremonies, the usual after-dinner remarks following the material features.

—Messrs. F. G. Barnes & Son, Real Estate Agents, have sold the estate of Mrs. Harriet S. Allen, comprising dwelling house and about three acres of land situated on west side of Grove street near Hancock street, Auburn, to Arthur E. Wilson of Boston, who will make some alterations in the house and occupy the same June 1st.

—The clubhouse of the Newton Boat Club at Riverside, was the scene of a social party last evening. The affair was under the auspices of the Bonquet, a social organization, and the features of the occasion consisted of a ladies' and gentlemen's bowling tournament, dancing, music and social features. The matrons were Mrs. A. M. Langley and Mrs. W. L. Lowell. Paston catered for the occasion.

—Mr. William T. Shepherd has secured additional steamer accommodations for the European trip in June, and therefore will be able to take a larger number of persons. Two more names can be added to the list of his party.

NEWTON CLUB SPORTS

BOWLING, POOL, BILLIARDS, PROGRESS OF THE GAMES.

The local bowling tournament, under the auspices of the Newton Club, has not sufficiently progressed to yet demonstrate the winners of first and second place. The matches, so far, have been notable for closeness in scores between the leading teams, and marked by excellent individual playing. Since the last issue of the GRAPHIC the following games have been played:

NOTES.

The Interclub Bowling League, at its meeting Monday evening last, adopted the following standard for pins, alleys and balls: "Any club joining the league the coming season must have alleys 70 feet long, 60 feet from foul line to head pin, 42 inches wide; pins 16 inches high, 15 inches in circumference, 2 1/8 inches on the ball, balls either finger or solid, not to exceed 27 inches in circumference; pins to be placed in equilateral triangle of 38 inches from centre of ball to pins, 12 inches apart." The annual centre pins, 12 inches apart, will be held at the Boston Athletic Association on the second Monday in September next. The teams which composed the league the past season, representing the Boston Athletic Association, Norfolk House Casino Club, Newton Club and Newton Boat Club, will contest for the two handsome silver cups offered by Mr. Lee at the Woodland Park Hotel on the evenings of May 2 and 3.

Every lady who can conveniently visit Boston this month, should see the wonderful display of new spring Draperies and Hanging in the Upholstery parlors of Wells & Woolson, Prop'rs, Lisbon, N. H., or H. O. CUSHING, Manager, 19 Ashburton place, Boston, until June 1.

THE NEWELL GIRLS.

BY EMILY HUNTINGTON MILLER.

Capt. Peter Newell was dead. He was born a tyrant, and ten years of suffering had soured all the sweetness and sharpened all the angles of his nature, so that the villagers were excusable for considering his decease as a happy release for his daughters, if not for the old captain.

"What the girls going to do now, S'lina?" asked Miss Dorothy Baxter, leaning over the gate for a chat with Selina Rogers, who was scouring the steps of the Newell mansion as the finishing touch to her cleaning.

Selina was in haste and answered shortly, "Same's other folks do; have to make their own livin'." I reckon. They ain't so bad off; they've got the house and garden."

"There's where you're in a mistake, S'lina. Margaret Newell never did as other folks do, and she ain't goin' to begin now. I shouldn't be a mite surprised is she set up to be a lawyer or a doctor, or something new-fangled."

"Well, said Selina, "she hain't consulted me about it, but I'll be bound she'd make a smarter lawyer than that gump of a Jim Downey any day," and she emptied her suds with a quick swing around the roots of her favorite rose-bush.

"Goodness, S'lina, you've splashed my new alpaca! I sh'd think you might be more careful, flinging slops about," and Miss Dorothy walked on with a vexed air, while Selina marched gravely into her kitchen.

Margaret Newell, sitting idly behind the curtain of her window, heard the talk, and laughed a little at its abrupt termination.

"She's right, though," she said to Helen. "We must do something, and at once. Aunt Jimma will not send us anything now papa is gone. I wouldn't touch it if she did, and what is there for girls to do? One thing is sure; we must pay Selina and let her go. Of course we cannot afford to keep a servant."

Margaret took her purse and went to the kitchen.

"We hate to let you go, Selina; it seems as if you belonged to us after all these years, but you will have your choice of good places. I know of a dozen people who would be glad to get you at any price."

Selina was polishing her bare elbows on the towel, and she gave it a whisk across her eyes before she answered:

"Well, I sh'd not call it to live out of a spell. I sh'd feel as if I'd been sold into bondage. I've got a good machine, and there's lots wants plain sewing done; and if you don't mind my stayin' here, and kinder working round for my board, it would suit me better'n being cooped up in one of them boarding houses."

Margaret's heart grew lighter at the very thought of keeping the faithful woman in the family.

"I wonder if we couldn't all take in sewing together?" she said. But Selina shook her head.

"You might stan' it, Miss Margaret, although you know you hate sewin', but Helen never could. She's her mother over again; slim waist and narrer shoulders. Stitches would run her right down. If you wasn't ladies now, but just common sort of folks, there's something you could do to make money a sight easier than slavin' over your needle; but lawful sakes! I don't know but your pa would rise up in his grave to hear me speak of it."

"What do you mean, Selina? You know that Helen and I have no foolish ideas about respectability. I do hate sewing; that is to make a business of it. I would a great deal sooner drop corn or hoe potatoes, if any one would hire me."

"Well," said Selina, "I've got a right about ever since the railroad came across the orchard. Seemed at first as if I never could forgive 'em for cuttin' down the Elder Sweetin' trees, and not leavin' a decent tree of bakin' apples. But bimely I got to thinkin' how a body could get their money out of 'em, after all. Now, you just look a-hear, Miss Margaret, and Selina drew back the curtain with a sweep of her long arm, and nodded her head significantly.

Margaret looked from the window across a sloping garden, filled with flowers and small fruits, from which the railroad had cut off the lower corner. Across the track toward the ugly water-tank, in front of which a train was standing. The passengers were looking from the windows, and crowding the platforms, some even making their way along the yellow clay of the embankment in their impatience to reach the restaurant, from whose door a gong was sending forth its horrible din. Selina's face wore a smile of mingled pity and contempt, as she watched them.

"They're in an awful stew to get to Dan Conley's tavern, and till themselves with tough meat and soggy potatoes and sour bread, and the sops Jane Conley calls coffee. And they'll pay him the price of a good meal for that miserable stuff. Now there's some sensible folks travel on railroads, as well as a heap of fools; and don't you see, Miss Margaret, if a nice, tidy boy should come along under their car windows with a big tray covered with a white cloth, and a lot of nice little lunches all put up in white paper, for a quarter, he could sell as many as they was passion grasses? And if he had a table there in that arbor, couldn't he just do business? You like to cook, Miss Margaret, and if you'd make nice, sweet rolls, and such wholesome vittles, and Helen would do 'em up tasty, and then have a smart boy to sell 'em, you could just take in any amount of custom."

Margaret looked at Selina a moment, and then astonished the kind-hearted woman by rushing at her and giving her a vigorous squeeze, and saying:

"Selina, you're a genius! I'll build you a monument in the garden," and away she ran to find Helen, with she was forlornly drumming over her old piano exercises, and trying to believe she could give music lessons.

"Put away that book, sweetheart. Selina has discovered our mission," and she explained the scheme to Helen, with such amplification as suggested themselves to her fertile brain.

"Who'll sell them?" asked Helen, dubbiously, as Margaret was expatiating upon the aesthetic lunches of dainty rolls, crisp cookies, wafers of meat, and a delicate relish of fruit.

"You might do it, Helen. You'd be irresistible in a milkmaid's dress," and Margaret looked rapturously at her sister, with a vision of her blue eyes and yellow hair under a straw hat, tied with broad ribbons under her chin.

"O Margaret!" said Helen, in such an appealing tone that Margaret came to her senses, and laughed heartily. "You didn't think I meant it, dear? Mrs. Mowry will be only too glad to lend us some of her flock, and I foresee it the business prospering Selina will never be able to stick to her machine. I really wish it was proper to open out to-day, but I am going to take account of stock this minute. Isn't it lucky that the strawberries were re-set last year? There'll be bushels of them, and we can sell them all."

"And the flowers," added Helen; but Margaret was already out of hearing.

Now if these two girls had chosen to stave upon the small amount they could earn by doing shop-work, or giving music lessons, or teaching embroidery, every one would have said it was eminently proper and ladylike, but the good people of Waterbury were shocked beyond expression when it came to their ears that Margaret and Helen Newell were supporting themselves in real comfort by selling luncheon at the railroad train. It did not matter that neither of them had any visible connection with the traveling public, or that Selina, leaving the machine to rest, pursued an active course over the Mowry boys, who acted as salesmen.

"Such pretty, ladylike girls, and so well-educated!" lamented Mrs. Col. Grimes. "It seems a pity they should throw away their prospects so."

Just what these prospects were was not stated, but Mrs. Grimes was an authority in Waterbury, from whose decision there was no appeal, and it was generally accepted that the Newell girls had done something unladylike, and thrown away their prospects in an unpardonable manner.

In spite of it all the business prospered, and in one season almost outgrew the heads and hands that managed it. One crisp October day, when all the world seemed to be coming home from somewhere, a great blundering freight train managed to wreck itself upon the track at Waterbury station, and the passenger express was forced to wait at the tank for its slow removal. Selina, with her lieutenants, quickly disposed of every available eatable, and then stood guard at the gate to ward back intruders from the garden.

The very last lunch was laid in its white wrapper upon the lap of a sour-looking old lady, who received it with a growl of surprise, and put on her glasses to examine it.

"A fresh roll, a slice of tongue, a little sponge cake, and a bunch of grapes. You don't tell me, James, that a restaurant-keeper ever dreamed of such a lunch as that?"

James pointed to Selina, where she stood by the garden gate, like a grenadier on guard.

"There is the woman who dreamed it; at least, I took it from her hand, and the conductor tells me the Waterbury lunches have become famous all along the line."

"Waterbury; is this Waterbury? Why, that was where—where—how long are we going to be kept waiting here?"

"About an hour, the very best, and if it wasn't for leaving you, I should go out and see the town."

"Go on, for pity's sake," said the old lady. "If there's one thing more absurd than another, it's a man standing around, and trying to kill time."

The young man smiled and walked rapidly away, and as soon as he was out of sight the old lady left the car and made her way to where Selina was standing. She walked with a cane, partly on account of a slight lameness, but more because of her heavy figure, and the delight of using it to enforce her demands by vigorous thumps on the floor.

Selina stood with her arms rolled up in her gingham apron, watching her approach and reflecting:

"That's Cap'n Peter Newell riz out of his grave, or else his sister Jimma, the cold-hearted heathen!" and Miss Jimma Newell, for really, as she was so confronted with a countenance as resolute as her own.

"Do you live in this town?"

Selina nodded.

"Do you know where Captain Peter Newell's house is?"

"The only house he's got any claim to is in the buryin'-ground up yonder, unless he goes to heaven. I s'pose you knew he was dead?"

"Are his daughters living hereabouts?" the old lady asked, without the twitch of a muscle.

"They're living in the old house, and there ain't no smarter girls in the United States. Take after their mother's side, both of 'em, and lucky they do! I've heard tell their father's folks was tight-er'n the bark on a tree. Did you want to find the house, ma'am? Tain't very far off; you just go down to the turn yonder, and then up one set of stairs, and turn to the left a little piece, and you can't miss it. On this side of the road with a big elm tree by the gate."

Miss Jimma hesitated; it seemed like a long walk, but what should she do for four hours? So she walked slowly down the road, planting her cane firmly among the rustling leaves. As soon as she was gone Selina hurried up to the house with an air of intense satisfaction, her thin mouth twitching, and her gray eyes twinkling rapidly.

The girls were in the kitchen, Margaret deftly transferring countless cookies in the shape of oak leaves to the tins where they were to be baked, and Helen with her elbows on the table watching with a weary air.

"Isn't it awful, Margie, to put so much labor into nice things for all sorts of horrid people to see them?"

"Here comes one of 'em," said Selina, as Miss Jimma paused an instant at the front gate and then moved heavily up the walk, a little out of breath from her exercise.

"So this is Peter's house," she was saying to herself, and seeing the door open, she marched in and dropped into a big chair to rest.

In another moment Margaret was before her, quiet and dignified, looking into her face with eyes that very plainly asked her excuse for the intrusion.

Miss Jimma deliberately drew her spectacles from her bag, settled them upon her nose and surveyed Margaret from head to foot before she said:

"That woman lied; you're as clear a Newell as ever was born. Where is your sister?"

"I think," said Margaret, "you must be our Aunt Jimma; I will call Helen. Will you come into the parlor?"

"Thank you, I am very comfortable here. You have not said you were glad to see me, and I dare say you're not, but that makes no difference. I came for my own gratification and got yours."

It was well that Miss Jimma's back was toward the kitchen, or even her courage might have quailed before the glare Selina cast upon her as she pushed Helen forward and closed the door with a slam, while Helen, blushing and trembling, held out her hand to her aunt.

"Not much Newell about you; you're too pretty. Now what on earth was the use of two more Newell girls, where there isn't a boy to keep the name alive? Bah! I wish I had been a man instead of Peter."

"I wouldn't be a man for anything," said Margaret. "It's just as grand to be a woman."

"Grand! You'll find out, Miss Margaret, that there's very little use for grand people in this world. Grand, indeed! that was all my brother Peter was ever good for. If he had not been so grand, he might have earned his own living and supported his family, instead of leaving them beggars."

"I beg your pardon, aunt, though you ought to ask mine for speaking so of your brother. He was a very good man. We have a good home, and a business that more than supports us," and Margaret met her aunt's stare with a resolute face.

"Business!" said Miss Jimma; "may I ask what?"

Margaret hesitated an instant, and then to Helen's horror threw open the kitchen door, saying:

"Come and see."

The great, clean, sunshiny room was filled with a warm, spicy smell, mingled with the odor of a basket of purple grapes, which Helen saw rapidly slipping into small bunches.

"Do you keep boarders?" asked Miss Jimma, looking curiously about her.

"Is thy servant a dog?" exclaimed Margaret, merrily. "See, aunt, our business came to us."

Miss Jimma's eyes followed the direction of Margaret's finger, and took in the garden, the train, the impatient people, and her own gentlemanly escort sauntering up the path towards the house.

"Our train, as sure as I am alive! and this is where my lunch came from!"

Margaret nodded.

"Wasn't it good and cheap?"

"It really was both; but I don't understand. That woman at the gate sent me around Robin Hood's barn to get here; I more'n half believe—"

"How dare you, Selina, and asked with a thump on her cane.

"How dare you, you impertinent thing, make game of an old woman like me?"

"We don't keep a turnpike through the garden; if we was once to begin letting folks through, there'd be no livin' here."

"That's my nephew, your cousin James Dyer," said Miss Jimma suddenly. "If I couldn't come through the garden, he shan't either," and going to the door she peremptorily ordered the young man to go around the block and present himself properly at the front gate.

The young man laughed but obeyed, and was duly presented to his pretty cousins in the parlor, finding his new relatives so charming that when the whistle called the straggling travelers to the train, he was forced to drag Miss Jimma in unseemly haste down the garden path, and over the embankment, with only a hurried good-by. The two vanished from the horizon of Waterbury, and for a time the lives of the Newell girls went on in the same humdrum terms, for really, as guides, you may be sure that was Miss Jimma's party.

"My Dear Girls:—I am going abroad for two years, and you are going with me. I have been hating you ever since you were born, and I am ashamed of it. You deserve a good time, and you shall have it. Let us do the business with Selina, and tell her I forgive her for treating me so outrageously. Never mind about your clothes. We can get plenty of them in England. James will come for you next week."

Your aunt, JEMIMA NEWELL.

"I'd as lief travel with old dragon," said Selina; but Margaret and Helen did not think so; and in the year 1876 they happened to meet in Florence or Nice or Vienna a merry party of two pretty girls, escorted by a devoted young man and matronized by an old woman who was a terror to ladies and a letter to card, you may be sure that was Miss Jimma's party.

ZECHARIAH HODGSON AND HIS WIFE.

Zechariah Hodgson was not naturally an ill-natured man. It was want of reflection more than a corrupt and ungenerous heart that led him to consider his wife in the light of an inferior being, and to treat her more like a slave than an equal. If he met with anything abroad to ruffle his temper, his wife was sure to suffer when he came home. His meals were always ill-cooked, and whatever the poor woman did to please him was sure to have a contrary effect. She bore his ill-humor in silence for a long time, but finding it to increase, she adopted a method of reproving him for his unreasonable conduct, which had the happiest effect.

One day, as Zechariah was going to his daily avocation after breakfast, he purchased a large codfish and sent it home, with directions to his wife to have it cooked for dinner. As no particular mode of cooking was described the good woman well knew that whether she boiled it, or fried it, or made it into stew, her husband would scold her when he came home. But she resolved to please him for once, if possible, and therefore cooked portions of it in several different ways. She also, with some labor, but, procured an amiable animal from a brook at the back of the house and put it into the pot. In due time her husband came home—some covered dishes were placed on the table, and with a frowning, fault-finding look the moody man commenced the conversation.

"Well, wife, did you get the fish I bought?"

"Yes, my dear."

"I should like to know how you have cooked it—I will bet anything that you have spoiled it for my eating. (Taking off the covers.) I thought so. Why in the world did you fry it? I would as lief eat a boiled frog."

"Why, my dear, I thought you loved it best fried."

"You did not think any such thing. You know better. I never loved fried fish—why didn't you boil it?"

"My dear, the last time we had fish you know I boiled it, and you said you liked it better fried. I did it merely to please you; but I have boiled some also."

So saying, she lifted a cover, and lo! the shoulders of the cod, nicely boiled, were neatly deposited on a dish; a sight which would have made an epicure rejoice, but which now only added to the ill-nature of her husband.

"A pretty dish this!" exclaimed he. "Boiled fish! chips and porridge! If you had not been one of the most stupid of womankind you would have made it into a stew."

His patient wife, with a smile, immediately placed a tureen before him containing an excellent stew.

"My dear," said she, "I was resolved to please you. There is your favorite dish."

"Favorite dish, indeed!" grumbled the disconsolate husband; "I dare say it is an unpalatable wishy-washy mess. I would rather have had a boiled frog than the whole of it."

This was a common expression of his, and had been anticipated by his wife, who, as soon as the preference was expressed, uncovered a large dish at her husband's right arm, and there was a bull-frog of portentous dimensions and pug-nacious aspect stretched out at full length, just as if it were a piece of meat, and a chair not a little frightened at the unexpected apparition.

"My dear," said his wife, in a kind, entreating manner, "I hope you will at length be able to make a dinner."

Zachariah could not stand this. His sorry mood was overborne and he burst into a hearty laugh. He acknowledged his wife was right, declared she should not again have reason to complain of him, and kept his word.—[The Sword and Trowel.]

All Broken Down.

Is it not sad to see so many young men every day of whom this can be said? Young men, take my advice. Stop all indiscretions which have practised, kept good hours, retire early, and build up your shattered system by using Sulphur Bitters, which will cure you.—Old Physician.

The Great American Chorus.

Sneezing, snuffling and coughing! This is the music all over the land just now. "I've got such an awful cold in my head." Cure it with Ely's Cream Balm or it may end in the toughest form of catarrh. Maybe you have catarrh now. Nothing is more nauseous and dreadful. This remedy masters it as no other ever did. Not a sniff nor a liquid. Pleasant, certain, radical.

Tourists.

Whether on pleasure bent or business, should take on every trip a bottle of Syrup of Figs, as it is most pleasantly and effectively on the kidneys, liver and bowels, preventing fevers, headaches and other forms of sickness. For sale in 50c. and $1.00 bottles by all leading druggists.

The Spring Medicine.

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It restores the wasted elements of health-giving, blood-purifying and appetite-restoring, which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefited by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

A Spring Medicine.

The druggists claim that people call daily for the new cure for constipation and sick headache, discovered by Dr. Elias Lane while in the Rocky Mountains. It is said to be Oregon grape root (a great remedy in the far west for those complaints) combined with simple herbs, and is made for use by pouring on boiling water to draw out the strength. It sells at 50 cents a package and is called Lane's Family Medicine.

For the delicate and aged and all in whom the vital current is impoverished and sluggish, Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the very best tonic. It restores the wasted tissues, and imparts to the system surprising elasticity and vigor. Price $1. Worth $5 a bottle.

The safest and surest investments are in land. An opportunity is offered by the Sioux City Valley Land Co. to invest in that rapidly growing city, where values are constantly advancing from the legitimate growth and development of its manufacturing interests. Faldwin & Co., 33 Equitable Building, Boston, will cheerfully mail facts of interest to any address.

For nearly half a century Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has been the most popular cough remedy in the world. The constantly increasing demand for this remedy proves it to be the very best specific for colds, coughs, and all diseases of the throat and lungs.

We heartily recommend the Rock Island Excursions to our readers going west. They run through Pullman Tourist Cars from Boston every two weeks, via Union Depots, are personally conducted, and at very low rates. Call on your Western Ticket Agent, and write E. W. Thompson, E. P. A., 226 Washington Street, Boston.

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and we ask you to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. It strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. The peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation of the vegetable remedies used give to Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar curative powers. No other medicine has such a record of wonderful cures. If you have made up your mind to take any other instead, it is a Peculiar Medicine, and is worthy your confidence.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

chimneys."

"What! are they all gone?"

"Yes."

"I'm going to try a sort I've been reading about, if I have to send to Pittsburgh for 'em. Macbeth & Co.'s 'pearl-top.' They say their chimneys don't break."

"Another humbug, probably."

"Don't Muggins keep 'em?"

"I'm going to see. Give me a postal card. I'll have that chimney, anyhow."

Muggins got 'em for him, and did a thriving chimney business for several weeks, till everybody got 'em; and somehow his trade has increased all round ever since.

—The tickets for the N. C. Social club ball, this evening, have been selling fast, this week.
—The Newton Centre and Newton base ball clubs play on Walworth field tomorrow afternoon.
—Mr. John Stearns' house on Parker street, has been leased by parties from Auburn.
—Rev. W. W. Hayward of Medford, will occupy the pulpit in the Unitarian church next Sunday.
—Rev. L. C. Barnes led the Young People's meeting at the Baptist parlor, Tuesday evening.
—Dr. Mary E. Bates will represent a Boston Medical Society at the International Congress at Berlin.
—Mr. Papa, Beacon street, is moving his furniture to Dorchester, Mass., where he intends to reside.
—The old Lower Falls Horse carriage house is now helping draw one of Mr. Frost's water carts.
—Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Mosher and Mr. Edwin Mosher, left Mr. T. C. Armstrong's Tuesday last, for California.
—Moses Bright, who was taken to the Newton Cottage Hospital last week, returned Tuesday much improved.
—Rev. Reuben Thomas, D. D., will preach at the Congregational church Sunday morning at 10.30, and the pastor at 7 p. m.
—Mrs. W. H. Ashley and Miss Mary E. Ashley of Fall River, have been guests at the home of Mrs. Chas. A. Clark, Beacon street.
—Rev. Dr. Butler and family of Crescent avenue, have gone to Providence, R. I., where they will visit friends for a few weeks.
—A steam fitting and heating shop is being fitted up on the Beacon street side of Cousen's block, by Mr. McAdams of Newtonville.
—Miss Jennie C. Clark of Beacon street gave a very pleasant Progressive Angling party Friday last in honor of her cousin, Miss Ashley.
—Mr. W. E. Colby returned from the Western States the first of this week, and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Colby, of Gibbs street.
—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nickerson who have been stopping at the Hotel Brunswick, Boston, for several weeks, have returned to their home on Centre street.
—It is probable that some definite action will be taken by the Boston & Albany railroad corporation, as regards our new depot, as soon as the new street is finished.
—Miss Helen Hovey is making preparations to go to Yokohama, Japan, sometime next month, where her aunt, Mrs. Carpenter, is now engaged in missionary work.
—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. H. Dole have gone to Morganton, North Carolina. The journey was made in the evening, after proving decidedly beneficial to Mr. Dole, whose health is poor.
—The Sunday School Conference at Portland, Me., last week, was attended by Miss Forbes, Miss Hope, Miss Hovey and quite a number of other ladies of this place, who report an interesting session.
—Officer Fletcher and Officer Bartlett, took a woman and a man to West Newton, Tuesday evening, to answer the charge of drunkenness. The former was a newly arrived domestic, and caused some trouble before being arrested.
—Frank Heald fell from the top of a ladder while at work on the residence of Mr. J. R. Leeson, Monday, and injured his back severely. The round of the ladder upon which he was standing broke. Dr. Loring is attending him.
—The faculty and members of the graduating class of the Newton Theological school will be entertained in the Melancon in Boston, next Monday evening by the Baptist Social Union. A choice program has been prepared, and an evening of rare enjoyment is anticipated.
—The Charles Ward Post Camp Fire comes off Wednesday evening, the 30th. Judge Bishop will preside, and Mayor Burr and others will be present. Col. E. H. Haskell will give reminiscences of the war and of Abraham Lincoln. All are invited, young and old, men and women.
—Mr. Asa W. Amington has for years been an expert specialist in precious stones, engaged with Shreve, Crump & Lowe of Boston. He has very recently become a member of the firm. All who know him will wish him the largest measure of success in this new department.
—Chas. Hamill, clerk for Messrs. W. O. Knapp & Co., set his hand Tuesday quite seriously. While getting off his team with a jug, the horse started, throwing him to the ground, and breaking the jug, upon which he fell. Dr. Loring attended to the wound, and his position at the store for the present is taken by Thomas Buckley.
—Rumor says Cousen's block will be moved to a location opposite the depot sometime in the near future, and the land upon which it now stands, laid out as a square, all through the instrumentality of the live Newton Centre Improvement Association, whose constant efforts are making this place one of the pleasantest of Newton's many villages.
—The handsome bull terrier owned by Mr. A. R. Flanders was found dead on a neighbor's lawn, the other day, with a bullet through his head. He had been owned by Mr. Flanders for six years, and was a great pet in the neighborhood. No one heard the shot, and there is a great deal of indignation that any one should have killed such an affectionate and intelligent dog.
—The residence of Mr. C. Howard Wilson, Elgin street, was entered by thieves early Monday morning and considerable jewelry and silver was stolen. Among articles taken was a lady's gold hunting-case watch, marked inside the case, "Tiffany & Co., New York, 23,814"; also 12 silver egg spoons and lined, marked "A. D." silver salad spoon, marked "A. A. D. from M. E. F."; eight silver napkin rings, marked "G. E. H."; two silver salt-cellars, silver jug, silver plate and fish knives, silver-plated soup tureen, silver soup and gravy ladles, and other articles of jewelry and silverware, the whole valued at about $400.

The Village Carnival.

—The postponed carnival came off on Monday evening, and was a very successful affair in every respect.
—The committee on entertainment of the Improvement Society, Mr. Joseph W. Parker, Mr. Avery L. Rand and Mr. Wm. B. Peters had arranged for a very informal, pleasant evening, with the help of the matrons. The latter were the following ladies: Mrs. Joseph W. Parker, Mrs. Wm. N. Bartholomew, Mrs. Avery L. Rand, Mrs. Edwin F. Melcher, Mrs. Frank H. Scudder, Mrs. Samuel A.

Shannon, Mrs. David B. Harding, Mrs. Lewis R. Spear, Mrs. Albert L. Harwood, Mrs. Edward H. Mason, Mrs. Harry W. Mason, Mrs. Wm. M. Flanders, Mrs. Charles R. White, Mrs. Charles D. Barry, Mrs. Edward A. Cutler.

At five p. m. the hall was filled with happy children. George C. Gott's Orchestra furnished music for both afternoon and evening, giving an overture at five.
—Miss Maud Monroe gave the Highland Fling in costume, followed by Mr. Loring B. Brooks and his dolls. The children appreciated them and could hardly believe they did not really talk. At six o'clock the children formed a grand march into the supper room where the matrons attended to their needs. The supper room was filled by them.
—Supper was followed by a program of music, etc.
—Whistling solo, Miss Whitaker.
—Recitation, "The School Boy," Miss Carter.
—Soprano solo, Miss Whitaker.
—Harmonica solo, Mr. Carter.
—Whistling duet, Mr. Carter, Miss Whitaker.

This was followed by the Mother Goose Quadrille in costume, which was a great success. The young people who danced in it were as follows:
—Mary, Mary, quite Contrary, Miss Peters; Queen of Hearts, Miss Fennessy; Maid in the Garden, Miss Smith; A fine lady on a white horse, Miss Bassett; Jill, Miss Annie Fennessy; Mother Hubbard, Miss Gaudin; Bo Peep, Miss Leecompte; My Pretty Maid, Miss Stuart; Dick Whittington, Mr. Cutler; Grenadier, Mr. Shannon; King in Parlor, Mr. May; Old King Cole, Mr. Peters; Jack, Mr. Nickerson; Tom, Tom the Piper's Son, Mr. Clark; Little Boy Blue, Mr. Tomlinson; Bobby Shafto, Mr. Stevens; Mrs. Shannon directed the dancing. The two quadrilles were singing appropriate music while dancing.

After this Miss Monroe danced the Fisher's Hornpipe in costume and won hearty applause by the perfection of her dancing.
—The program was repeated at eight o'clock for the older people.
—Several hundred were in the hall during the afternoon and evening. At nine o'clock Mr. W. B. Peters took command of the floor and dancing continued until twelve o'clock.
—The aids of the floor director were Mr. W. T. May, Mr. W. E. Leecompte, Mr. W. H. A. Clark, Mr. M. L. Stevens, Mr. Harry A. Tomlinson, Mr. F. F. Cutler, Mr. Ernest Nickerson.
—We have no doubt but what a good sum will be handed over to the Play Ground Fund from this entertainment.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—The Roundabout Club will meet next week with Mrs. Logan.
—Rev. Herbert D. Ward preached at the Congregational church last Sabbath.
—Mrs. Cram has returned from her sojourn of several weeks in Florida.
—The Chautauqua Club will hold their next meeting with Mrs. J. F. C. Hyde.
—Messrs. Richmond & Poor sold eight from their stock of horses while at the Highlands.
—Mr. H. N. Williams, for several years past a resident of the Highlands, has removed to Newton.

—Advertised letters are Frank Cappan, Miss Lucy Goodrich, Miss Annie McCann, Mrs. Leonard Yuttle.
—We learn that some house lots have been sold to one of our residents, on which to erect houses.

—Miss Bertha O'Connor and Miss Emma Pike are at home for a few days' vacation, from the Normal school at Framingham.

—Mr. E. H. Tarbell has commenced a cellar for a house on his lot on Forest street.
—Mr. D. S. Ward preached at the Congregational church last Sabbath.
—Mr. A. W. Small of Forest street has leased the house on Walnut street formerly occupied by Rev. C. P. Mills and belonging to St. Paul's society.

—Mrs. S. C. Cobb has a cellar staked out on the corner of Chester street and Hillside avenue. Mr. E. M. Sullivan will be the builder of the house.

—Mrs. S. W. Jones and child started Thursday for a visit of several weeks at Dayton, Ohio. Mr. Jones will accompany them as far as New York.

—J. A. L. Pratt has commenced to put up a house on his lot, lately purchased of Mr. M. G. Crane, on a new street running from Duncklee to Walnut street.

—The Monday Club will meet with Mrs. Brown next week. At this meeting Rev. J. D. Phillips will read his paper on "Experiences in the Ascent of Vesuvius."

—Mr. F. B. Spear and wife who have been boarding at Kellar's, have gone to housekeeping in a part of the house occupied by Mr. L. F. Mason on Woodward street.

—The funeral of the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Geyer took place at their residence on Thursday at 2.30. Rev. Mr. Phipps conducted the service. The family have the sympathy of the community in their loss.

—Mr. Charles O. Bassett of the firm of Bassett Bros., hide and leather dealers, Purchase street, Boston, has leased the house on Floral avenue lately vacated by Mr. J. W. Mitchell and belonging to Mr. W. S. Richards.

—The grand wind-up of the season is to be a reading by the Rev. Herbert D. Ward, next Wednesday evening, in Lincoln Hall. The people are to be congratulated upon having this opportunity of hearing personal experiences in the Ascent of Vesuvius.

—The manuscript was read by Mrs. Clark to the acceptance of all present.

—Mrs. J. F. Heckman gave an address before Brockton ladies, last week, who were desirous of forming a Ladies' Hospital Aid Society, and the address was such an instructive one that the meeting voted to form a society after the pattern of the one in Newton. A report of the address is given in another column.

—Mr. H. S. Lincoln of Winchester street, while driving near the corner of Lake avenue and Walnut street on Tuesday, on account of the breaking of the transmission bolt was thrown violently to the ground, receiving a severe concussion upon the face and hand and a general shaking up, but fortunately his injuries have not prevented him from attending to business.

—The Society of Christian Endeavor celebrated its fifth anniversary on Wednesday evening at the church. After a sociable in the chapel the society and its guests, including representatives of Christian Endeavor Societies in the vicinity, partook of an elegant supper. A consecration meeting was then held in the chapel conducted by the president of the Christian Endeavor Union, Mr. C. D. Hills. This meeting was one long to be remembered for its power and helpfulness. At 8 o'clock public exercises took place in the church conducted by Mr. S. W. Jones, president of the Newton Highlands Society. Rev. Mr. Phipps and Rev. Mr. Harriman took part in the preliminary exercises, Miss Sarah A. Thompson read the secretary's report, and a quartet aided in the singing. The address of the evening was delivered by Rev. J. W. Hamilton of East Boston.

Hotel Langwood and Cottages have opened for the season. This popular summer resort bids fair to be thronged with guests as in seasons past, on account of its picturesque location.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Master Will Fanning is riding a new Victor bicycle.
—Mr. A. S. Foster of Chelsea is visiting friends here in town.
—Mr. Fred J. Gould is setting out trees in front of his house.

—Dr. Hildreth is in Ipswich, N. H., this week, visiting his father.
—Mr. John A. Gould, Jr., was in Pennsylvania on business last week.

—Mr. F. M. Train of Phipps & Train is in Duxbury, Mass., for a few days' vacation.
—Mr. P. F. Lilly is south again setting up machinery for the Pettie Machine Works.

—The W. B. S. S. Club have had their pictures taken by the travelling artist in the square.
—Mr. E. C. Frost is laying out his front yard with beds which will soon be radiant with flowers.

—The many friends of Mr. R. T. Sullivan are glad to see him so much improved as to be able to ride out.
—Mr. Joseph Chapman is visiting his old friends about town this week. He was formerly a resident here.

—Mr. Strong and family of Chestnut street who have resided here for about a year, have removed to Boston.
—It is decided by the Pettie Machine Works to close their shops at noon Saturdays, through the summer months.

—Miss Kenney's house, Winter street, is being thoroughly renovated, repaired and improved through Mr. Martin McDonald's efforts.
—Miss Ella Curtis entertained a small party of her friends, last Friday evening, before returning to her school labors at Athol, Mass.

—Phipps & Train's boarding house is undergoing considerable change, in repairs and enlargement, to accommodate their additional help.
—Mr. James Barnard is greatly improving the ground around his residence, and has hired Hiram Knapp to attend to his gardening.

—Rev. John Peterson will conduct the usual preaching service Sunday morning at the Methodist church, but in the evening there will be special preaching service to which all are invited.

—Mr. Simeon Proctor contemplates erecting two or three double houses on Elliot street the coming season. One of them has already been designed by Mr. Daniel Henley, and will soon be commenced.

Mr. Lanson is a graduate of the Newton High school, and afterward worked himself through a college course at Harvard, and his former friends here congratulate him on his success.

—Officer Purcell has been doing some hard work this week and last, hunting up the cause of disagreeable odors from the Charles river near what is known as the basin. On Wednesday morning, after several days' tireless search, the remains of a horse were found in a horse shoe like cage between the basin and Kendrick's bridge. The chief of police and agent of the board of health were at once notified, and nuisance would probably be attended to soon.

—The usual morning services were held at the Baptist and Methodist churches last Sunday, and in the evening a union meeting was held at the former edifice, at the invitation of the Rev. Mr. L. O. G. T. Addresses were made by Rev. Mr. Dearborn of the Grand Lodge of Massachusetts, and Miss Jennie Forsyth, Grand Superintendent of the Grand Lodge of the State of New York.

—A large number were in attendance and the meeting was very interesting.

—Rev. Mr. Peterson officiated at the funeral of Mr. Andrew Kaupp, which was largely attended. In his remarks Mr. Peterson said that the deceased was an honest man, a loss to the community as well as to his family. His word was always as good as his bond, and there are many who regret that he is no longer with us, and their influence is needed in every community. The deceased left the following children: Mr. Andrew Kaupp of Auburn, Mass.; Mr. Charles Kaupp of Taunton, Mass.; Mrs. A. M. Kaupp of Taunton, Mass.; and Miss Christine both of this village.

—A pleasant wedding occurred at the Methodist church on Wednesday evening last, the contracting parties being Miss Anna Wide and Mr. Ephraim M. Estelle, both of this village. A large company of invited guests were present and the ceremony was performed by Rev. John Peterson, pastor of the church. Later in the evening a reception was held at the residence of the bride's father, on High street, a company of about one hundred being in attendance and leaving behind them a large number of valuable presents as tokens of their good will to Mr. and Mrs. Estelle.

—A large number were in attendance at the camp fire given by Charles Ward Post 62, G. A. R., last Tuesday evening in old Prospect schoolhouse hall. The post formed in line down stairs and entered the hall to the beat of the drum, and singing in chorus. Marching up the aisle to the platform they broke ranks and took their seats.

—President Potter of the board of education was asked by Commander Whitney to preside during the evening. Speeches were made by Commander Whitney, Councilman E. L. Collins of Waban, Mr. Mils Peterson of Woburn, and others. The post and others. Music was rendered during the evening by an orchestra of six pieces, and singing by the post and the audience.

—The North Church will hold a reunion on Thursday evening, at which occasion the roll will be called and refreshments served. The ladies will meet at six o'clock.

—Mrs. J. L. Ballantyne and daughter are at Fulton, N. Y., to attend the wedding of Miss May Hamilton, formerly of this village. The ceremony will occur at that place on Tuesday next and Miss Bertha Ballantyne will act as maid of honor.

—Mr. and Mrs. Jas. McCutcheon are receiving a visit from Mr. McCutcheon's sister of Waterville, P. Q.

—The reading and amusement room at the Athenaeum will close May 1st, after three months of very successful work. The cooking, carpenter and sewing school will be opened during vacation and without doubt will be well patronized.

—The Good Templar Lodge will hold their anniversary next Wednesday evening.
—About thirty members of St. Elmo Division, No. 94, Sons of Temperance, paid a visit to Banner Division of Cambridgeport on Wednesday evening. A collation was served by Banner division, and with music, speaking, songs and recitation, the hours sped swiftly by.

—Business is improving at the Nonantum mills, the wool sorters who have been idle for more than a month are now at work again.

—Jonas Sughen for five years overseer of the spinning and weaving mills, got through last Thursday morning.

—The Lowery Y. P. C. E. Society celebrated its third anniversary by holding a social gathering in the vestry of the North Church on Tuesday evening.

School Board in Session.

The regular monthly meeting of the school board was held in the high school building, Wednesday evening. Mayor Burr presided and 11 members were present. On motion of Mr. Barnard, it was voted to appropriate $10,455 for the expenditures of the current month. It was voted to adopt Ray's New Text Examples in Arithmetic for use in the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth grades; to authorize the purchase of copies of Harper's Second Book in Arithmetic and Seymour Eaton's New Arithmetic for the teachers of the fourth and fifth grades; also to substitute King's Geographical Reader in place of Miss Hall's Our World, No. 1, for use in the fourth grade, whenever the books now in use are worn out and the purchase of new books becomes necessary.

The resignation of M. C. Laffie as trustee of the board was accepted. An order was adopted after an explanation given by Mr. Travis, authorizing the daughter of S. P. Whitman to attend the High school in consideration of a payment of $25 per annum.

On motion of Mr. Lawrence after the rules of the board had been suspended, it was voted to add to the standing committees, a committee on physical culture, and another appointed as the committee on the teachers of the six grammar grades and copies of Greenleaf's Brief Course in Arithmetic for the teachers of the fourth and fifth grades; also to substitute King's Geographical Reader in place of Miss Hall's Our World, No. 1, for use in the fourth grade, whenever the books now in use are worn out and the purchase of new books becomes necessary.

The resignation of M. C. Laffie as trustee of the board was accepted. An order was adopted after an explanation given by Mr. Travis, authorizing the daughter of S. P. Whitman to attend the High school in consideration of a payment of $25 per annum.

On motion of Mr. Lawrence after the rules of the board had been suspended, it was voted to add to the standing committees, a committee on physical culture, and another appointed as the committee on the teachers of the six grammar grades and copies of Greenleaf's Brief Course in Arithmetic for the teachers of the fourth and fifth grades; also to substitute King's Geographical Reader in place of Miss Hall's Our World, No. 1, for use in the fourth grade, whenever the books now in use are worn out and the purchase of new books becomes necessary.

It was voted on motion of Mr. Lawrence to authorize the employment of Miss Jennie E. Ireson as a teacher of practical gymnastics, at a salary of $500 per annum in addition to $500 paid for her services as teacher of the same branch in the High school, provided that two days of her time each week be given to the primary and grammar schools. The same order had been previously passed, was reconsidered Wednesday, and again passed by a yeas and nays vote 8 to 3. It was brought up by Mr. Lawrence in order that there might be no misunderstanding as to the manner in which Miss Ireson's time was given to the work. The order occasioned more or less discussion. Mr. Barnard, Mr. Bell and Mr. Parker expressing dissatisfaction with the arrangement of the hours.

On motion of Mr. Hale an order was adopted requesting the city council to appropriate $50 per month for the conveyance of pupils from the south side of the city to the High school. Its passage was opposed by Messrs. Barnard and Bell.

Messrs. Travis, Bell and Barnard were appointed a committee to act with a committee of the city council in conferring with the Boston & Albany Railroad to secure lower rates for high school pupils.

SATURDAY, MAY 3d.
10 O'CLOCK.

Sealed proposals will be received by the Newton Water Board, at their office at the City Hall, West Newton, Mass., until 12 o'clock, noon, on Friday, May 16th, 1890, for labor and materials required for building a Masonry Reservoir, about 175 feet long by 115 feet wide, 14 feet deep, covered with brick arches, on Waban Hill.

A certified check for one thousand dollars upon a National Bank of the City of Newton or Boston, drawn and made payable to the Treasurer of the City of Newton, must accompany each proposal.

All proposals must be made out on blank forms, furnished by the Board.

Plans and specifications can be seen at the office of the City Engineer, City Hall, West Newton, Mass., on and after Wednesday, April 24th, 1890. The Water Board reserve the right to reject any and all bids, if they deem it for the interest of the City so to do.

ALBERT F. NOYES, City Engineer.
